BULLETINS.

By the Associated Press.

HIGHLANDS NAVESINK, 10 A. M. The Defender is sailing off and on between Sandy Hook and Scotland lightship, and after standing in shore on the port tack came about and stood back toward Sandy Hook on the starboard tack. The Valkyrie was also out a mile and a half to leeward. The fog lifted afterward and Sandy Hook lightship can be discerned. Wind S. by W. and light.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP MACKAY-BENNETT, 10 A. M.—The Valkyrie and Defender are beating about off the lightship. The wind is S. by W., very light and the sea smooth. There is much fog about and it lifts occasionally. As the day wears on the prospects for racing appear better, although there is not as much wind as could be wished for.

10:20 A. M.—The Defender's sails were never seen in better shape. The tug boat Luckenbach, with the turning marks on board has just passed.

HIGHLANDS, 10:20 A. M.—both boats have arrived at the lightship. They have a fair breeze from the south, blowing about five or six miles an hour, and are only about half a mile apart, standing in shore. The Defender is a little to windward.

STEAMSHIP MACKAY-BENNETT, 10:45 A. M.—The committee boat has displayed the course signals. The first leg of the triangle will be direct south, second N.E. by E, third N. W. by W. half west.

10:49 A. M.—The preparatory signal has been fired.

11:05 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line, but the Defender before crossing carried away her topmast. The American yacht raised the protest flag.

11:10 A. M.—The Defender claims the Valkyrie violated the racing rules by bearing down on her and carrying away her starboard shroud. The protest is accepted.

11:11 A. M.—The Defender's topmast is evidently badly sprung, although not carried away. Both yachts are now on the starboard tack. They are carrying mainsails, club topsails, staysails, jibs and No. 2 jib topsails. Defender is in the lead but to leeward.

11:13 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line at 11:00.13, Defender 11:01:15.

11:18 A. M.—Valkyrie is still to the windward by half a mile. Both boats are on the port tack pointing about the same. The wind is south half west, five knots.

HIGHLANDS, 11:22 A. M.—The Defender is sailing a great race and has gained over an eighth of a mile in the last ten minutes. She is constantly eating through the lea of the Valkyrie.

11:35 A. M.—Both yachts are still holding in short on the port tack. The Defender has just broken out her jib topsail. The crew is having difficulty in making it set well and it is being hauled down.

11:35 A. M.—Both yachts are now but two miles from this point directly east and headed southwest. The Defender is sailing closer to the wind that the Valkyrie.

11:40 A. M.—Both yachts are still holding on the port tack.

11:45 A. M.—The Defender seems to have dropped a little in the last ten minutes, but is still continuing to point higher than the Valkyrie. The Valkyrie has a lead of about three-eighths of a mile.

11:50 A. M.—Both yachts are now passing this point and holding along sharp, as the wind has shifted a trifle to the eastward. The Valkyrie is gaining a little, but the wind is not over six miles an hour.

LONG BRANCH, 11:50 A. M.—The yachts have come in view off this place and are standing down this way. They are making frequent tacks. No stakeboat has arrived yet.

HIGHLANDS, 12:05 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems to be pulling a little away from the Defender and while not pointing as high as her is footing apparently a little faster.

12:12 P. M.—The Valkyrie it seems from here, has a lead of nearly half a mile.

12:22 P. M.—The Valkyrie has just come about on the starboard tack. The Defender followed suit directly in her wake. She was walking by the Valkyrie just before the two boats tacked. The Defender is now only one-fourth of a mile behind. She is directly in line with the Valkyrie and is closing up the gap and going through the water at a great rate. The yachts are both in line from this point and the Defender's gain can easily be seen.

12:23 P. M.—The Defender is only a short distance behind the Valkyrie and is certainly out-footing her. The wind has freshened and the American yacht has sailed a wonderfully fast race in the last ten minutes.

LONG BRANCH, 12:30 P. M.—The stake-boat has taken up a position off this shore. The Valkyrie has been leading the Defender but the latter seems to have crept up considerably to the center and now appears ahead of the English yacht.

MACKAY-BENNETT, 12:14 P. M.—The Defender seems to be sailing by hits and starts today. For a while she has headed better than the Valkyrie but latterly she has tagged off. Within the past few minutes, however, she has made a better spurt and is now out-pointing the Valkyrie wonderfully. There is quite a stretch of water between them, however, probably about 150 yards.

HIGHLANDS, 12:43 P. M.—The Defender is now fairly out-pointing the Valkyrie and is directly in her wake and only about a quarter of a mile astern. The yachts have sailed about eight miles of the first leg of the course and when they tack again should be even with the first mark off Long Branch.

12:50 P. M.—It seems as if the Defender is constantly decreasing the gap between herself and the Valkyrie. The latter cannot be much in the lead. At 12:40 the Western Union says the Valkyrie seems to be about half a mile ahead and still on the starboard tack standing southeast.

NEW YORK, 12:15 P. M.—According to the New York World miniature yachts the Defender is ahead.

HIGHLANDS, 12:53 P. M.—Both yachts seem to be getting into a nice breeze and are heeling over five or ten degrees. The Defender seems to be heeling over a little more than the Valkyrie. The American yacht is now well upwindward and it is possible she will round the first mark ahead of or at least close to her rival.

12:55 P. M.—Both yachts are still heeling up on the starboard tack. The Defender from here seems to have fallen off a little in her windward work.

1 P. M.—The Valkyrie has disappeared in the fog. The Defender can still be seen.

LONG BRANCH, 1:07 P. M.—The yachts have rounded the stake boat. The Valkyrie went around at 12:57:20, the Defender at 1:00:30.

HIGHLANDS 1:07 P. M.—According to the time taken here the Valkyrie rounded the first mark at 12:58.15; the Defender at 1:02:05.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 1:07 P. M.—The time of rounding the first stake boat as taken here is: Valkyrie 12:57:30; Defender, 1.00.50.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 2:08 P. M.—Both yachts are visible, running for the second mark, but they are not plain enough in view to enable the watchers here to identify them.

FAR ROCKAWAY, 2:10 P. M.—What appears to be one of the big sloops is faintly visible through the haze. She can not be seen clear enough to be distinguished as either the Valkyrie or the Defender.

HIGHLANDS, 2:11 P. M.—The excursion fleet is feeling for the lightship which seems to show the yachts are running the second mark.

2:16 P. M.—One of the yachts seems to have a lead of over a mile and it looks like the Valkyrie.

FAR ROCKAWAY, 2:20 P. M.—The big sloops appear to be half a mile apart. The people here think the Defender is ahead.

HIGHLANDS, 2:30 P. M.—Both boats can now be seen from here and there seems to be no doubt the Valkyrie is leading by a mile.

Use Adam's Tutti-Frutti Chewing Gum.

2:35 P. M.—The excursion fleet has gathered around the lightship and the Valkyrie is winner before 3 o'clock.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 2:36 P. M.—The yachts are very close, but the Valkyrie is ahead. The Luckenbach has taken up a position at the finish line.

2:37 P. M.—The Defender is pushing the Valkyrie hard and it is believed the American yacht may win on the time allowance.

2:55 P. M.—The times of the yachts rounding the second mark were: Valkyrie, 1:58.10; Defender, 2:01 45.

2:56 P. M.—The Valkyrie finishes, 2:55:40.

HIGHLANDS, 2:58 P. M.—The Defender finished, 2:57:57. The Valkyrie wins by about two minutes eleven seconds lapsed time, unofficial.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 3 P. M.—The official times are:

Start—Valkyrie, 11:00:13; Defender, 11:01 15.

First mark—Valkyrie, 12.57:4 ; Defender, 1:01 30.

Second mark boat—Valkyrie, 1:58:10; Defender, 2 01:45.

Finish—Valkyrie, 2:55:22: Defender, 2:57:40.

Corrected time—Valkyrie, 2:55:09; Defender, 2 55:56.

Valkyrie wins by 47 seconds.

3:10 P. M.—In the last three miles the American boat picked up considerable lost ground, and notwithstanding the protest flag gallantly finished. As they came down to the line the two boats were dressed alike. Each carried a mainsail number 1, club topsail, balloon stay sail, jib and No. 3 jib tosail. They eased sheets on the port tack just before the line was crossed. The Valkyrie carried a very heavy bone in her teeth, kicking up a great wave before her. The Defender made little fuss. When the Valkyrie was just off the line she slowed a bit and lost headway. Both yachts went up towards the city when the race was over, amid the tooting of whistles and the boats were racing towards Sandy Hook with all sails set. The Valkyrie wins subject to protest. The regatta committee will hear the case on its merits. It is thought probable the decision will be that the two yachts must sail an extra race.

ON BOARD ASSOCIATED PRESS TUG, (By Carrier Pigeon), BATH BEACH, 3:15 P. M.—The Defender raised a protest flag at the start. Her jib sheet parted and the flapping of the sail seemed to shake the topmast backstay out of the spreader, and caused the topmast to spring. The Defender probably claimed the accident occurred before the starting signal was given. The committee did not allow it.

SANDY HOOK, 1:30 P. M.—The Defender and Valkyrie both under sail are heading in past this point for the bay. The committee boat is also passing in, heading towards New York.

BULLETINS.

By the Western Union.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 10:20 A. M.—Both yachts are standing about Sandy Hook lightship. The wind is S. S. E. about six miles. The Valkyrie has her jib, mainsail and club topsails. The Defender has jib, mainsail, club topsail and fore top set. The number of yachts and steamers is the largest ever seen here before.

HIGHLANDS, 10:58 A. M.—The wind is due south with prospects of increasing.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 10:59 A. M.—The boats are manoeuvering for a start off Sandy Hook lightship.

11.04 A. M.—The wind has dropped to four miles an hour.

11:05—The preparatory signal has just been set.

11:10 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line shortly after the ten-minute start and the Defender barely saved the two minute gun. The Valkyrie is leading in a windward position.

HIGHLANDS, 11:20 A. M.—Six seconds before the starting gun was fired the Valkyrie's boom broke the Defender's topmast backstay, bending her mast to leeward and cracking it. The Defender continued on the course, hoisting a protest signal. The Valkyrie was plainly in the fault, as the Defender had the right-of-way. The starting gun was fired at 11, and two minutes later the limit fire gun was fired. After crossing, the Valkyrie led slightly, but the Defender is rapidly closing the gap. The yachts are both standing on towards Highlands on the port tack. The start was made at exactly 11 o'clock and 30 seconds. The Defender is now rapidly closing on the Valkyrie. As both boats are going directly from me it is impossible to say which is ahead. The Valkyrie is in the windward position. Both boats are still on the port tack standing on shore six miles an hour south.

11:24 A. M.—A good breeze is blowing. The yachts are under club topsails.

OFF SCOTLANDS, 11:25 A. M.—The wind is hauling to the southwest. The Defender is out-pointing the Valkyrie.

11:26 A. M.—A good breeze is now blowing. Both yachts are under club topsails.

11:27 A. M.—The excursion steamers are behaving better than Saturday and are keeping astern and to the leeward of the racers. The yachts went about on the starboard tack. The Valkyrie is slightly in the lead passing here.

11:28 A. M.—The Valkyrie appears ahead as the open water shows the Valkyrie slightly in the lead passing here, but the Defender is closing the gap.

HIGHLANDS, 11:29 A. M.—The Valkyrie is about an eighth of a mile in the lead.

11:30 A. M.—The Valkyrie leads by 50 yards. The Defender is rapidly closing the gap. Both yachts are on the port tack. The excursion boats are right on top of them.

11:33 A. M.—The Defender is about on the starboard tack and unable to carry her jib topmast. The Valkyrie followed suit three seconds later.

11:35 A. M.—The Defender has set her No. 2 jib topsail. Both yachts are on the port tack and the Defender is crawling up.

Use Adam's Tutti-Frutti Chewing Gum.

11:36 A. M.—Both yachts are even now.

11:40 A. M.—The Defender has taken in her jib topsail. The Valkyrie has the best position to windward. It looks as if the Defender had trouble with her jib topsail.

11:43 A. M.—The Defender leads seventy-five yards. The Valkyrie has the windward position. They are still on a port tack and heading for Long Branch. The yachts, which had been running on the port tack since the start went about on the starboard tack four minutes later on the port tack at 11:30 A. M. Twenty-one minutes after the Defender set her No. 2 topsail she took it in.

11:47 A. M.—Both boats are still standing on the port tack southwest. The wind is increasing S. S. W.

11:52 A. M.—The Valkyrie has the windward position. The whole excursion fleet seems to be between the two yachts. The wind is about eight miles an hour.

11:53 A. M.—The boats are still in about the same position. The Valkyrie is about a quarter of a mile in the lead. The steamboats are giving them a better chance today.

11:54 A. M.—The Valkyrie is going on the starboard tack.

11:55 A. M.—The Defender goes about, closely followed by the Valkyrie.

12:03 P. M.—The Valkyrie is gaining slightly on the Defender.

12:05 P. M.—They are still on the starboard tack standing S. S. W. The Valkyrie leads.

12:09 P. M.—Today's course is a triangle of ten miles each side, thirty in all. The boats have gone about six miles on the first leg. The stake boat for the first turn is not anchored yet.

12:19 P. M.—Every time the Defender goes about the Valkyrie does the same to keep leeward. The Valkyrie goes about followed by the Defender.

12:22 P. M.—The Defender seems to be improving her position and is gaining slightly.

12:37 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems to hold her lead. Both have a good breeze.

12:38 P. M.—The Valkyrie now leads about on eighth of a mile.

12:40 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems about half a mile in the lead. They are still on the starboard tack, standing southeast.

12:49 P. M.—Judging from the distance off shore both boats must be nearing the stake boat.

12:51 P. M.—The indications now are that the Valkyrie will round the first turn ahead of the Defender. The wind is increasing.

12:54 P. M.—The boats are nearing the first turn eleven miles off the shore.

1:04 P. M.—The Valkyrie rounded the stake boat at 12 57:30 and the Defender turned at 1 o'clock 50 seconds.

HIGHLANDS, 1:37 P. M.—The wind is about twelve miles an hour. The yachts are enveloped in a fog, but the wind may dispel it.

2:25 P. M.—The Valkyrie is about a mile ahead of the Defender and about three miles from the lightship.

2:49 P. M.—The Valkyrie is about a mile from lightship.

2:53 P. M.—The Valkyrie is close to the lightship. The Defender is coming rapidly.

2:71 P. M.—The Valkyrie has crossed.

2:75 P. M.—The Valkyrie crossed at 2.54 and 19 seconds. The Defender at 2.55 and 58 seconds. The Valkyrie won by 46 seconds.

EARLY MORNING SCENES.

The Water All in Favor of Lord Dunraven's Boat.

(By cable to the Associated Press.)

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT OFF SANDY HOOK, 8:30 A. M.—Early morning off Sandy Hook Lightship found the Mackay-Bennett cable boat near the buoy.

At 7:30 the interesting operation of picking up the cable was perfected and when it had been overhauled the connection with the shore was made.

By 8 o'clock the wires to the Associated Press were in use from this point and 18 miles out to sea.

At this hour the weather indications are for a good racing day, and an American day at that, for the triangular course is looked upon as favoring the Defender.

It is quite thick on the horizon but a pink line in the distance gives promise of a clear day.

There is also the prospect of an air sailing breeze although three knots an hour is the limit of the wind at the present.

The water will favor the British boat for it is almost as smooth as glass, with none of the heavy chop sea that seemed to affect the Valkyrie Saturday.

Toward 8:30 o'clock the haze had lifted in the narrows and it was quite bright but out to sea it still continued thick, while the breeze did not freshen as much as anticipated.

ARRANGING THE COURSE.

The Yachts to Race Over a Thirty Mile Triangle.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—David Henderson of the Anchor Line represents Lord Dunraven on board the Defender today, and Joseph R. Rusk, owner of the sloop "Mischief," who defended the America's cup against the Canadian sloop Atlanta, the challenger of 1879, represents the America's cup committee on the Valkyrie.

Today's race will be around the triangular course ten miles each leg, thirty miles in all, starting from Sandy Hook Lightship and with the first leg a beat if possible.

With the wind holding from the southwest this would be possible, but the yachts would have to run very close to the Jersey shore to turn.

A dull haze obscures the horizon, cutting off the range except for about five or six miles off the shore, but the Sandy Hook lightship could not be made out and it looked as if a fair view of the race would not be obtained from here.

The cable ship Mackay-Bennett, also at 6 A. M., put out from the Hook in order to take up her buoyed cable and after passing Scotland Lightship was soon lost in the mists.

THE RACE REVIEWED.

A Detailed Account of How the Great Struggle Occurred.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK, N. J., Sept. 10.—A cloudy sky and a smooth, leaden-looking sea, over which light southwest airs were sweeping gently was the outlook from here at 6 o'clock this morning.

Valkyrie III and the Defender were absent from their usual moorings, having passed the night almost at a biscuit's toss of each other off the Atlantic Yacht Club's anchorage at Bay Ridge.

The Britishers, not much discouraged by the defeat Saturday, have shifted some ballast from aft forward.

At the suggestion of George L. Watson, her designer, they have had her remeasured and have given her a good trial spin, and confidently expect her to show up in better form today.

Real so-called Valkyrie weather prevailed off the Hook this morning.

There was smooth sea and light airs, but no patriotic American doubted the Defender's ability to make it "three straight."

Rear Commodore James C. Bergen of the New York Yacht Club, who is in control of the volunteer patrol fleet, has made a second request to the captains of the steamers which accompany the racers to avoid interference with the yachts, and it is predicted if his injunctions are not attended to Sandy Hook waters will never have the pleasure of seeing another international yacht race under any conditions, for the next challenger may stipulate the contest shall take place off some part of the coast where such interference is impossible.

Off shore at 7 o'clock the wind was only about four miles an hour, but this was an improvement on the light airs earlier this morning.

The coasting craft, beating down along the shore made little progress except by aid of the last of the ebb tide.

However, there were breaks in the clouds which at intervals seemed to hold out a promise of better weather as the day wore on.

These favorable indications continued until at 8, when the sun began breaking through the mantle of cloud in earnest and the wind came breezing up from the southwest until it was stirring at the rate of six miles an hour.

But off the shore it was still very thick, it being impossible to see much further north than the end of the Hook, and Scotland lightship could only be dimly seen.

COMING UP.

The Valkyrie at 8:42, could be seen following the Defender through Swash channel with her mainsail set and in tow.

Shortly before 9 o'clock the Defender passed outside the Hook with her mainsail and jib set, in tow of a tug.

The sky had commenced to clear slightly in the northwest, and Scotland lightship could be plainly seen.

This gave hope that the weather might clear sufficiently to enable the watchers here to see Sandy Hook lightship and the start.

The fleet of tugs commenced coming down from New York and a dozen or more were running through Swash channel at 9 o'clock and following the racers out to the lightship.

The Luckenbach, with an attendant tug, was following astern of the Defender and the Valkyrie was half way down Swash channel.

The sea did not bother the Defender in the slightest today.

At 9:10 A. M. Sandy Hook lightship could not be seen from here, although the two yachts could be made out on the way there.

The Valkyrie at 9:15 A. M. was well out past the Hook with her mainsail, club topsail and two head sails set.

She was still in tow and, like the Defender, glided along easily.

The wind was still light and from the southwest.

Schooner yachts and the excursion fleet at 9:20 A. M. began to show up off the end of the Hook, and the Navahoe was just running the point.

The City of Bridgeport, the Valkyrie's tender, will not apparently follow the racers today, as she was coming in past the Hook at 9:20 o'clock, leaving the Valkyrie to be towed out to the lightship by the tug.

The Defender at 9:27, dropped tow and was standing out toward Sandy Hook lightship under three lower sails, and on the starboard tack.

The Valkyrie was still in tow, with large club topsails and jib pulling nicely in a light wind.

Shortly after 9:30 the Defender went about on the port tack and a couple of minutes later went around again and headed out to sea, and towards Sandy Hook lightship.

The Valkyrie was standing out after her, and was a considerable distance behind.

The fog at 9:40 was thicker and Scotland lightship could only be indistinctly seen.

The Defender was in line with it, and about a mile from the other side.

As seen from this point, the Valkyrie was about half the way out.

The Defender was then setting the large white club top-sail which she used Saturday.

Then the Defender disappeared in the fog which seemed to be rolling in separate banks off the coast for almost at the same time the Sandy Hook Lightship and the Mackay-Bennett cable steamer anchored to the westward of it were made out.

At 10 o'clock there was pouring out through Swash Channel a long line of excursion steamers, tugs, steam yachts, schooner yachts and smaller crafts, reaching from the neighborhood of the Hook to New York, apparently.

At 10:10 the wind was still light, about four miles an hour and about south southwest here, when the boats came down towards the imaginary line.

Those aboard the Defender are Capt. Hank Haff at the wheel and First Mate Terrey at the sheets; aft are W. D. Duncan, Natt Hershoff, designer, Newberry B. Thorn, Woodbury Kane, Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin Herbert C. Lees, W. K. Vanderbilt, C. Oliver Iselin, and David D. Henderson, representing Lord Dunraven and the Royal Yacht Squadron.

On board the Valkyrie are Lord Dunraven, Latham Fish representing the New York Yacht Club, George Watson, designer, Vice Commodore Arthur Glennie, Sailmaker Ratsey, Maitland Kersey, Lady Rachael Wyndham Quinn and Aileen Wyndham Quinn, Captain Cranfield was at the stick and Captain Sycamore was busily engaged directing the crew.

A fleet of steam yachts at 10:26 were in the offing and hurrying down to the course.

The committee boat at 10:23 displayed signal "D," meaning the course to be sailed was triangular, namely from the starting line ten miles to and around the mark; thence ten miles to and around a second mark; thence ten miles to the finish line turning the marks on the outside of the triangle to port or starboard, according as the yachts were sent.

The Embla acted as police boat.

There were not a third as many boats out today as on Saturday.

The yachts at 10:32 were spitting around the committee boat preparatory to getting in a good position for the start.

The Defender crossed the Valkyrie's bow to leeward and was standing in the shore port tack while the Valkyrie was jogging along before the wind with sheets well aft.

Then she swung around and headed away from the Defender on a starboard tack.

At 10:50 the preparatory signal was fired and the yachts began the usual jockeying for positions.

The British yacht blanketed the Defender and the Defender worked out from under the lee only to be again blanketed.

THE START.

The yachts crossed the line at the following official times:

Valkyrie 11 00:13
Defender 11 01:15

At 11.02:30, after a short tack to starboard, both the boats came about and stood directly toward this point on the port tack, the Defender to leeward, and seemingly to point a trifle higher than the Valkyrie.

Shortly after the start the Defender hoisted a protest flag and the protest was allowed, it being believed here that the Valkyrie fouled the Defender during the luffing matches.

It seemed from here as if one of the Defender's shrouds was injured, but nothing definite could be made out.

The beautiful white silk club topsail was in great shape and there was not the slightest sign of a break.

The two yachts at 11:43 were not more than a mile and a half off shore.

The Defender was sailing along nicely without the aid of her jib topsail.

The Valkyrie seemed gaining a trifle on the Defender, as she was getting a better breeze to windward.

The excursion fleet gave the yachts all the room they wanted.

It was possible from here to look down directly on the decks of both yachts.

Through the great glass of the Associated Press the rival skippers could be seen at their posts.

Both the yachts at 12:07 P. M. were still holding off shore on the starboard tack, the Valkyrie apparently about half a mile ahead.

The Defender shortly after 12.10 went about on the port tack.

The Valkyrie immediately followed suit.

The Defender seemed to go about five seconds faster than the Valkyrie, and from the positions it looked as if the Defender had crawled up a little on her rival, but the race was undoubtedly very close.

The two yachts about 12.20 went on the starboard tack.

The Defender was then only a quarter of a mile behind and clearly outfooting her rival.

At 12:30 P. M. the Valkyrie was being held by the Defender in good shape, it seemed from here, although the fog prevented accurate observations.

However, it does not seem as if the Valkyrie was getting away from the Defender.

THE DEFENDER SPURTS.

About 12:45 P. M. the Defender seemed to start ahead again and reduce the gap between herself and the Valkyrie, and her windward work became really superb.

She pointed better than the British yacht and footed faster, and it looked here as if she were steadily working to windward and overhauling the Valkyrie.

By 1 o'clock the Valkyrie disappeared in a fog, although the Defender could still be seen from here.

The wind at the time of turning the first mark blew at the rate of 12 to 15 miles an hour.

The boats seemed likely to make good time on the second leg.

It was not until 1:44 P. M. that the fog lifted sufficiently to enable the boats to be seen reaching for the second mark with the balloon jibs set and going at a lively rate.

Although it was impossible to distinguish between them from the distance, it was believed the Valkyrie was still ahead.

THE

MOREY

INCANDESCENT GAS BURNER

It Has Revolutionized Gas Lighting!

Only Sixty Days on the Market and yet the Sale is Enormous.

No parts burn out. The mantels, screens, prisms, used in other burners, are not used in the Morey Burner at all; therefore no parts to repair. The Cheapest Burner used, giving the greatest amount of light for the smallest amount of gas consumed.

The secret of its scintillating brilliancy is perfect combustion, not one iota going to waste—every atom of gas being consumed.

No ghastly, greenish white light, but a natural, mellow, golden sunlight, soothing to the eyes and radiant with power.

The Morey Gas Burner is the best results of long years of study, discovery and invention; and is based solely upon scientific principles. THE HIGHEST POWER OF GAS LIES IN THE BURNER EMPLOYED. The secret of the Morey Burner is the combustion secured.

You may ask why does the Morey Burner give so much more light for the same amount of gas consumed. Our answer is this, gas when burning through an ordinary gas jet, mixes quickly with the air and passes off, not giving time for the light to take up from the air all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore it passes off and is wasted. But in the Morey Burner it passes through a perforated circle of 76 small needle-pointed perforations, and the current of air passing on all sides of the blaze supplies sufficient air for the light to take up all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore no WASTE OF GAS NO BLUE BLAZE; all turned to light.

See what prominent business men and people you know say of it:

TESTIMONIALS.

SAN FRANCISCO, April, 1895.
Morey Incandescent Gas Co., City—
GENTLEMEN: We are more than pleased with the lamp we recently purchased from you, and instead of using three burners, which we formerly were compelled to do in our private office, we now get a better light from the one which you put in.
As soon as we fix up our offices will use them altogether in each of the departments.
Please have one of your representatives call on us about the 15th of May.
Yours truly,
S. P. TAYLOR Co.

WEARY OF REVOLUTIONS.

Central America Will Now Try to Develop Her Resources.

Foreign Aggression at Last Brought About the Formation of a Union

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Further particulars of the latest movement for Central American union have been obtained from Senor Jose De Gomez, the Nicaraguan statesman who, as the special minister from the President of Nicaragua to the Central American States, conducted the other preliminary negotiations which led to the understanding now arrived at.

Senor Gomez arrived in New York several days ago and has been stopping with friends here.

From here he will go to Washington in a day or two to pay his respects to the Nicaraguan minister. He says that he is in the United States solely on private business.

In an interview he said: "The confederated arrangement by which Nicaragua, Salvado and Honduras have just committed themselves, and which it is hoped Guatemala and Costa Rica will also assent to is primarily in the interest of maintaining peace throughout Central America and promoting civilization and progress in the five republics.

"The substantial and intelligent citizens in all these countries are heartily sick of revolutions, which have been so frequent in the past and have retarded developments, wasted our resources and discredited us in the eyes of the world.

Everybody who has visited Central America or made a study of the conditions, knows that ours is, materially, one of the richest and fairest regions of the globe, which ought to compare favorably with any other for population, prosperity and advancement.

"But the population of the whole of Central America is not much in excess of 13,000,000, including natives and other interior races, and its backwardness is lamentable in various material respects.

"But what hastened the agreement for union and was probably the determining factor in bringing it to pass at this time was the continuous action of England in the Clainto affair several months ago.

"That was a striking object lesson of the weakness of the Central American States when confronted by foreign aggression; and the union for defense which we are now inaugurating is the direct outgrowth of it.

"Last year I was sent by the President of Nicaragua as a special minister to the Central American republics to present to their governments propositions in behalf of the treaty of union.

"I received fair encouragements, but before my mission was completed the events growing out of England's claim on Nicaragua transpired and I was summoned home.

"President Zelaya thereupon decided that the time was ripe for immediate action, and without waiting for the results of my negotiations to develop in the ordinary course he issued an invitation to all the Central American Presidents to meet at Amalapa, the capital of Honduras.

General Bonilla, President of Honduras, and General Gutierrias, President of Salvador, responded favorably, and the three Presidents accordingly met at Amalapa in July.

"The result of their deliberations was the treaty, the details of which have already been printed."

A CREDIT TO OAKLAND.

The Local Parlors Made a Fine Showing at Sacramento.

In its report of the Admission Day festivities in Sacramento the Chronicle of San Francisco says:

"Oakland parlor wore dark clothes with white vests and hats, while Stanford parlor was distinguished by white caps.

"Athens parlor of Oakland, the newest parlor in the State, were white caps and bibs and carried rattles and nursing bottles in which were iced punches. There were number seven heads in number two caps, but the punches were a blessing.

"Oakland parlor made merry in the Supreme court chamber. In point of decorations Stanford parlor of San Francisco took the lead. Back of the musicians' stand was a huge star of electric lights and the center chandelier was a mass of incandescent lights, made to imitate huge yellow flowers with glowing hearts. The fifty smaller headquarters were quite as gay and cordial on a lesser scale, and the decorations though simpler, were quite as pretty and as much admired by the friends of the parlor."

THE FATE OF THE AMERICA.

The Glorious Old Schooner Lies Neglected and Decaying at Chelsea.

Dismantled of her rigging, a castaway, housed over like a forgotten canal boat, with her weatherbeaten deck rotting in the air and her hull rotting in the green waters beneath, the yacht America lies today, almost unknown, in the river close to the new bridge at Chelsea. There she has lain for four years, since the day that Ben Butler sailed in her for the last time, when he left her deck with the mark of death upon him.

Her masts have long since lost their tapering straightness. The gleaming white hull which in those glorious old days first attracted the attention of the young Queen of England is black and green with dirt and sea grass. Instead of the trim deck, a dirty tar-coaled deckhouse covers her from stem to stern. But this has not fully protected her by any means, and she is falling away beneath it into decay.

While General Butler lived she was put in commission every summer. The very year he died he had her at one of the Eastern races, and there he followed along with the crack Burgess schooners, the Mayflower and the Constellation. When the gruff old soldier died she became the property of his son Paul.

Today Paul Butler was asked what would be done with the boat. Judge from what he said it is a fair presumption that it is to be the old boat's fate to die where she lies.—New York Press.

CHAPMAN'S WINE ROOMS, AT 464 9th street, will be opened Sept. 3d, with a stock of first-class wines, liquors and cigars. The ever popular Frank Coutant will be Mr. Chapman's assistant.

Genuine artists prefer to play on the Wheelock pianos; they are perfect.

Shellmound Park, September 15—Oakland Turn Verein.

TUESDAY.....SEPTEMBER 10, 1895.

Senator Gray of Delaware, has spoken his piece about Cleveland's third term. He holds that he is the logical nominee of the Democratic party next year. All that may be quite consistent with another bit of logic which insures his defeat as certainly as he goes before the people for a third term. There is no saving grace in the point that his terms have not been consecutive. It is the common law of the country that no man shall be elected three times to that office. That is the logic that settles the issue.

The International Contest.

The yacht race on Saturday did not settle anything of importance. At the close it was impossible to tell which was the best boat. And yet the whole country was thrilled with the news that the American boat came in ahead. It did not seem less than a national victory. If the same boat should win twice more the Englishman would go home without the cup. But if he should capture it, what then? Americans would of course challenge for another contest.

It is probable that the last international contest is about to be made with single stick vessels, which are mere racing machines. The cup was won by a schooner which at that time was the fastest sailing craft of her size in the world. Today there are hundreds of schooners that can sail faster than the America ever could. There are some of that class on this coast that are not known as yachts. They are earning money for their owners in business.

It would not be a bad turn of events if the Englishman should win. American yachtsmen need to have a little of the conceit taken out of them. They have assumed that no foreigner can make a racing craft quite as good as their own. If the cup goes back to England there will be a great marine struggle to win it back. This country has just begun the race for maritime supremacy. It will not be won in this larger sense by vessels with a single mast; and it is probable that it may be won, if at all, by vessels that have little use for masts, but are the swiftest and best carriers that the world has ever known. The Valkyrie won today by a scratch.

Good and Bad Farming.

In the early days of agricultural societies farmers came together to discuss the best methods of tilling the soil. They did not take half as much interest in horse racing as they did in the teams that could do the best ploughing in the field. In these last days one hears very little about the best methods of tilling land. The clubs of twenty or thirty farmers that have been organized in small places generally talk to the purpose. The annual State Fair sometimes secures an address of some practical interest. But as a general rule the men who do the talking in public know the least about practical agriculture. There could not be a more suggestive subject for such a talk than bad farming in California. Lest the topic might be omitted, we are constrained to quote a paragraph from the Mail of Stockton: "The farmers are in the quagmire of debt. Their estates are plastered with mortgages. The struggle from season to season is to pay interest and taxes. The boys reared on California farms, as soon as they are foot-loose, fly to the towns and cities. The girls are just as eager as their brothers to escape. The rustic youth of both sexes are crowding one another in the cities seeking employment as clerks, typewriters, bookkeepers, stenographers, actors, reporters, real estate brokers, lawyers, doctors, drummers and what not. Few of them are learning to do hard work or to become good mechanics. Only grizzled men are left on the farms, and these are rapidly degenerating into wrecks of their former selves. On Saturdays they drive into town, congregate on the sidewalks, talk about the hard times, discuss politics, play pedro and brace the merchants for their supplies. They stand around in dazed fashion, damn the country and pronounce life a failure."

More is the pity that there is so much truth in this statement. It ought not to have so much as the color of truth in its application to farming in this State. There is of course another aspect of agriculture wherein what is best in the calling is seen. Men who make money and want no better occupation. They have model farms, live comfortably, are out of debt, make improvements every year, have sons who are content with the calling of their fathers, and hold that there is no better State in the world than the one they have chosen for their homes. These are today the minority farmers of California. It is a great pity that they are not in the majority.

The Latest Social Eclipse.

The social "function" at Newport, of which O. H. P. Belmont was the host, was given in a combination villa and horse stable that cost, according to report, $3,000,000. The little gifts as souvenirs, mere trifles, cost $7,000. These are some of the memorial things distributed: English riding whips, silver mounted and with silver pencils in the handles; scores of metal novelties, such as thermometers and ash receivers; wide and gorgeous satin sashes, with jewel ornaments of rhinestone and real pearls; satin caps in colors and forms of those worn by the Belmont jockeys; miniature horse blankets, court orders for the neck; French walking sticks; cribbage boards and anchor counters; large horses' heads mounted on sticks; Parisian flower fans; satin bags hung Parisian ower fans; satin bags hung with jewels; small satin slippers filled with natural flowers; gilt bird cages with living and singing canaries; tortoiseshell and silver tablets; bisque folly sticks; empire silk fans, silk flags of various nations and beautiful bouquets of flowers.

All this we are told is English, even to the feast that was served in the carriage house. A gold service adorned the buffet table. There was the usual assortment of English titled guests, including a duke. Great pains had been taken to inform the public about all these particulars. In fact it is important that the world should understand that Belmont has eclipsed the last Vanderbilt social function. If it were not for this overwhelming desire for the greatest publicity such affairs might assume a private character. A rich man or a rich ambitious woman gives a social function, not as a private matter, but for the very purpose of letting the public know that the affair has been properly accentuated. There has been a supreme exaltation for a few hours at least.

These contrasts have some striking features. Just when the stringency of the times calls for the utmost simplicity of living, and when never before were so many people concerned to know where the bread is to be found next week to satisfy hungry mouths, the social flare and blazonry of wealth becomes the other extreme. It is good by way of comedy, and far better than it would be if it were to provoke anything like social retaliation. A little quiet satire is about all the response that is likely to be made. The perfect right to make such displays and to publish them to the world can never be questioned. The French revolution occurred after there had been one of the most imposing displays of wealth and luxury that the world had ever known. Is our boasted Republican simplicity drifting in the same direction?

The Last of Bustamente.

Among the refugees from Salvador brought up to San Francisco on the Tennington was Bustomente, a half-breed, and altogether the most savage and brutal fellow of the lot. If we remember rightly it was the judgment of the court that he ought to be returned to Salvador as a criminal, while the others were set at liberty for technical reasons. Bustomente was finally released on an order from Washington. That he had committed a number of murders in Salvador was hardly disputed, except in the incidental way that they were the result of a revolution.

After the release of Bustamente he became one of the most active conspirators with Ezeta against the peace of Salvador. The authorities of the country wanted him particularly as he was the most brutal criminal of the lot. They wanted Ezeta also as the leader of the brutal gang which never had influence enough to obtain any large following. Bustamente went down to Acapulco, and afterwards found his way into Nicaragua. In the latter country he evidently found no encouragement. He was reduced to such straits that he took a steerage passage on a Pacific Mail steamer that was to land at the chief port of Salvador.

The authorities were informed of the fact and demanded his delivery on a criminal warrant. It is probable that they have made an end of this brutal semi-savage, as they would make an end of Ezeta if they could once lay hands on him. There was at one time not a little sympathy expressed for these men who had committed crimes in the name of liberty. But when more of their history was made known it was found that they were a bad lot and wholly undeserving of the sympathy that had been extended to them. In Salvador they had no standing as revolutionists in the better sense, but only as desperate men who had plundered and murdered people to advance their private fortunes.

Our Methodist brethren are sturdy defenders of the liberty of speech, but not of any abuse of that liberty. They are not afraid of radical thought when expressed for good ends. But Kier Hardie the English socialist and sympathiser of anarchists, was too much for them in his recent speech at Chicago. When Hardie denounced the execution of the anarchists for the murder of men in that city and eulogized them as the pioneers of the new religion it was too much of a revelation. A storm of righteous indignation followed. This is the fellow who advocated the red flag as the symbol of brotherhood, and the symbol of bloody revolution.

It is not a surprising fact that Rev. Dr. Scott of Chicago should not see the way to come to the First Congregational church of Oakland. The First Presbyterian church had the good fortune to draw a minister from Chicago, and it was in order to ask another good man in that city to come here and fill a vacancy. The other minister whose name has been mentioned in connection with the same vacancy is Rev. Dr. Barrons, who did so much to bring about the Parliament of Religions in Chicago, and who was the historian of that great event. The good people of the vacant church aim high if they don't always bring down the game.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

German women singers, according to Le Menestrel, have a hard lot as a rule. When they find employment in one of the seventy theaters they receive at first 120 marks ($30) a month, and if successful reach 500 marks a month. For every vacancy there are thirty conservatory graduates who apply. The concert singers are still worse off. The result is that many talented artists turn to the cafes chantants, where they are better paid.

It is proposed to make Berlin a seaport by connecting it by canals with the river Oder. The Tegel See, to the west of the city, would be the harbor. There are no engineering difficulties, and only two locks would be needed. The cost for a canal seventy feet broad at the bottom and twenty-five feet deep would be about 200,000,000 marks, or one-third more than that of the Baltic-North Sea canal.

Zola's "La Debacle" has sold better than any of his other works, 187,000 copies having been disposed of so far; next come "Nana" with 171,000, "L'Assommoir" and "Lourdes," 152,000 each, and "Le Terre," 113,000. Of Alphonse Daudet's novels "Sapho" with 100,000 copies has been the most popular; then follow "Le Nabab," with 97,000, and "Fromont jeune et Risler aine" with 95,000. Between 40,000 and 50,000 copies are printed for the first edition of a story of "Georges Ohnet" or of "Pierre Loti." The average sales of Paul Bourget's books are about 30,000 copies, though of "Mensonges" 50,000 have been called for. For Mme. Henri Greville's stories the average is 18,000; but "Dosia," her greatest success, has reached 70,000. Of Hector Malot's "Sans Famille" 115,000 copies have been sold.

An Anglo-Dutch syndicate is trying to reclaim the land in the delta of the Danube, between the St. George's and Sulina branches, by means of dykes. The dredging of the bar now permits vessels drawing 21½ feet to reach Sulina, and before long it is hoped the channel will be deep enough for ships drawing 24 feet.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has announced that on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his accession to the throne in 1898 he will present to the city of Vienna the Prater, the famous park of Vienna, and the Angarten, a royal park in the densely populated part of the city, to which the public was first admitted by the Emperor Joseph II. Both Prater and Angarten are to be preserved forever as public recreation grounds for the people of Vienna.

Lord Charles Beresford got a ducking recently; he was testing a new kind of punt in the Chatham dockyard when it capsized and he had to swim ashore. The sailor who was with him was completely exhausted by the swim.

Zola's school record has been hunted up by one of his admirers. He took first prizes for good conduct and for Latin throughout his course, and also prizes for religion during the years it was taught. In history and geography he began well taking first prizes for the first two years, but ended with honorable mention only.

Journalism has become a university subject in Germany. Prof. Koch gave a course of lectures at Heidelberg on German journalism last winter, and will repeat the course in the next semester.

Ex-President Harrison goes deer hunting at midnight. President Cleveland digs worms for bait at dawn. And Tom Reed saws wood and says nothing at all hours.

President Cleveland is not only a skilful fisherman, but he is well up on piscatorial statistics and literature. No book appears dealing with the sport of fishing that the president does not obtain a copy. If the writer displays capacity in dealing with his subject Mr. Cleveland reads the book in its entirety. He is very quick to discover technical flaws in the work of a careless writer, however.

Simon Wormser, the banker, who died a few days ago in New York, and his brother, Isidor, had a curious habit. They were almost inseparable and every afternoon at the same hour they left their banking house and walked together to the nearest station of the elevated railroad; but they did not take the same train. Either Isidor would take the first train and leave his brother to take the one following, or turn about. It is said his arrangement was made because they feared accidents and they did not wish to go down together for the sake of the banking house of Wormser.

A manufacturer of phonographs in New York recently received an application for a cylinder that would tell the story of Maria Barberi, the Italian murderess. He wrote back that it would be impossible to comply with the demand. To his astonishment he received a dozen or more similar requests from different parts of the West. This induced him to furnish the article. A newspaper man wrote a dramatic account of the tragedy which was fired into the phonograph by a professional elocutionist. It was done in 1000 words and the manufacturer is receiving orders every day for Maria Barberi cylinders.

Mrs. Langtry never hesitates at withdrawing from a contract even when the forfeiture is large enough to dismay anyone who is accustomed to regard financial matters somewhat more seriously than the English beauty appears to. When she decided three years ago that she would prefer to spend the winter on a yacht in the Mediterranean than in travelling over the United States, this change in her plans was first made known by her through the arrival of a draft for $15,000 which came to her manager as a balm for his disappointment. Last year she was very successful here, and looked forward to her present season with expectations of great profits. But it is evident that something equally promising must have developed in Europe, as Mrs. Langtry is a very shrewd woman, and otherwise the chances of her American profits would never have been given up. Usually her trips to this country are undertaken when nothing presents itself in England.—N. Y. Sun.

Few of the sovereigns of the old world dare trust their affairs to servants of their own nationality. The confidential servants of the Queen Regent of Spain are mostly Germans, as are also those of the reigning family in England, each prince having a special body servant who bears a Teuton name. The servants of Emperor William of Germany are for the most part English and French, Germans having been found unsuitable, while at St. Petersburg what may be described as the body servants of the late, as of the present czar, are either German or English.

The maid's cap, it seems, has got into the English courts. A servant sued her employer for wages after dismissal because she would not wear caps. The learned Q. C. admitted that the subject was a very delicate one, and seemed to be ever the cause of complaint between mistresses and maids. It was finally decided that the refusal to wear caps per se was not sufficient ground to discharge a servant out of time. The particular case in question took on some other phases, but this part of the decision implies by inference that the cap has ceased to be the sine qua non of the English maid which it is regarded on this side of the water.

Stealing books is common enough, but of late, in keeping with the stupendous tendencies of the age, they have got to stealing entire libraries. It was lately discovered that some thousands of volumes purchased by the University of Pennsylvania in good faith had been stolen from somewhere and now comes word from Paris that a collection of 10 000 volumes on American history, made by a Frenchman named Valtemare and by him given to the city of Paris, is missing and cannot be traced, though they are believed to be hidden away somewhere in France.—Philadelphia Times.

MADE A DEADLY DESCENT.

Two Negroes Murdered by a White Mob in Florida.

A Labor Wrangle Appears to Have Caused All the Trouble.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WESTVILLE, Fla., Sept. 10.—Yesterday morning two negroes were shot to death and several wounded by a band of masked men in the northern portion of Holmes county.

The tragedy occurred near a large saw mill, which is owned by Graves and Beatty.

The firm employs many negroes and operates a short railroad from the sawmill to the river.

A freight car had been fitted up with bunks, and in this about thirty negroes slept.

About one o'clock yesterday morning the car in which the negroes were sleeping was surrounded by masked men, who immediately opened fire with Winchesters.

The negroes were awakened to find the messengers of death whistling all about them.

The shots and the screams of the negroes brought Graves, Beatty and a number of white employes who live near to the scene, and then the masked men fled.

Examination showed that Henry Johnson and Sam Evans, negroes, had been killed and that a dozen had been wounded, some of whom will die.

The freight car had been riddled by bullets.

The attackers so terrorized the negroes that they have refused to work for Graves and Beatty longer, and today about fifty of the sawmill hands reached this place.

It is thought the attack was instigated by white men who had been discharged by the owners of the plant.

SWEPT BY FLAMES.

Great Devastation Done on Beaver Island, Michigan.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., Sept. 10.—The Beaver Island forest fire is still raging and making considerable headway.

People on the morning boat say farmers are leaving their fields and flocking to St. James and the east. The fire is raging on the high lands.

It is thought to have been started by a fishing party camping at an inland lake.

Between the fire and St. James is a big swamp, which it is hoped will check the flames.

Many thousand dollars worth of valuable timber has already been destroyed.

Clouds of smoke hang over the lake, cinders fall on the main land and the blaze could be seen at Cross village, thirty miles away, last night.

If the fire crosses the swamp it may burn the town of St. James.

THE NEW BOARD WINS.

Nebraska's Supreme Court Is Unanimous on the Subject.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—A special dispatch from Lincoln Neb., says: Though the Supreme Court may not meet before the 17th of the present month it can be stated on reliable authority that the judges has reached a decision on the Omaha Fire and Police Board controversy and that when the judges do meet again an opinion will be handed down sustaining the contention of the new board and ousting the old commissioners.

The opinion will be the joint work of the full court and unanimous.

That will sustain the constitutionality of the law passed by the Legislature and uphold the position maintained by Attorney General Churchill and Land Commissioner Russell as against that of Governor Holcomb.

TIRED OF HIDING.

A Chicago Bank-Wrecker Who Will Now Take His Medicine.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Frank C. Niehoff, an alleged bank wrecker, walked into the office of the clerk of the criminal court last evening and surrendered himself to the authorities.

For over two years Niehoff has been a fugitive from justice, he and his brother Otto, who is still in parts unknown, being charged with the wrecking of the Niehoff bank of this city.

When the bank closed its doors the assets were $5175, the liabilities $120,136.

Receiver Jaeger in his report charged Otto and Frank Niehoff with embezzling $59,124.

Boyer Burglarized.

Burglars entered the cigar store of Robert Boyer at the corner of Seventh and Broadway Saturday night and took from the safe $125. They left no trace of their entrance or clew to their identity and neither Mr. Boyer nor the police to whom he has reported the matter, have any clue as to the intruder.

MACEO'S MASTERLY MOVE.

He Is Preparing for a Grand Attack on Santiago de Cuba.

The Rebel General Has Apparently Outwitted Marshall Campos.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The World says: Advices by a special courier from Cuba received at the offices of the Cuban junta in this city are to the effect that the city of Santiago de Cuba is completely surrounded by the insurgents and that an attack is expected at any time.

General Antonio Maceo is personally conducting the siege.

For two weeks he has completely cut off communication with the interior.

From the shore can be seen scores of camp fires belonging to the insurgent soldiers on the hill sides.

With a field glass persons on board ships in the harbor can readily see the Cuban pickets and sentries.

Advices have been received by the patriot representatives in New York city that an effort will be made to storm the fortresses which defend the place some time this week.

They are advised to remove articles of value to a safe place.

It is expected that the assault will be made at night.

The objective point will be the eastern portion of the city, where the main arsenal is.

In this arsenal is contained a large quantity of arms and ammunition, which General Maceo will endeavor to capture.

The arsenal is strongly guarded by the Spanish troops, and in addition to being under the protection of the guns at Moro castle there is a strong battery on the shore.

GOING TO THE FRONT.

Japan's Mercantile Showing Is Indicative of Much Progress.

The United States Handle Most of the Island's Goods.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Consul General McIver has sen to the department of state a comprehensive statement of the foreign trade of Japan for 1894.

The total exports appear to have been $57,529,011 and the imports $59,680,833.

Of the exports $22,009,366 worth were sent to the United States, for which this country returned goods to the value of only $5,579 139.

The United States were the principal importers among the nations of Japanese goods.

Great Britain imported only $3,022,700 worth and exported to Japan $21,432,455 worth.

The statement shows that Japan exported $13,628,055 in gold and silver specie and bullion during the year and imported $17,464 588, the larger part of both amounts being in silver.

The customs collections amounted to $2,987,560.

The principal articles of export were coal, rice, silks, lacquered ware, matches, mats, copper and copper ware, and of imports cotton, raw and manufactured, drugs, chemicals, dyes, paints and colors, rice, locomotives and other machinery (including wheels and looms for spinning and weaking, railway appliances, sugar, steam vessels, wool and woolen goods.

The imported steam vessels were valued at $4,166,895.

The chief article of import from the United States was kerosene oil, $2,027,-310, and raw cotton, $1,361,781, in both of which articles Mr. McIver reports a perceptible improvement in our trade.

The imports from this country also include about $100,000 worth of cotton manufactures, $22,933 worth of arms and munitions of war, $260,000 of leather, $281,026 of locomotives, $311,133 of flour and about $260,000 of other provisions, $121,134 of sugar and $106,325 of paraffine wax.

Of raw silk alone Japan exported $11,-408,333 worth to the United States in addition to silk manufactures, including $2,340,376 worth of habutai silk and $964,-993 of silk handkerchiefs.

That country also sent tea to the value of $3,198 000 to this country and considerable quantities of rice, matting and carpets.

MEN OF MARK.

The Italian premier, Crispi, is said to spend two hours a day in dressing and that he has a horror of getting to look old.

Mr. Gladstone has written such a vast number of letters during his life that his autographs bring only sixpence in the English market.

Jules Simon's real family name is Suisse which in France is an equivalent for concierge. When his first book came out Victor Cousin advised him to drop it, as no man could hope for fame with such a name.

Ruskin, according to a new anecdote, attended an exhibition of impressionistic paintings some time ago, and seeing an acquaintance said: "Leave this place. Don't let your eyes dwell on these impertinent, insolent daubs. It is a sin to prostitute a noble calling in such a way; it really makes me feel ill."

The Marquis of Devonshire allows himself the luxury of a railroad 10 miles long for his private pleasure. The railroad encircles his own domain. Whenever he takes a ride he acts as fireman and engineer, while he compels the members of his family, the ladies not excepted, to act as watchmen and watchwomen at the crossings.

The young Egyptian Khedive is said to possess the most costly set of harness in the world. It is made of black leather, with chased gold buckles, and collars ornamented with the same costly metal. The pad cloths are also embroidered with gold, and the set is said to have cost $11,000. It is for four horses and is used on all state occasions.

At one time the Duke of Wellington's extreme popularity was rather embarassing. For instance, on leaving home each fectionate mob, who insisted on hoisting day, he was always intercepted by an affhim on their shoulders, and asking where they should carry him. It was not always convenient for him to say where he was going so he used to say "Carry me home, carry me home." And so he used to be brought home half a dozen times a day a few minutes after leaving his own door.

A Rejected Suitor Stirs Up a Serious Feud in Arkansas.

Guns, Indictments and Attempted Assassinations Now In Order.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Sept. 10.—An attempted assassination occurred near Dumas, Ark., last Saturday that is connected with the most sensational features and may be the cause of great bloodshed among two highly connected families and their friends in Desha county, this State.

Late on the night of July 4th, this State, when Miss Sadie Seamonds, the daughter of Joshua Seamonds a prominent citizen, returned from an entertainment and was about to retire to her room, Isaac Bankston, who was enamored of her, stepped, as she alleges, from a closet in which he had concealed himself.

The young lady screamed, and when her parents appeared they saw Bankston run away with a pistol in his hand.

He escaped and was indicted for attempted burglary, assault and rape, with intent to kill.

Returning Friday he surrendered to the authorities. He was waylaid Saturday and shot at by the father and brother of Miss Seamonds, as he says.

This statement was partly verified in letters and telegrams to State's Attorney C. M. Martin of this city, who wired the sheriff of Desha county to arrest all parties to prevent bloodshed.

The friends of Miss Seamonds claim that her rejection of young Bankston as a suitor goaded him to the act of entering her room for the purpose of compromising her, while the young man asserts that he came by appointment.

Young Bankston is the son of Isaac Bankston, who was killed while sheriff of Desha county in an impromptu duel at Arkansas City some years ago by Judge Coates, who also fell dead. The duel was the outcome of a quarrel between the two men over a negro girl.

Young Bankston has many friends who believe his statement and they will protect him with their lives.

The friends of both parties are determined and are said to have become so deeply interested in the affair that a prolonged and bloody feud is among the possibilities.

A CASE OF COFFINS.

The Indianapolis Bankers to Get Their Second Trial.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 10.—The second trial of Francis and Percival Coffin for participating in the wrecking of the Indianapolis National bank is on the docket of the Federal court for today.

All the original witnesses have been summoned and two special venires of jurymen have been ordered, but there is a chance for the long delayed second trial again going over.

The defense last evening filed a motion for a further continuance, two of its most important witnesses being unable to attend the trial at this time. The motion will be argued this morning.

The trial is expected to last several weeks and at its close Schuyler Haughey, son of President Haughey, now serving a sentence in the penitentiary, will be placed on trial as an accomplice of his father in the bank wrecking business.

BROKE UP A WEDDING.

The Festivities Interrupted by Shooting and Kicking.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—George Cokeley and Cornelius Murphy this morning forced their way into Senne hall, where a Polish wedding celebration was in progress.

Becoming boisterous they were ejected by Police Officer Frank Williams.

Outside they knocked the officer down and kicked and pounded him with a club.

The officer managed to get his revolver and fired several shots at his assailants.

Cokeley was wounded in the stomach. His wound may result fatally.

Officer Williams is suffering considerably from the beating he received and was taken to the hospital.

The shooting put a hurried end to the wedding celebration.

Sheridan's Interference for an Equine Horse.

An interesting story is told here of the late General Phil Sheridan and his horror of an unnatural horse being used in a statue of himself. Under the first Cleveland administration, Colonel John M. Wilson of the United States engineer was in charge of the public buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia. Col. Wilson and Gen. Sheridan were very good friends and Gen. Sheridan took the colonel riding one day and proceeded to Scott Circle, where the coachman stopped.

General Sheridan spoke of the probability that he would not live very long and that a statue might be erected to him. Looking at the amazing horse upon which General Scott is sitting his face turned, as it always was in life, to the White House, General Sheridan said to Colonel Wilson: "I have one favor to ask and that is if you happen to be again detailed for the same duty as you are now when they are about to construct a statue to me, do not put me on a horse like this one that poor Scott is represented as riding. If you do, I will haunt you."

General Sheridan died after Colonel Wilson had been ordered to West Point and now Colonel Wilson is again detailed for the same duty as he was when he and Sheridan took that ride. After he returned to Washington Colonel Wilson learned that there were drawings here for an equestrian statue of General Sheridan, so Colonel Wilson drove to the meeting of the committee that had charge of the plans for the statue and repeated to them General Sheridan's wishes. The result will probably be that the Sheridan statue will not include such a horse as "Little Phil" detested.

DR. FRAKER IN COURT.

The Insurance Swindler Pleads Not Guilty to the Charges.

He Says That He Will Be Able to Get Bail In a Week.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

RICHMOND, Mo., Sept. 10.—The first steps toward the prosecution of Dr. G. W. Fraker have been taken. When the prisoner was brought before Justice McCuiston to answer to the charge of obtaining life insurance money by false pretenses.

The charge was preferred by A. S. Van Vandenberg, representing the Kansas Mutual Life Association of Topeka, Kan.

The charge, stripped of its legal verbitage reads that on the 15th of May, 1892, and on the 20th day of February, 1893, the defendant, Fraker, obtained from the Mutual Life Association two policies of insurance for $5,000 each, and that on the 10th day of July, 1893, he attempted to defraud the association by pretending to lose his life by drowning in the Missouri river.

Dr. Fraker pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The State was not ready to go into an examination, and by consent the preliminary examination was fixed for Tuesday, Sept. 17th.

Fraker seems content with his surroundings and says he will be out on bail in a week.

The delegate to be sent East will also be chosen. The ladies are making extensive preparations and promise a delightful entertainment.

An Announcement of Interest.

The new Broadway firm of A. J. Dibert & Company is destined without doubt to control a large share of public patronage. Mr. Dibert's candid manner of presenting his business to public notice is not merely an evidence of his commercial clearsightedness but is to the average person an innovation as refreshingly new as it is presumptive of fair dealings.

Mr. Dibert will publish in tomorrow's Tribune in the display advertising columns, an announcement in line with his effective locals, and touching very vigorously upon what he considers is one of the modern vagaries of the drug business.

It Gives New Life.

A well-known citizen was overcome with the heat and infirmaty yesterday and fell upon the sidewalk on Washington street near Seventh. Several persons ran for physicians and one bystander rushed into Chas. A. Appeldorn's Oakland Chowder House and returned in a moment with a glass of cool, invigorating wine. The prostrate man drank the liquid and was inspired with new life. The wine was only one sample of the many kinds of fine wines sold by Mr. Appledorn. The old man walked away just as a physician arrived.

SHOWS OF HIGH ORDER.

May Nannary as "Queena" Makes a Hit at the Oakland.

First Nighters Regaled by Excellent Entertainments at the Theaters.

May Nannary and her excellent company of players received a warm welcome by a crowded house at the Oakland theater last evening. "Queena," a society drama peculiarly suited to the gifted young actress, was the bill, and in every incident was a treat to the large audience. Manager Collins had promised to produce the play in a creditable manner. He exceeded the promise and gave a stage setting that was of itself worthy of attention. There was no expense spared in this regard and the result was two scenes which were pictures of artistic beauty. In the second and third acts some beautiful effects were produced in the setting of the scene picturing the American legation in Paris. A prismatic fountain of real water surrounded by a lavish abundance of exotics was the center piece, while the effect was further heightened by new scenery of beautiful design which was painted expressly for the engagement.

The play tells a story of love and a lapse which carries interest with it to the end when husband and wife are reunited through a beautiful child. The drama is touching and the lines give Miss Nannary a wide scope. She has talent more than the ordinary and gives a finished performance of a difficult part. The large audience on the opening night is an indication of the demand that has been aroused for seats during the week. "Queena" will be the attraction throughout the week. It will be followed by "Wife for Wife."

THE MACDONOUGH.

The demand for seats for the John Drew engagement is already so large that when the sale commences at the Macdonough the houses will be disposed of very quickly. Manager Cook reports that seldom before has such large advance orders for seats been realized for any engagement. The engagement will be a society event and one of marked interest to theater-goers in Oakland. Due announcement will be made of the opening day of the sale.

THE BALDWIN.

The fourth and last week of John Drew at the Baldwin opened very auspiciously last night with the charming love story, "Christopher Jr." The leading roles were taken by Drew and Maud Adams, both of whom were at their best. The play will be repeated this evening and tomorrow night. The programme for the rest of the week is as follows: Thursday, the "Masked Ball;" Friday, "That Imprudent Young Couple;" Saturday afternoon, "The Butterflies," and Saturady night, "The Bauble Shop" will close the engagement.

THE COLUMBIA.

"The District Attorney," a sterling American drama, true to life and carrying consistently a strong plot, was presented last night at the Columbia to a crowded house. The excellent company which has the boards at the dainty Powell street theater was at its best in the play and gave a very enjoyable production. There will be large audiences during the week.

THE ORPHEUM.

Manager Wallers has a splendid holiday week bill for his patrons. His programme is alive with novelties and from beginning to end there is no lagging. The acts are bright, fresh and crisp and none of the big audiences leave with that tired feeling which often oppresses those who witness poor performances. The Orpheum maintains its place as foremost in the ranks of the vaudeville resorts.

MOROSCO'S.

"On the Rio Grande," a melodrama replete with startling scenes, situations and effects, called forth a big house at Morosco's last night. The play is well staged and both the matinee performance and the evening production were well attended. The story is laid on the Texan border and is told with strong presentation. It will enjoy a good run.

THE TIVOLI.

The second week of "Faust" had a successful opening. The Tivoli was crowded to the doors. Miss Ida Vallerga made her reappearance as Marguerite. The season of Italian grand opera so favorably opened will be continued next week by the production of "Lucia di Lammermoor."

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The big pavilion at Hayes and Larkin street in San Francisco attracts throngs of visitors day and night and the entertainment afforded is sufficient to leave every one satisfied with their visit. The thousands of attractive exhibits of the improvements and advances made in art and the sciences are a treat in themselves. The additional feature of the magnificent School orchestra of fifty pieces is much enjoyed.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Oakland's auditor is waiting to be furnished by the police with a list of the telegraph and telephone poles in the various parts of the city and then will be in a position to test the ordinance requiring a ground rental of $2 per pole from the companies using the street. Here is a suggestion for the trustees of Alameda. Such a tax may hasten on the problem of laying all such wires under ground. Above ground these poles are neither ornamental nor picturesque.—Alameda Telegram.

It is a satisfaction to know that the two Oakland men who poured coal oil on a rat and set it on fire were found guilty of a misdemeanor, and will be punished. Even a rat is entitled to be killed before it is cremated.—Fresno Republican.

Oaklanders are engaged in a discussion as to whether the lariat or the net is the more humane way of catching stray dogs. Up this way the people are so humane that they don't catch roaming dogs at all, and as a consequence the town is overrun with worthless canines. An anti-dog society is one of the town's needs.—Haywards Review.

The chances are very favorable for the people of Oakland becoming heartily tired of Populism before the next election and cleaning the whole crowd out the next opportunity that presents itself.—Livermore Herald.

Oakland's Wilmerding school site committee has been offered land at Twenty-third avenue, near the cotton mills, at a very low price. It is argued that if the school is located there Alameda, as well as Oakland, will be benefited.—Alameda Telegram.

The bicycle scare at Oakland has not been bothering our riders very much, although this district has some roads that may produce slight tremblers. Spinal meningitis is something to be dreaded, but our riders of the "bike" will agree to take even chances with the young men who haul grain and sit on a hard board all day trotting the teams over rock roads.—Haywards Review.

For once the public of Oakland has stood in with the Oakland newspapers. The election for bonds, which was supported by the papers, was carried last Saturday.—San Leandro Standard.

Oakland has shown that it will progress rather than retrograde by its carrying of the bond issue. Public improvements will be made, and the obstructionists will have to take a back seat.—Haywards Review.

Oakland is to have some more "fun" with the Southern Pacific Company. A movement is now on foot to test the right of the company to charge fare on its local line through the city. The property owners are all up in arms and propose making a bitter fight.—Pleasanton Times.

More railroad talk is going on in Oakland, and as usual there is much mystery about matters, but the idea seems to be to build a steam road from Oakland to Stockton. At first glance it might be supposed that the proposed road was to form part of the San Joaquin Valley system, but the information is conveyed that it will be an independent enterprise. Out of all the talk something tangible may come, but so many railroads have been projected and never built that people will want to see the work of construction actually begun before putting any faith in rumors.—Haywards Review.

ODD HAPPENINGS IN EUROPE.

A chapel measuring 9x12 feet will shortly be erected on Mount Blanc, 10,000 feet above the sea level.

Last year thirty-three persons in London lost their lives by the explosion of coal-oil lamps. In twenty-five cases the lamps were glass lamps and it is therefore proposed to prohibit their sale and use.

In France it is a punishable offense for anyone to give infants under one year any form of solid food, unless such be ordered by written prescription signed by a legally qualified medical man.

The Mahomedan clergy denounce electricity as a damnable power.

A servant girl at Vienna attempted to commit suicide by a novel method. She undressed and then poured boiling water over herself, being interrupted in this she tried to throw herself from a window. And now she is in her proper sphere—the lunatic asylum.

The smallest clock in the world was on exhibition lately in a jeweller's showwindow in Gottingen, Germany. The dial measures less than one-third of an inch in diameter and the weight which furnishes the motive force for twenty-four hours is suspended from a woman's hair.

L'Independence Belge says that a young Hungarian military doctor named Bela Skevvan has been condemned by court-martial to three months' solitary confinement, to the confiscation of his property and the loss of his doctor's diploma, and to degradation to the rank of a private because in a letter to the military authorities he ventured to express his views on to military service.

Several newspapers in Lissabon, Portugal, with malice aforethought accused the Jesuits of stealing children. Since then, in consequence of those calumniations, many priests have been assaulted on the streets and seriously wounded by the very ignorant and ridiculous populace. In fact, very vigorous measures were necessary to prevent the assassination of all clericals.

A son of Generalrath Julius Schwabach, member of the firm of Bleichroeder of Berlin, has shown himself a phenomenal spendthrift. Within eighteen months he squandered over $250,000. He tried his best or his worst, to prove himself a Rhodesicle blade. For instance, while residing in Leipsic, Germany, he sometimes telegraphed to his tailor at Berlin to come to him by special train to take an order. The rich fool is now under guardianship.

The Berlin Echo has discovered that among the Chinese the "milch" is proven to be the most delicious dish. It consists of new-born mice, still blind. They are dipped in oil and then connoisseurs swallow them very slowly. At the marriage feast of the present Emperor of China not less than 5000 of these sleek bonbons glistened on the festive board.

A late official report shows that contrary to common belief cases of religious mania are rare in the British isles. It also discloses the strange fact that more mental aberration is developed among the tribe of peddlers than among any other class, physicians and druggists coming next. Melancholia prevails most in Ireland.

How densely ignorant the Russian peasants are is shown by the fact that lately a swindler was arrested in the government of Saratow for selling among the peasantry a large number of tickets to the planet Jupiter. Many of the dupes had disposed of everything to buy such a ticket. These would-be emigrants were promised large estates and a life of ease and luxury, of course, and had even been told not to take along the pictures of saints, since on Jupiter they would be likely to make their personal acquaintance.

A piano in a lion cage is the latest stage specialty. It has been introduced by a hitherto obscure female piano teacher who first performed in a lion cage in a menagerie at Dewsburg, England. This experiment is pronounced a grand success. The kingly beasts are said to be very appreciative, and particularly partial to Chopin's airs.

Custom is tyrannical. Hence it is that the English servant maid whenever she wants to shine when taking an airing, continues to actually hire a soldier from the barracks, glorious in scarlet coat and brass buttons, to accompany her at the rate of not less than six pence per hour. By paying eight or ten pence she may monopolize the soldier's society, otherwise the martial gallant may let out half his smiles and his left arm to another maid at the sixpence rate.

An "only original" circus is now giving performances at Christiana, Norway. The members of the troupe represent various grades of nobility. One baron is director of the educated dogs, another baron is a clown, the latter's wife a baroness, charms the public with her songs, a countess beats the cymbals, a marquise twangs the zither, and a duke blows a fife.

Viencse papers state that Czar Nicholas II, is a mere puppet in the hands of his mother. The reign of the Dowager Empress is, however, confined to politics. In court society the young Empress—a Russian princess with an English education—rules supreme; she has already succeeded in making English the dominant language in court circles, and is endeavoring to supplant Russian with English etiquette and habits. And now the average Russian would not be surprised to learn that the court cats are being taught to bark.

German railroad cars are not comfortable, but German railroad management is fair. For instance, according to a late agreement between the railroads, if a traveler now makes only part of the trip to which his ticket entitles him, the money paid in excess is returned to him, provided the station master of the station where his trip was cut short has certified to the fact on the ticket.

Some of the postoffices in the province of Brandenburg, Prussia, have queer names: Old Nag, Blue Monkey, Flying Horse, Green Deer, Hungry Wolf, Cow Beer, Pig's Whistle, etc. And the Postal Guide for the province shows further an astonishing assortment of foreign names: Annapolis, Ceylon, Charlestown, Beauregard, Corsica, Jerusalem, Jamaica, Malta, Maryland, Ninive, Pensilvanien, Saratoga, Zion, etc., all these lying and situate in the ultra-Prussian province of the ultra-German Kingdom.

COTTOLENE.

When Your CAKE Is All Dough

When your cake is heavy, soggy, indigestible, it's a pretty sure sign that you didn't shorten it with Cottolene. When this great shortening is rightly used, the result will surely satisfy the most fastidious. Always remember that the quality of Cottolene makes a little of it go a long way. It's willful waste to use more than two-thirds as much as you would of lard or butter. Always use Cottolene this way and your cake and pastry will always be light, wholesome, delicious.

Genuine COTTOLENE is sold everywhere in tins, with trade-marks—"Cottolene" and steer's head in cotton-plant wreath—on every tin.

AN ESTATE FOUGHT FOR.

Public Administrator Knight Seeking the Cook Property.

W. G. Tripp, However, Insists the Official Has No Control.

W. G. Tripp intends to give Public Administrator Knight a hard fight over the possession of the estate of the late Elizabeth L. Cook whose confidential advisor Tripp was for five years preceding her death in Oakland last June.

Tripp claims that the estate was conveyed to him in trust by Mrs. Cook a month prior to her decease. It was her wish that he settle it on the terms she dictated and prevent the property from becoming involved in the Probate Court. Her action in the matter has precipitated litigation which may not be settled for several years.

At the outset Public Administrator Knight had Tripp cited before the Superior Court to show cause why he should not deliver the estate into Knight's hands. It was ascertained that Mrs. Cook had died intestate. Major Fred Whitney, representing Knight, made a demand for the property but failed to secure it. Then the proceedings in court were taken.

The hearing upon the order to show cause why the property should not be turned over to Knight has lagged somewhat, but there are fresh suits in the field.

The failure of Tripp to yield to Knight's demand paved the way for another action. Under the statutes of this State, the public administrator may recover double the amount of property held from him if it be shown that the withholding was illegal, so Attorney Whitney commenced such an action.

Along with this came a suit on the part of some of the Eastern relatives of Mrs. Cook. They claimed to have an interest in the estate and sought a distribution.

Tripp, however, is going to fight. He has filed an answer to Knight's second action and takes each section of the complaint and makes a specific denial to the allegations. He says he has not illegally withheld any of the Cook estate from Knight. He will fall back upon the trust deeds and bills of sale which were executed to him before Mrs. Cook's death to show that practically she left no estate. The entire value of the property is not definitely known. It is said to be about $10,000. A house and lot at Tenth and Castro streets is the largest piece of property connected with the estate.

THE COUNTY TAX LEVY.

All Will be Ready for the Board to Act Next Monday.

Next Monday the Supervisors will fix the county tax levy and the levy for each of the fifty or more school districts in the county for the present fiscal year. Auditor Whidden, now that he has received instructions from the District Attorney, is working night and day to complete the various tabulations necessary to inform the Supervisors as to the tax rate required to raise sufficient money to operate the county government for the present fiscal year.

The work is based upon the total valuation on the county assessment rolls as compared with the estimates of expenses furnished through a comparative examination of the cost of operation of last year. The school district levies depend upon the amount of bonded indebtedness the district may have to liquidate.

As soon as the Board officially fixes the tax rate the Auditor will be compelled to go through the assessment rolls and extend the amount of taxes on each assessment. This work must be done and the rolls turned over to the Tax Collector on the first Monday in October.

A GOOD JURY.

The remains of Mrs. Gay were taken from the morgue this morning to her home.

The Torbett Company.

San Francisco critics give high praise to the performances of the Torbett Concert Company. Of the violinist the Examiner writes: "Miss Ollie Torbett plays with excellent skill. She has perfect command of the bow and fairly won the audience by storm. She was repeatedly encored and rendered a number of solos during the evening, to the delight of her hearers."

The Call man is more pleased with the men singers. "A decided hit was made at the Metropolitan Temple last night by the Swedish male sextette of the Torbett Concert Company. Their singing of Swedish college songs was especially appreciated, and at every point where the singers of the sextet were called upon to appear they were re-demanded again and again."

Mounting a Wheel.

It has long been a mystery to us how our female bikers mounted their wheels. At length we had the supreme satisfaction of witnessing the feat, and this is the way she did it, as nearly as we can remember. She placed her left hand on the port end of the steering apparatus; then she put her No. 5½ on the starboard pedal, then she clutched with her right hand some stern sheeting and then a sort of wiggle, up and backward, and while we were winking she was seated, and there was a blue streak skimming the surface like a bird.—Maine Paper.

Did Much Good.

Owing to the very generous gift of $500 which has recently been presented to the West Oakland Home by Mr. and Mrs. John Crellin the managers of that institution have been enabled to cancel the mortgage by which it has been encumbered. All connected with its management feel very grateful for the interest and sympathy thus substantially expressed and have sincere cause for congratulation that the Home is now free from debt.

CRACKED HIS SKULL.

His Injuries Are Serious, But It Is Thought Will Not Be Fatal.

A buggy containing A. G. Wiese, Paul Geiler and Richard P. Valentine was struck by an Alameda and Oakland car at the corner of Tenth and Jefferson streets at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The occupants were thrown to the ground, the buggy was smashed and the horse ran away. Mr. Valentine was severely injured, while the others escaped unhurt. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where it was discovered that his skull was fractured.

The fracture is his skull is at the base of the brain, and while very serious, it is thought will not prove necessarily fatal.

The physicians in attendance, Drs. Dunn and Hamlin, are very much inclined to believe there is a chance of his recovery, but the siege will be a long one at best.

Valentine is still at the Receiving Hospital, where he remained all night in a semi-conscious condition. He regained his senses this morning sufficiently to recognize his wife, who has been by his side for hours past. The greatest care will have to be taken of the injured man as the fracture, while not large, is of sufficient dimension to warrant extreme caution being displayed in handling him.

The injured man is superintendent of the Oakland Electric Light and Motor Company.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT.

Stephen Hamilton Has Secured Satisfaction From James Costigan.

Stephen Hamilton and James M. Costigan have settled their differences engendered recently over a real estate deal involving an exchange of Fresno acreage property with a lot at Eighth and Jefferson streets in Oakland. Hamilton claimed that Costigan had transferred land which Hamilton had only pledged with Costigan as security for a debt. Subsequently so Hamilton's complaint recited, Costigan mortgaged the lot for $3,000. Hamilton sued to recover the difference between the amount secured on the mortgage and the debt he originally owed which was $945.

Today notice was filed in the Superior Court on the part of Hamilton dismissing the action on the ground that full satisfaction had been rendered by Costigan for all claims Hamilton had set up against him in his suit.

TWENTY CENTS AN HOUR.

The Street Department Is to Adopt a New System.

How It Is Proposed to Avoid the Eight-Hour Law.

The street department will work with the Council in reducing the city's expense. In doing so it does not attempt to cut the pay of any of its employes, but merely to engage them so as to have them work ten hours a day and still comply with the labor laws.

The pay of the street laborers at the present time is $2 a day and under the provisions of the political code the men cannot be forced to work over eight hours. This makes the job a "snap" in comparison with the time and salary paid laborers by the private employers. With those the men are compelled to work ten and eleven hours daily and receive but $1.50.

San Francisco has reduced the street expenses by cutting the salaries of the men from $2 to $1.10 a day.

To act in compliance with the labor laws the street department here is advised the City Council to authorize the employment of men at 20 cents an hour. Under this provision those who wish to work ten hours will be permitted to do so but will not be required to work for more than eight.

Up to a short time ago the men employed on the streets were working ten hours, but the Labor Bureau and the Federated Trades objected and of late they have been working but eight. While working for ten hours they were informed by Street Superintendent Miller of the existing labor law and told that if they wished they could take advantage of it without prejudice to themselves. At the same time he told them of the city's need of money and compared its liberality to institutions employing labor. Not a man on the entire force took advantage of the law, but each worked ten hours a day. To further reduce the expenses Miller advised that sixteen of the street sprinklers be laid off. This will save the city nearly $100 a day.

Bishop Whipple on Indians.

"When I went to Minnesota," said he, "Indian affairs were in their worst state. The agents were appointed as a reward for political services. The salary was but $1500 a year, but there was a definite understanding that the position meant a competency for life. The Indians had been dragged down to sorrow their fathers had never known. The Sioux have a very bad reputation now, but for thirty years it was their boast that they had never taken the life of a white man. If the former friendship has been changed to enmity it is our fault.

"The Indian is the noblest type of the wild man in the world. He recognizes the Great Spirit, believes in a future life, has a passionate love for his children, and will lay down his life for his tribe. He is courteous and hospitable. If his bitterest enemy came to his wigwam he would be treated as an honored guest. The world is peopled with spiritual influences to the Indian. There is a spirit in the waterfall, another in the thunder, another in the trees. Everything explainable by science is by the Indian attributed to a spiritual influence. The Indian is proverbially honest, unless he is demoralized by drink.

"In thirty-six years experience with the Indians I never knew one to tell a lie, and I never had a thing stolen by one. I asked an Indian once if it was safe to leave my property in my wigwam while I made a distant journey. He laughed and said: 'Quite safe. There isn't a white man within 100 miles of you.' Among themselves the Indians are fond of jokes and are often shouting with laughter. They are taciturn, however, in the presence of whites.—Cleveland Leader.

The Ratburners Sentenced.

Judge Wood sentenced Richard Wood and Charles Frank today. They are the individuals charged by the Society of Cruelty to Animals with burning three rats. The defendants made a motion for a new trial, which was denied and in each case the court imposed a fine of $25 or imprisonment for twelve and a half days.

THEY ARE COMRADES NOW.

Veterans of the Blue and Gray Arm-in-Arm at Louisville.

It Is Estimated That There Are 200,000 Strangers in Town.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

LOUSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 10.—It is doubtful if this city ever before entertained as many guests as are here today.

It is conservatively estimated that nearly 200,000 strangers are here, the majority of whom 30 years ago bore arms either for the blue or for the gray.

But the blue and gray are one today, and the men who were then at war, walk arm in arm as brothers.

The event today was the grand parade of the Naval Veterans Association.

Old citizens say it was the grandest sight they ever saw.

But the great Grand Army parade tomorrow which is to be the event of the week, promises to far surpass it.

There were fully 10,000 men in line.

Of course they were not all veterans of the navy, but these veterans were the center of attraction and were greeted by patriotic cheers from tens of thousands of people.

Last in the parade, riding in carriages, came a score or more veterans of the Mexican war, too feeble to walk.

IN POLICE CIRCLES.

A Number of Wheelmen Pay Forfeit to the City.

Nearly everybody who had money enough to get drunk on had gone to Sacramento and the police did not have the criminal dock at the police court very full today for three days' work. But eight individuals who had hilariously celebrated Admission Day were on hand. Among the lot was Mat Kennedy, at one time a politician in Oakland. He had committed his offense of drunkenness some time ago and had escaped from the arresting officer. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for the 12th.

F. Gironomo tried to make the holiday pleasant for Miss F. Podest by taking her for a spin on a wheel. They forgot to carry the required headlight and the gentleman paid the city $4 for his oversight.

John Smith, James Thompson and C. Engisking, also paid $2 apiece for not riding their bicycles in compliance with the ordinance.

H. A. Smith, charged with disturbing the peace, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for September 13th.

John Vera, charged with battery upon Miss Flannigan, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Al. Jim, a seller of lottery tickets, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty and forfeited $75 bail.

Wm. Dannaker, the lad who, it is said, robbed the U. P. restaurant on Seventh street, had his arraignment continued to the 13th.

Farmer Caldwell Files His Petition in Insolvency.

A. P. Caldwell, a Contra Costa county farmer, has tired of the struggle against ill fortune and the accumulation of debts which he sees no way to satisfy. He has filed his petition in insolvency in the Superior Court of this county, where most of his creditors reside. His debts, which consist largely of promissory notes, amount to $2,965.50. He owns no real estate. His personal property is valued at $825.50 but $200 worth is exempt from execution. This leaves a balance of $531.50 to apply to the liquidation of his liabilities.

Foreclosure Suits.

J. N. Williams has brought suit against H. B. Gaston to foreclose a mortgage of $2370 upon lots 8 and 9 in the Claremont avenue tract. Included as defendants in the suit are half a dozen building firms in the city who have liens upon the property.

The Firemen's Fund Insurance Company has brought suit against Johanna R. F. Juhesa and Clara E. Crest to foreclose a mortgage of $200 upon a block of land bounded by Third, Fourth, Cali and Madison streets. The mortgage was given on November 30, 1893, to the Oakland Home Insurance Company to secure a promissory note of even date.

Witness F. G. Pierce Commits Suicide at Stockton.

He Was Out of Work and Gloomy, So He Gave Up the Fight.

Chief Kingsburry of the Stockton police telephoned Chief Lloyd this morning F. G. Pierce, summoned as a witness in the case against D. S. Herschel, had committed suicide by poison.

The case of the people against Herschel was to be tried tomorrow and the prosecution had issued a foreign subpoena for Pierce. At the time of its service he told Chief Kingsburry that he was out of work and had no money with which to come to Oakland. He accepted service of the paper, however, when informed of his rights as to the payment of expenses.

The case in which he was wanted was a charge of extortion made against Herschel by Charles Madeson, who claims that Herschel attempted to get money from him for not disclosing the fact that Madeson had been confined in Folsom for two years. The prosecution expected to prove by Pierce that he had heard Herschel make the demand for money.

Pierce was employed for some time in Oakland. He was in the service of the railroad company and worked on the repairs made on the trestle leading to the Alameda mole.

He had been in Stockton for about three months and was stopping at the Garibald house. He leaves a wife and family in San Francisco.

BULLETINS.

By the Associated Press.

HIGHLANDS NAVESINK, 10 A. M. The Defender is sailing off and on between Sandy Hook and Scotland lightship, and after standing in shore on the port tack came about and stood back toward Sandy Hook on the starboard tack. The Valkyrie was also out a mile and a half to leeward. The fog lifted afterward and Sandy Hook lightship can be discerned. Wind S. by W. and light.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP MACKAY-BENNETT, 10 A. M.—The Valkyrie and Defender are beating about off the lightship. The wind is S. by W., very light and the sea smooth. There is much fog about and it lifts occasionally. As the day wears on the prospects for racing appear better, although there is not as much wind as could be wished for.

10:20 A. M.—The Defender's sails were never seen in better shape. The tug boat Luckenbach, with the turning marks on board has just passed.

HIGHLANDS, 10:20 A. M.—both boats have arrived at the lightship. They have a fair breeze from the south, blowing about five or six miles an hour, and are only about half a mile apart, standing in shore. The Defender is a little to windward.

STEAMSHIP MACKAY-BENNETT.

10:46 A. M.—The committee boat has displayed the course signals. The first leg of the triangle will be direct south, second N.E. by E, third N. W. by W. half west.

10:49 A. M.—The preparatory signal has been fired.

11:05 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line, but the Defender before crossing carried away her topmast. The American yacht raised the protest flag.

11:10 A. M.—The Defender claims the Valkyrie violated the racing rules by bearing down on her and carrying away her starboard shroud. The protest is accepted.

11:11 A. M.—The Defender's topmast is evidently badly sprung, although not carried away. Both yachts are now on the starboard tack. They are carrying mainsails, club topsails, staysails, jibs and No. 2 jib topsails. Defender is in the lead but to leeward.

11:13 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line at 11:00:13, Defender 11:01:15.

11:18 A. M.—Valkyrie is still to the windward by half a mile. Both boats are on the port tack, pointing about the same. The wind is south half west, five knots.

HIGHLANDS, 11:22 A. M.—The Defender is sailing a great race and has gained over an eighth of a mile in the last ten minutes. She is constantly eating through the lea of the Valkyrie.

11:35 A. M.—Both yachts are still holding in short on the port tack. The Defender has just broken out her jib topsail. The crew is having difficulty in making it set well and it is being hauled down.

11:35 A. M.—Both yachts are now but two miles from this point directly east and headed southwest. The Defender is sailing closer to the wind that the Valkyrie.

11:40 A. M.—Both yachts are still holding on the port tack.

11:45 A. M.—The Defender seems to have dropped a little in the last ten minutes, but is still continuing to point higher than the Valkyrie. The Valkyrie has a lead of about three-eighths of a mile.

11:50 A. M.—Both yachts are now passing this point and holding along sharp, as the wind has shifted a trifle to the eastward. The Valkyrie is gaining a little, but the wind is not over six miles an hour.

LONG BRANCH, 11:50 A. M.—The yachts have come in view off this place and are standing down this way. They are making frequent tacks. No stakeboat has arrived yet.

HIGHLANDS, 12:05 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems to be pulling a little away from the Defender and while not pointing as high as her is footing apparently a little faster.

12:12 P. M.—The Valkyrie it seems from here, has a lead of nearly half a mile.

12:22 P. M.—The Valkyrie has just come about on the starboard tack. The Defender followed suit directly in her wake. She was walking by the Valkyrie just before the two boats tacked. The Defender is now only one-fourth of a mile behind. She is directly in line with the Valkyrie and is closing up the gap and going through the water at a great rate. The yachts are both in line from this point and the Defender's gain can easily be seen.

12:23 P. M.—The Defender is only a short distance behind the Valkyrie and is certainly out-footing her. The wind has freshened and the American yacht has sailed a wonderfully fast race in the last ten minutes.

LONG BRANCH, 12:30 P. M.—The stake-boat has taken up a position off this shore. The Valkyrie has been leading the Defender but the latter seems to have crept up considerably to the center and now appears ahead of the English yacht.

MACKAY-BENNETT, 12:11 P. M.—The Defender seems to be sailing by fits and starts today. For a while she has headed better than the Valkyrie but latterly she has tagged off. Within the past few minutes, however, she has made a better spurt and is now out-pointing the Valkyrie wonderfully. There is quite a stretch of water between them, however, probably about 150 yards.

HIGHLANDS, 12:13 P. M.—The Defender is now fairly out-pointing the Valkyrie and is directly in her wake and only about a quarter of a mile astern. The yachts have sailed about eight miles of the first leg of the course and when they tack again should be even with the first mark off Long Branch.

12:50 P. M.—It seems as if the Defender is constantly decreasing the gap between herself and the Valkyrie. The latter cannot be much in the lead. At 12:40 the Western Union says the Valkyrie seems to be about half a mile ahead and still on the starboard tack standing southeast.

NEW YORK, 12:15 P. M.—According to the New York World miniature yachts the Defender is ahead.

HIGHLANDS, 12:53 P. M.—Both yachts seem to be getting into a nice breeze and are heeling over five or ten degrees. The Defender seems to be heeling over a little more than the Valkyrie. The American yacht is now well upwindward and it is possible she will round the first mark ahead of or at least close to her rival.

12:55 P. M.—Both yachts are still heeling up on the starboard tack. The Defender from here seems to have fallen off a little in her windward work.

1 P. M.—The Valkyrie has disappeared in the fog. The Defender can still be seen.

LONG BRANCH, 1:07 P. M.—The yachts have rounded the stake boat. The Valkyrie went around at 12:57:20, the Defender at 1:00:30.

HIGHLANDS 1:07 P. M.—According to the time taken here the Valkyrie rounded the first mark at 12:58:15; the Defender at 1:02:05.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 1:07 P. M.—The time of rounding the first stake boat as taken here is: Valkyrie 12:57:30; Defender, 1:00:50.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 2:08 P. M.—Both yachts are visible, running for the second mark, but they are not plain enough in view to enable the watchers here to identify them.

FAR ROCKAWAY, 2:10 P. M.—What appears to be one of the big sloops is faintly visible through the haze. She can not be seen clear enough to be distinguished as either the Valkyrie or the Defender.

HIGHLANDS, 2:11 P. M.—The excursion fleet is feeling for the lightship which seems to show the yachts are running the second mark.

2:16 P. M.—One of the yachts seems to have a lead of over a mile and it looks like the Valkyrie.

FAR ROCKAWAY, 2:20 P. M.—The big sloops appear to be half a mile apart. The people here think the Defender is ahead.

HIGHLANDS, 2:30 P. M.—Both boats can now be seen from here and there seems to be no doubt the Valkyrie is leading by a mile.

2:35 P. M.—The excursion fleet has gathered around the lightship and the Valkyrie is winner before 3 o'clock.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 2:36 P. M.—The yachts are very close, but the Valkyrie is ahead. The Luckenbach has taken up a position at the finish line.

2:37 P. M.—The Defender is pushing the Valkyrie hard and it is believed the American yacht may win on the time allowance.

2:55 P. M.—The times of the yachts rounding the second mark were: Valkyrie, 1:58:10; Defender, 2:01:15.

2:56 P. M.—The Valkyrie finishes, 2:55:40.

HIGHLANDS, 2:58 P. M.—The Defender finished, 2:57:55. The Valkyrie wins by about two minutes eleven seconds lapsed time, unofficial.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 3 P. M.—The official times are:

Start—Valkyrie, 11:00:13; Defender, 11:01:15.

First mark—Valkyrie, 12:57:43; Defender, 1:01:30.

Second mark boat—Valkyrie, 1:58:10; Defender, 2:01:45.

Finish—Valkyrie, 2:55:22; Defender, 2:57:40.

Corrected time—Valkyrie, 2:55:09; Defender, 2:55:56.

Valkyrie wins by 47 seconds.

3:19 P. M.—In the last three miles the American boat picked up considerable lost ground, and notwithstanding the protest flag gallantly finished. As they came down to the line the two boats were dressed alike. Each carried a mainsail number 1, club topsail, balloon stay sail, jib and No. 3 jib tosail. They eased sheets on the port tack just before the line was crossed. The Valkyrie carried a very heavy bone in her teeth, kicking up a great wave before her. The Defender made little fuss. When the Valkyrie was just off the line she slowed a bit and lost headway. Both yachts went up towards the city when the race was over, amid the tooting of whistles and the boats were racing towards Sandy Hook with all sails set. The Valkyrie wins subject to protest. The regatta committee will hear the case on its merits. It is thought probable the decision will be that the two yachts must sail an extra race.

ON BOARD ASSOCIATED PRESS TUG, (By Carrier Pigeon), BATH BEACH, 3:15 P. M.—The Defender raised a protest flag at the start. Her jib sheet parted and the flapping of the sail seemed to shake the topmast backstay out of the spreader, and caused the topmast to spring. The Defender probably claimed the accident occurred before the starting signal was given. The committee did not allow it.

SANDY HOOK, 3:30 P. M.—The Defender and Valkyrie both under sail are heading in past this point for the bay. The committee boat is also passing in, heading towards New York.

BULLETINS.

By the Western Union.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 10:20 A. M.—Both yachts are standing about Sandy Hook lightship. The wind is S. S. E. about six miles. The Valkyrie has her jib, mainsail and club topsails. The Defender has jib, mainsail, club topsail and fore top set. The number of yachts and steamers is the largest ever seen here before.

HIGHLANDS, 10:58 A. M.—The wind is due south with prospects of increasing.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 10:59 A. M.—The boats are manoeuvering for a start off Sandy Hook lightship.

11:04 A. M.—The wind has dropped to four miles an hour.

11:05—The preparatory signal has just been set.

11:10 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line shortly after the ten-minute start and the Defender barely saved the two minute gun. The Valkyrie is leading in a windward position.

HIGHLANDS, 11:20 A. M.—Sixteen seconds before the starting gun was fired the Valkyrie's boom broke the Defender's topmast backstay, bending her mast to leeward and cracking it. The Defender continued on the course, hoisting a protest signal. The Valkyrie was plainly in the fault, as the Defender had the right-of-way. The starting gun was fired at 11, and two minutes later the limit fire gun was fired. After crossing, the Valkyrie led slightly, but the Defender is rapidly closing the gap. The yachts are both standing on towards Highlands on the port tack. The start was made at exactly 11 o'clock and 30 seconds. The Defender is now rapidly closing on the Valkyrie. As both boats are going directly from me it is impossible to say which is ahead. The Valkyrie is in the windward position. Both boats are still on the port tack standing on shore six miles an hour south.

11:24 A. M.—A good breeze is blowing. The yachts are under club topsails.

OFF SCOTLANDS, 11:25 A. M.—The wind is hauling to the southwest. The Defender is out-pointing the Valkyrie.

11:26 A. M.—A good breeze is now blowing. Both yachts are under club topsails.

11:27 A. M.—The excursion steamers are behaving better than Saturday and are keeping astern and to the leaward of the racers. The yachts went about on the starboard tack. The Valkyrie is slightly in the lead passing here.

11:28 A. M.—The Valkyrie appears ahead as the open water shows the Valkyrie slightly in the lead passing here, but the Defender is closing the gap.

HIGHLANDS, 11:29 A. M.—The Valkyrie is about an eighth of a mile in the lead.

11:30 A. M.—The Valkyrie leads by 150 yards. The Defender is rapidly closing the gap. Both yachts are on the port tack. The excursion boats are right on top of them.

11:33 A. M.—The Defender is about on the starboard tack and unable to carry her jib topmast. The Valkyrie followed suit three seconds later.

11:35 A. M.—The Defender has set her No. 2 jib topsail. Both yachts are on the port tack and the Defender is crawling up.

11:36 A. M.—Both yachts are even now.

11:40 A. M.—The Defender has taken in her jib topsail. The Valkyrie has the best position to windward. It looks as if the Defender had trouble with her jib topsail.

11:43 A. M.—The Defender leads seventy-five yards. The Valkyrie has the windward position. They are still on a port tack and heading for Long Branch. The yachts, which had been running on the port tack since the start went about on the starboard tack four minutes later on the port tack at 11:30 A. M. Twenty-one minutes after the Defender set her No. 2 topsail she took it in.

11:47 A. M.—Both boats are still standing on the port tack southwest. The wind is increasing S. S. W.

11:52 A. M.—The Valkyrie has the windward position. The whole excursion fleet seems to be between the two yachts. The wind is about eight miles an hour.

11:53 A. M.—The boats are still in about the same position. The Valkyrie is about a quarter of a mile in the lead. The steamboats are giving them a better chance today.

11:54 A. M.—The Valkyrie is going on the starboard tack.

11:55 A. M.—The Defender goes about, closely followed by the Valkyrie.

12:03 P. M.—The Valkyrie is gaining slightly on the Defender.

12:05 P. M.—They are still on the starboard tack standing S. S. W. The Valkyrie leads.

12:09 P. M.—Today's course is a triangle of ten miles each side, thirty in all. The boats have gone about six miles on the first leg. The stake boat for the first turn is not anchored yet.

12:19 P. M.—Every time the Defender goes about the Valkyrie does the same to keep leeward. The Valkyrie goes about followed by the Defender.

12:22 P. M.—The Defender seems to be improving her position and is gaining slightly.

12:37 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems to hold her lead. Both have a good breeze.

12:38 P. M.—The Valkyrie now leads about an eighth of a mile.

12:40 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems about half a mile in the lead. They are still on the starboard tack, standing southeast.

12:49 P. M.—Judging from the distance off shore both boats must be nearing the stake boat.

12:51 P. M.—The indications now are that the Valkyrie will round the first turn ahead of the Defender. The wind is increasing.

12:54 P. M.—The boats are nearing the first turn eleven miles off the shore.

1:04 P. M.—The Valkyrie rounded the stake boat at 12:57:30 and the Defender turned at 1 o'clock 50 seconds.

HIGHLANDS, 1:37 P. M.—The wind is about twelve miles an hour. The yachts are enveloped in a fog, but the wind may dispel it.

2:25 P. M.—The Valkyrie is about a mile ahead of the Defender and about three miles from the lightship.

2:49 P. M.—The Valkyrie is about a mile from lightship.

2:51 P. M.—The Valkyrie is close to the lightship. The Defender is coming rapidly.

2:54 P. M.—The Valkyrie has crossed.

2:55 P. M.—The Valkyrie crossed at 2:54 and 19 seconds. The Defender at 2:55 and 58 seconds. The Valkyrie won by 46 seconds.

EARLY MORNING SCENES.

The Water All in Favor of Lord Dunraven's Boat.

(By cable to the Associated Press.)

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT OFF SANDY HOOK, 8:30 A. M.—Early morning off Sandy Hook Lightship found the Mackay-Bennett cable boat near the buoy.

At 7:30 the interesting operation of picking up the cable was perfected and when it had been overhauled the connection with the shore was made.

By 8 o'clock the wires to the Associated Press were in use from this point and 18 miles out to sea.

At this hour the weather indications are for a good racing day, and an American day at that, for the triangular course is looked upon as favoring the Defender.

It is quite thick on the horizon but a pink line in the distance gives promise of a clear day.

There is also the prospect of an air sailing breeze although three knots an hour is the limit of the wind at the present.

The water will favor the British boat for it is almost as smooth as glass, with none of the heavy chop sea that seemed to affect the Valkyrie Saturday.

Toward 8:30 o'clock the haze had lifted in the narrows and it was quite bright but out to sea it still continued thick, while the breeze did not freshen as much as anticipated.

ARRANGING THE COURSE.

The Yachts to Race Over a Thirty Mile Triangle.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—David Henderson of the Anchor Line represents Lord Dunraven on board the Defender today, and Joseph R. Rusk, owner of the sloop "Mischief," who defended the America's cup against the Canadian sloop Atlanta, the challenger of 1879, represents the America's cup committee on the Valkyrie.

Today's race will be around the triangular course ten miles each leg, thirty miles in all, starting from Sandy Hook Lightship and with the first leg a beat if possible.

With the wind holding from the southwest this would be possible, but the yachts would have to run very close to the Jersey shore to turn.

A dull haze obscures the horizon, cutting off the range except for about five or six miles off the shore, but the Sandy Hook lightship could not be made out and it looked as if a fair view of the race would not be obtained from here.

The cable ship Mackay-Bennett, also at 6 A. M., put out from the Hook in order to take up her buoyed cable and after passing Scotland Lightship was soon lost in the mists.

THE RACE REVIEWED.

A Detailed Account of How the Great Struggle Occurred.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK, N. J., Sept. 10.—A cloudy sky and a smooth, leaden-looking sea, over which light southwest airs were sweeping gently was the outlook from here at 6 o'clock this morning.

Valkyrie III and the Defender were absent from their usual moorings, having passed the night almost at a biscuit's toss of each other off the Atlantic Yacht Club's anchorage at Bay Ridge.

The Britishers, not much discouraged by the defeat Saturday, have shifted some ballast from aft forward.

At the suggestion of George L. Watson, her designer, they have had her remeasured and have given her a good trial spin, and confidently expect her to show up in better form today.

Real so-called Valkyrie weather prevailed off the Hook this morning.

There was smooth sea and light airs, but no patriotic American doubted the Defender's ability to make it "three straight."

Rear Commodore James C. Bergen of the New York Yacht Club, who is in control of the volunteer patrol fleet, has made a second request to the captains of the steamers which accompany the racers to avoid interference with the yachts, and it is predicted if his injunctions are not attended to Sandy Hook waters will never have the pleasure of seeing another international yacht race under any conditions, for the next challenger may stipulate the contest shall take place off some part of the coast where such interference is impossible.

Off shore at 7 o'clock the wind was only about four miles an hour, but this was an improvement on the light airs earlier this morning.

The coasting craft, beating down along the shore made little progress except by aid of the last of the ebb tide.

However, there were breaks in the clouds which at intervals seemed to hold out a promise of better weather as the day wore on.

These favorable indications continued until at 8, when the sun began breaking through the mantle of cloud in earnest and the wind came breezing up from the southwest until it was stirring at the rate of six miles an hour.

But off the shore it was still very thick, it being impossible to see much further north than the end of the Hook, and Scotland lightship could only be dimly seen.

COMING UP.

The Valkyrie, at 8:42, could be seen following the Defender through Swash channel with her mainsail set and in tow.

Shortly before 9 o'clock the Defender passed outside the Hook with her mainsail and jib set, in tow of a tug.

The sky had commenced to clear slightly in the northwest, and Scotland lightship could be plainly seen.

This gave hope that the weather might clear sufficiently to enable the watchers here to see Sandy Hook lightship and the start.

The fleet of tugs commenced coming down from New York and a dozen or more were running through Swash channel at 9 o'clock and following the racers out to the lightship.

The Luckenbach, with an attendant tug, was following astern of the Defender and the Valkyrie was half way down Swash channel.

The sea did not bother the Defender in the slightest today.

At 9:10 A. M. Sandy Hook lightship could not be seen from here, although the two yachts could be made out on the way there.

The Valkyrie at 9:15 A. M. was well out past the Hook with her mainsail, club topsail and two head sails set.

She was still in tow and, like the Defender, glided along easily.

The wind was still light and from the southwest.

Schooner yachts and the excursion fleet at 9:20 A. M. began to show up off the end of the Hook, and the Navahoe was just running the point.

The City of Bridgeport, the Valkyrie's tender, will not apparently follow the racers today, as she was coming in past the Hook at 9:20 o'clock, leaving the Valkyrie to be towed out to the lightship by the tug.

The Defender, at 9:27, dropped tow and was standing out toward Sandy Hook lightship under three lower sails, and on the starboard tack.

The Valkyrie was still in tow, with large club topsails and jib pulling nicely in a light wind.

Shortly after 9:30 the Defender went about on the port tack and a couple of minutes later went around again and headed out to sea, and towards Sandy Hook lightship.

The Valkyrie was standing out after her, and was a considerable distance behind.

The fog at 9:40 was thicker and Scotland lightship could only be indistinctly seen.

The Defender was in line with it, and about a mile from the other side.

As seen from this point, the Valkyrie was about half the way out.

The Defender was then setting the large white club top-sail which she used Saturday.

Then the Defender disappeared in the fog which seemed to be rolling in separate banks off the coast for almost at the same time the Sandy Hook Lightship and the Mackay-Bennett cable steamer anchored to the westward of it were made out.

At 10 o'clock there was pouring out through Swash Channel a long line of excursion steamers, tugs, steam yachts, schooner yachts and smaller crafts, reaching from the neighborhood of the Hook to New York, apparently.

At 10:10 the wind was still light, about four miles an hour and about south southwest here, when the boats came down towards the imaginary line.

Those aboard the Defender are Capt. Hank Haff at the wheel and First Mate Terrey at the sheets; aft are W. D. Duncan, Natt Hershoff, designer, Newberry B. Thorn, Woodbury Kane, Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, Herbert C. Lees, W. K. Vanderbilt, C. Oliver Iselin, and David D. Henderson, representing Lord Dunraven and the Royal Yacht Squadron.

On board the Valkyrie are Lord Dunraven, Latham Fish representing the New York Yacht Club, George Watson, designer, Vice Commodore Arthur Glennie, Sailmaker Ratsey, Maitland Kersey, Lady Rachael Wyndham Quinn and Aileen Wyndham Quinn, Captain Cranfield was at the stick and Captain Sycamore was busily engaged directing the crew.

A fleet of steam yachts at 10:26 were in the offing and hurrying down to the course.

The committee boat at 10:23 displayed signal "D," meaning the course to be sailed was triangular, namely from the starting line ten miles to and around the mark; thence ten miles to and around a second mark; thence ten miles to the finish line turning the margs on the outside of the triangle to port or starboard, according as the yachts were sent.

The Embla acted as police boat.

There were not a third as many boats out today as on Saturday.

The yachts at 10:32 were spitting around the committee boat preparatory to getting in a good position for the start.

The Defender crossed the Valkyrie's bow to leeward and was standing in the shore port tack while the Valkyrie was jogging along before the wind with sheets well aft.

Then she swung around and headed away from the Defender on a starboard tack.

At 10:50 the preparatory signal was fired and the yachts began the usual jocking for positions.

The British yacht blanketed the Defender and the Defender worked out from under the lee only to be again blanketed.

THE START.

The yachts crossed the line at the following official times:

Valkyrie 11:00:13
Defender 11:01:15

At 11:02:30, after a short tack to starboard, both the boats came about and stood directly toward this point on the port tack, the Defender to leeward, and seemingly to point a trifle higher than the Valkyrie.

Shortly after the start the Defender hoisted a protest flag and the protest was allowed, it being believed here that the Valkyrie fouled the Defender during the luffing matches.

It seemed from here as if one of the Defender's shrouds was injured, but nothing definite could be made out.

The beautiful white silk club topsail was in great shape and there was not the slightest sign of a break.

The two yachts at 11:43 were not more than a mile and a half off shore.

The Defender was sailing along nicely without the aid of her jib topsail.

The Valkyrie seemed gaining a trifle on the Defender, as she was getting a better breeze to windward.

The excursion fleet gave the yachts all the room they wanted.

It was possible from here to look down directly on the decks of both yachts.

Through the great glass of the Associated Press the rival skippers could be seen at their posts.

Both the yachts at 12:07 P. M. were still holding off shore on the starboard tack, the Valkyrie apparently about half a mile ahead.

The Defender shortly after 12:10 went about on the port tack.

The Valkyrie immediately followed suit.

The Defender seemed to go about five seconds faster than the Valkyrie, and from the positions it looked as if the Defender had crawled up a little on her rival, but the race was undoubtedly very close.

The two yachts about 12:20 went on the starboard tack.

The Defender was then only a quarter of a mile behind and clearly outfooting her rival.

At 12:30 P. M. the Valkyrie was being held by the Defender in good shape, it seemed from here, although the fog prevented accurate observations.

However, it does not seem as if the Valkyrie was getting away from the Defender.

THE DEFENDER SPURTS.

About 12:45 P. M. the Defender seemed to start ahead again and reduce the gap between herself and the Valkyrie, and her windward work became really superb.

She pointed better than the British yacht and footed faster, and it looked here as if she were steadily working to windward and overhauling the Valkyrie.

By 1 o'clock the Valkyrie disappeared in a fog, although the Defender could still be seen from here.

The wind at the time of turning the first mark blew at the rate of 12 to 15 miles an hour.

The boats seemed likely to make good time on the second leg.

It was not until 1:44 P. M. that the fog lifted sufficiently to enable the boats to be seen reaching for the second mark with the balloon jibs set and going at a lively rate.

Although it was impossible to distinguish between them from the distance, it was believed the Valkyrie was still ahead.

THE

MOREY

INCANDESCENT GAS BURNER

It Has Revolutionized Gas Lighting!

Only Sixty Days on the Market and yet the Sale is Enormous.

No parts burn out. The mantels, screens, prisms, used in other burners, are not used in the Morey Burner at all; therefore no parts to repair. The Cheapest Burner used, giving the greatest amount of light for the smallest amount of gas consumed.

The secret of its scintillating brilliancy is perfect combustion, not one iota going to waste—every atom of gas being consumed.

No ghastly, greenish white light, but a natural, mellow, golden sunlight, soothing to the eyes and radiant with power.

The Morey Gas Burner is the best results of long years of study, discovery and invention, and is based solely upon scientific principles. THE HIGHEST POWER OF GAS LIES IN THE BURNER EMPLOYED. The secret of the Morey Burner is the combustion secured.

You may ask why does the Morey Burner give so much more light for the same amount of gas consumed. Our answer is this, gas when burning through an ordinary gas jet, mixes quickly with the air and passes off, not giving time for the light to take up from the air all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore it passes off and is wasted. But in the Morey Burner it passes through a perforated circle of 76 small needle pointed perforations, and the current of air passing on all sides of the blaze supplies sufficient air for the light to take up all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore no WASTE OF GAS, NO BLUE BLASE; all turned to light.

GENTLEMEN. We are more than pleased with the lamp we recently purchased from you, and instead of using three burners, which we formerly were compelled to do in our private office, we now get a better light from the one which you put in.

As soon as we fix up our offices will use them altogether in each of the departments.

Please have one of your representatives call on us about the 15th of May.

MEDIUMS.

ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE FOR all—Secure a charm and wear diamonds; his parlors are always filled with anxious people seeking reliable information, and every reply is most gratifying. All are pleased. Professor Eugene gives advice on business, speculations, investments, love, courtship, marriage and divorce, settles lovers' quarrels, reunites the separated and causes a speedy and happy marriage with the one of your choice; he locates mines and buried treasures, tells you of your friends and enemies, removes evil influences, gives advice pertaining to lawsuits, locates and recovers old estates. Developing mediums a specialty. The troubled and unfortunate should seek his counsel. Thousands of families long separated have been reunited by his efforts; thousands of hearts made glad through his truthful predictions; he is the only clairvoyant on earth recognized by the profession as their brightest star; all persons unsuccessful in business, who seem to be unlucky, should visit him, seek his aid, and start aright. Thousands have become wealthy through his advice; he is ever ready to assist those with capital to find a safe and good-paying investment. Young men starting in business will find it greatly to their advantage to consult him on all matters of financial interest to themselves. Professor Eugene should not be classed with the many cheap pretenders who infest cities and bring disrepute to the profession. WEARY OF REVOLUTIONS.

Central America Will Now Try to Develop Her Resources.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Further particulars of the latest movement for Central American union have been obtained from Senor Jose De Gomez, the Nicaraguan statesman who, as the special minister from the President of Nicaragua to the Central American States, conducted the other preliminary negotiations which led to the understanding now arrived at.

Senor Gomez arrived in New York several days ago and has been stopping with friends here.

From here he will go to Washington in a day or two to pay his respects to the Nicaraguan minister. He says that he is in the United States solely on private business.

In an interview he said: "The confederated arrangement by which Nicaragua, Salvador and Honduras have just committed themselves, and which it is hoped Guatemala and Costa Rica will also assent to is primarily in the interest of maintaining peace throughout Central America and promoting civilization and progress in the five republics.

"The substantial and intelligent citizens in all these countries are heartily sick of revolutions, which have been so frequent in the past and have retarded developments, wasted our resources and discredited us in the eyes of the world.

Everybody who has visited Central America or made a study of the conditions, knows that ours is, materially, one of the richest and fairest regions of the globe, which ought to compare favorably with any other for population, prosperity and advancement.

"But the population of the whole of Central America is not much in excess of 13,000,000, including natives and other interior races; and its backwardness is lamentable in various material respects.

"But what hastened the agreement for union and was probably the determining factor in bringing it to pass at this time was the arbitrary action of England in the Corinto affair several months ago.

"That was a striking object lesson of the weakness of the Central American States when confronted by foreign aggression; and the union for defense which we are now inaugurating is the direct outgrowth of it.

"Last year I was sent by the President of Nicaragua as a special minister to the Central American republics to present to their governments propositions in behalf of the treaty of union.

"I received fair encouragements, but before my mission was completed the events growing out of England's claim on Nicaragua transpired and I was summoned home.

"President Zelaya thereupon decided that the time was ripe for immediate action, and without waiting for the results of my negotiations to develop in the ordinary course he issued an invitation to all the Central American Presidents to meet at Amalapa, the capital of Honduras.

General Bonilla, President of Honduras, and General Guiterras, President of Salvador, responded favorably, and the three Presidents accordingly met at Amalapa in July.

"The result of their deliberations was the treaty, the details of which have already been printed."

A CREDIT TO OAKLAND.

The Local Parlors Made a Fine Showing at Sacramento.

In its report of the Admission Day festivities in Sacramento the Chronicle of San Francisco says:

"Oakland parlor wore dark clothes with white vests and hats, while Stanford parlor was distinguished by white caps.

"Athens parlor of Oakland, the newest parlor in the State, wore white caps and bibs and carried rattles and nursing bottles in which were iced punches. There were number seven heads in number two caps, but the punches were a blessing.

"Oakland parlor made merry in the Supreme court chamber. In point of decorations Stanford parlor of San Francisco took the lead. Back of the musicians' stand was a huge star of electric lights and the center chandelier was a mass of incandescent lights, made to imitate huge yellow flowers with glowing hearts. The fifty smaller headquarters were quite as gay and cordial on a lesser scale, and the decorations, though simpler, were quite as pretty and as much admired by the friends of the parlor."

THE FATE OF THE AMERICA.

The Glorious Old Schooner Lies Neglected and Decaying at Chelsea.

Dismantled of her rigging, a castaway, housed over like a forgotten canal boat, with her weatherbeaten deck rotting in the air and her hull rotting in the green waters beneath, the yacht America lies today, almost unknown, in the river close to the new bridge at Chelsea. There she has lain for four years, since the day that Ben Butler sailed in her for the last time, when he left her deck with the mark of death upon him.

Her masts have long since lost their tapering straightness. The gleaming white hull which in those glorious old days first attracted the attention of the young Queen of England is black and green with dirt and sea grass. Instead of the trim deck, a dirty tar-coaled deckhouse covers her from stem to stern. But this has not fully protected her by any means, and she is falling away beneath it into decay.

While General Butler lived she was put in commission every summer. The very year he died he had her at one of the Eastern races, and there he followed along with the crack Burgess schooners, the Mayflower and the Constellation. When the gruff old soldier died she became the property of his son Paul.

Today Paul Butler was asked what would be done with the boat. Judge from what he said it is a fair presumption that it is to be the old boat's fate to die where she lies.—New York Press.

CHAPMAN'S WINE ROOMS, AT 466 9th street, will be opened Sept. 3d, with a stock of first-class wines, liquors and cigars. The ever popular Frank Coutant will be Mr. Chapman's assistant.

TUESDAY.....SEPTEMBER 10, 1895

Senator Gray of Delaware, has spoken his piece about Cleveland's third term. He holds that he is the logical nominee of the Democratic party next year. All that may be quite consistent with another bit of logic which insures his defeat as certainly as he goes before the people for a third term. There is no saving grace in the point that his terms have not been consecutive. It is the common law of the country that no man shall be elected three times to that office. That is the logic that settles the issue.

The International Contest.

The yacht race on Saturday did not settle anything of importance. At the close it was impossible to tell which was the best boat. And yet the whole country was thrilled with the news that the American boat came in ahead. It did not seem less than a national victory. If the same boat should win twice more the Englishman would go home without the cup. But if he should capture it, what then? Americans would of course challenge for another contest.

It is probable that the last international contest is about to be made with single stick vessels, which are mere racing machines. The cup was won by a schooner which at that time was the fastest sailing craft of her size in the world. Today there are hundreds of schooners that can sail faster than the America ever could. There are some of that class on this coast that are not known as yachts. They are earning money for their owners in business.

It would not be a bad turn of events if the Englishman should win. American yachtsmen need to have a little of the conceit taken out of them. They have assumed that no foreigner can make a racing craft quite as good as their own. If the cup goes back to England there will be a great marine struggle to win it back. This country has just begun the race for maritime supremacy. It will not be won in this larger sense by vessels with a single mast; and it is probable that it may be won, if at all, by vessels that have little use for masts, but are the swiftest and best carriers that the world has ever known. The Valkyrie won today by a scratch.

Good and Bad Farming.

In the early days of agricultural societies farmers came together to discuss the best methods of tilling the soil. They did not take half as much interest in horse racing as they did in the teams that could do the best ploughing in the field. In these last days one hears very little about the best methods of tilling land. The clubs of twenty or thirty farmers that have been organized in small places generally talk to the purpose. The annual State Fair sometimes secures an address of some practical interest. But as a general rule the men who do the talking in public know the least about practical agriculture. There could not be a more suggestive subject for such a talk than bad farming in California. Lest the topic might be omitted, we are constrained to quote a paragraph from the Mail of Stockton: "The farmers are in the quagmire of debt. Their estates are plastered with mortgages. The struggle from season to season is to pay interest and taxes. The boys reared on California farms, as soon as they are foot-loose, fly to the towns and cities. The girls are just as eager as their brothers to escape. The rustic youth of both sexes are crowding one another in the cities seeking employment as clerks, typewriters, bookkeepers, stenographers, actors, reporters, real estate brokers, lawyers, doctors, drummers and what not. Few of them are learning to do hard work or to become good mechanics. Only grizzled men are left on the farms, and these are rapidly degenerating into wrecks of their former selves. On Saturdays they drive into town, congregate on the sidewalks, talk about the hard times, discuss politics, play pedro and brace the merchants for their supplies. They stand around in dazed fashion, damn the country and pronounce life a failure."

More is the pity that there is so much truth in this statement. It ought not to have so much as the color of truth in its application to farming in this State. There is of course another aspect of agriculture wherein what is best in the calling is seen. Men who make money and want no better occupation. They have model farms, live comfortably, are out of debt, make improvements every year, have sons who are content with the calling of their fathers, and hold that there is no better State in the world than the one they have chosen for their homes. These are today the minority farmers of California. It is a great pity that they are not in the majority.

The Latest Social Eclipse.

The social "function" at Newport, of which O. H. P. Belmont was the host, was given in a combination villa and horse stable that cost, according to report, $2,000,000. The little gifts as souvenirs, mere trifles, cost $7,000. These are some of the memorial things distributed: English riding whips, silver mounted and with silver pencils in the handles, scores of metal novelties, such as thermometers and ash receivers; wide and gorgeous satin sashes, with jewel ornaments of rhinestone and real pearls; satin caps in colors and forms of those worn by the Belmont jockeys; miniature horse blankets, court orders for the neck; French walking sticks; cribbage boards and anchor counters; large horses' heads mounted on sticks; Parisian flower fans; satin bags hung Parisian ower fans; satin bags hung with jewels; small satin slippers filled with natural flowers; gilt bird cages with living and singing canaries; tortoiseshell and silver tablets; bisque folly sticks; empire silk fans, silk flags of various nations and beautiful bouquets of flowers.

All this we are told is English, even to the feast that was served in the carriage house. A gold service adorned the buffet table. There was the usual assortment of English titled guests, including a duke. Great pains had been taken to inform the public about all these particulars. In fact it is important that the world should understand that Belmont has eclipsed the last Vanderbilt social function. If it were not for this overwhelming desire for the greatest publicity such affairs might assume a private character. A rich man or a rich ambitious woman gives a social function, not as a private matter, but for the very purpose of letting the public know that the affair has been properly accentuated. There has been a supreme exaltation for a few hours at least.

These contrasts have some striking features. Just when the stringency of the times calls for the utmost simplicity of living, and when never before were so many people concerned to know where the bread is to be found next week to satisfy hungry mouths, the social flare and blazonry of wealth becomes the other extreme. It is good by way of comedy, and far better than it would be if it were to provoke anything like social retaliation. A little quiet satire is about all the response that is likely to be made. The perfect right to make such displays and to publish them to the world can never be questioned. The French revolution occurred after there had been one of the most imposing displays of wealth and luxury that the world had ever known. Is our boasted Republican simplicity drifting in the same direction?

The Last of Bustamente.

Among the refugees from Salvador brought up to San Francisco on the Bennington was Bustomente, a half-breed, and altogether the most savage and brutal fellow of the lot. If we remember rightly it was the judgment of the court that he ought to be returned to Salvador as a criminal, while the others were set at liberty for technical reasons. Bustomente was finally released on an order from Washington. That he had committed a number of murders in Salvador was hardly disputed, except in the incidental way that they were the result of a revolution.

After the release of Bustamente he became one of the most active conspirators with Ezeta against the peace of Salvador. The authorities of the country wanted him particularly as he was the most brutal criminal of the lot. They wanted Ezeta also as the leader of the brutal gang which never had influence enough to obtain any large following. Bustamente went down to Acapulco, and afterwards found his way into Nicaragua. In the latter country he evidently found no encouragement. He was reduced to such straits that he took a steerage passage on a Pacific Mail steamer that was to land at the chief port of Salvador.

The authorities were informed of the fact and demanded his delivery on a criminal warrant. It is probable that they have made an end of this brutal semi-savage, as they would make an end of Ezeta if they could once lay hands on him. There was at one time not a little sympathy expressed for these men who had committed crimes in the name of liberty. But when more of their history was made known it was found that they were a bad lot and wholly undeserving of the sympathy that had been extended to them. In Salvador they had no standing as revolutionists in the better sense, but only as desperate men who had plundered and murdered people to advance their private fortunes.

Our Methodist brethren are sturdy defenders of the liberty of speech, but not of any abuse of that liberty. They are not afraid of radical thought when expressed for good ends. But Kier Hardie the English socialist and sympathiser of anarchists, was too much for them in his recent speech at Chicago. When Hardie denounced the execution of the anarchists for the murder of men in that city and eulogized them as the pioneers of the new religion it was too much of a revelation. A storm of righteous indignation followed. This is the fellow who advocated the red flag as the symbol of brotherhood, and the symbol of bloody revolution.

It is not a surprising fact that Rev. Dr. Scott of Chicago should not see the way to come to the First Congregational church of Oakland. The First Presbyterian church had the good fortune to draw a minister from Chicago, and it was in order to ask another good man in that city to come here and fill a vacancy. The other minister whose name has been mentioned in connection with the same vacancy is Rev. Dr. Barrons, who did so much to bring about the Parliament of Religions in Chicago, and who was the historian of that great event. The good people of the vacant church aim high if they don't always bring down the game.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

German women singers, according to Le Menestrel, have a hard lot as a rule. When they find employment in one of the seventy theaters they receive at first 120 marks ($30) a month, and if successful reach 500 marks a month. For every vacancy there are thirty conservatory graduates who apply. The concert singers are still worse off. The result is that many talented artists turn to the cafes chantants, where they are better paid.

It is proposed to make Berlin a seaport by connecting it by canals with the river Oder. The Tegel See, to the west of the city, would be the harbor. There are no engineering difficulties, and only two locks would be needed. The cost for a canal seventy feet broad at the bottom and twenty-five feet deep would be about 200,000,000 marks, or one-third more than that of the Baltic-North Sea canal.

Zola's "La Debacle" has sold better than any of his other works, 187,000 copies having been disposed of so far; next come "Nana" with 171,000, "L'Assomoir" and "Lourdes," 132,000 each, and "Le Terre," 113,000. Of Alphonse Daudet's novels "Sapho" with 100,000 copies has been the most popular; then follow "Le Nabab," with 97,000, and "Fromont jeune et Risler aine'" with 95,000. Between 40,000 and 50,000 copies are printed for the first edition of a story of "Georges Ohnet" or of "Pierre Loti." The average sales of Paul Bourget's books are about 30,000 copies, though of "Mensonges" 50,000 have been called for. For Mme. Henri Greville's stories the average is 18,000; but "Dosia," her greatest success, has reached 70,000. Of Hector Malot's "Sans Famille" 118,000 copies have been sold.

An Anglo-Dutch syndicate is trying to reclaim the land in the delta of the Danube, between the St. George's and Sulina branches, by means of dykes. The dredging of the bar now permits vessels drawing 21½ feet to reach Sulina, and before long it is hoped the channel will be deep enough for ships drawing 24 feet.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has announced that on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his accession to the throne in 1898 he will present to the city of Vienna the Prater, the famous park of Vienna, and the Angarten, a royal park in the densely populated part of the city, to which the public was first admitted by the Emperor Joseph II. Both Prater and Angarten are to be preserved forever as public recreation grounds for the people of Vienna.

Lord Charles Beresford got a ducking recently; he was testing a new kind of punt in the Chatham dockyard when it capsized and he had to swim ashore. The sailor who was with him was completely exhausted by the swim.

Zola's school record has been hunted up by one of his admirers. He took first prizes for good conduct and for Latin throughout his course, and also prizes for religion during the years it was taught. In history and geography he began well taking first prizes for the first two years, but ended with honorable mention only.

Constantinople Bulgarians have ordered from a Vienna manufacturer an iron church 105 feet long and 49 feet wide, with a tower 98 feet high. It will weigh 500 tons and cost, including transportation, $76,000.

Journalism has become a university subject in Germany. Prof. Koch gave a course of lectures at Heidelberg on German journalism last winter, and will repeat the course in the next semester.

Ex-President Harrison goes deer hunting at midnight. President Cleveland digs worms for bait at dawn. And T. Reed saws wood and says nothing at all hours.

President Cleveland is not only a skilful fisherman, but he is well up on piscatorial statistics and literature. No book appears dealing with the sport of fishing that the president does not obtain a copy. If the writer displays capacity in dealing with his subject Mr. Cleveland reads the book in its entirety. He is very quick to discover technical flaws in the work of a careless writer, however.

Simon Wormser, the banker, who died a few days ago in New York, and his brother, Isidor, had a curious habit. They were almost inseperable and every afternoon at the same hour they left their banking house and walked together to the nearest station of the elevated railroad, but they did not take the same train. Either Isidor would take the first train and leave his brother to take the one following, or turn about. It is said this arrangement was made because they feared accidents and they did not wish to go down together for the sake of the banking house of Wormser.

A manufacturer of phonographs in New York recently received an application for a cylinder that would tell the story of Maria Barberi, the Italian murderess. He wrote back that it would be impossible to comply with the demand. To his astonishment he received a dozen or more similar requests from different parts of the West. This induced him to furnish the article. A newspaper man wrote a dramatic account of the tragedy, which was fired into the phonograph by a professional elocutionist. It was done in 1000 words and the manufacturer is receiving orders every day for Maria Barberi cylinders.

Mrs. Langtry never hesitates at withdrawing from a contract even when the forfeiture is large enough to dismay anyone who is accustomed to regard financial matters somewhat more seriously than the English beauty appears to. When she decided three years ago that she would prefer to spend the winter on a yacht in the Mediterranean than in traveling over the United States, this change in her plans was first made known by her through the arrival of a draft for $15,000 which came to her manager as a balm for his disappointment. Last year she was very successful here, and looked forward to her present season with expectations of great profits. But it is evident that something equally promising must have developed in Europe, as Mrs. Langtry is a very shrewd woman, and otherwise the chances of her American profits would never have been given up. Usually her trips to this country are undertaken when nothing presents itself in England.—N. Y. Sun.

Few of the sovereigns of the old world dare trust their affairs to servants of their own nationality. The confidential servants of the Queen Regent of Spain are mostly Germans, as are also those of the reigning family in England, each prince having a special body servant who bears a Teuton name. The servants of Emperor William of Germany are for the most part English and French, Germans having been found unsuitable, while at St. Petersburg what may be described as the body servants of the late, as of the present czar, are either German or English.

The maid's cap, it seems, has got into the English courts. A servant sued her employed for wages after dismissal because she would not wear caps. The learned Q. C. admitted that the subject was a very delicate one, and seemed to be ever the cause of complaint between mistresses and maids. It was finally decided that the refusal to wear caps per se was not sufficient ground to discharge a servant out of time. The particular case in question took on some other phases, but this part of the decision implies by inference that the cap has ceased to be the sine qua non of the English maid which it is regarded on this side of the water.

Stealing books is common enough, but of late, in keeping with the stupendous tendencies of the age, they have got to stealing entire libraries. It was lately discovered that some thousands of volumes purchased by the University of Pennsylvania in good faith had been stolen from somewhere and now comes word from Paris that a collection of 10,000 volumes on American history, made by a Frenchman named Valtemare and by him given to the city of Paris, is missing and cannot be traced, though they are believed to be hidden away somewhere in France.—Philadelphia Times.

BULLETINS.

By the Associated Press.

HIGHLANDS NAVESINK, 10 A. M. The Defender is sailing off and on between Sandy Hook and Scotland lightship, and after standing in shore on the port tack came about and stood back toward Sandy Hook on the starboard tack The Valkyrie was also out a mile and a half to leeward. The fog lifted afterward and Sandy Hook lightship can be discerned. Wind S. by W. and light.

ON BOARD THE STEAMSHIP MACKAY-BENNETT, 10 A. M.—The Valkyrie and Defender are beating about off the lightship. The wind is S. by W., very light and the sea smooth. There is much fog about and it lifts occasionally. As the day wears on the prospects for racing appear better, although there is not as much wind as could be wished for.

10.20 A. M.—The Defender's sails were never seen in better shape. The tug boat Luckenbach, with the turning marks on board has just passed.

HIGHLANDS, 10:20 A. M.—both boats have arrived at the lightship. They have a fair breeze from the south, blowing about five or six miles an hour, and are only about half a mile apart, standing in shore. The Defender is a little to windward

STEAMSHIP MACKAY-BENNETT, 10:45 A. M.—The committee boat has displayed the course signals. The first leg of the triangle will be direct south, second N.E. by E, third N. W. by W. half west.

10:49 A. M.—The preparatory signal has been fired.

11:05 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line, but the Defender before crossing carried away her topmast. The American yacht raised the protest flag.

11:10 A. M.—The Defender claims the Valkyrie violated the racing rules by bearing down on her and carrying away her starboard shroud. The protest is accepted.

11:11 A. M.—The Defender's topmast is evidently badly sprung, although not carried away. Both yachts are now on the starboard tack. They are carrying mainsails, club topsails, staysails, jibs and No. 2 jib topsails. Defender is in the lead but to leward.

11:13 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line at 11.00:13, Defender 11:01.15.

11:18 A. M.—Valkyrie is still to the windward by half a mile. Both boats are on the port tack, pointing about the same. The wind is south half west, five knots.

HIGHLANDS, 11.22 A. M.—The Defender is sailing a great race and has gained over an eighth of a mile in the last ten minutes. She is constantly eating through the lea of the Valkyrie.

11.35 A. M.—Both yachts are still holding in short on the port tack The Defender has just broken out her jib topsail. The crew is having difficulty in making it set well and it is being hauled down.

11 35 A. M.—Both yachts are now but two miles from this point directly east and headed southwest. The Defender is sailing closer to the wind that the Valkyrie.

11:40 A. M.—Both yachts are still holding on the port tack.

11:45 A. M.—The Defender seems to have dropped a little in the last ten minutes, but is still continuing to point higher than the Valkyrie. The Valkyrie has a lead of about three-eighths of a mile

11.50 A. M.—Both yachts are now passing this point and holding along sharp, as the wind has shifted a trifle to the eastward. The Valkyrie is gaining a little, but the wind is not over six miles an hour.

LONG BRANCH, 11:50 A. M.—The yachts have come in view off this place and are standing down this way. They are making frequent tacks. No stakeboat has arrived yet.

HIGHLANDS, 12:05 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems to be pulling a little away from the Defender and while not pointing as high as her is footing apparently a little faster.

12.12 P. M.—The Valkyrie it seems from here, has a lead of nearly half a mile.

12 22 P. M.—The Valkyrie has just come about on the starboard tack The Defender followed suit directly in her wake. She was walking by the Valkyrie just before the two boats tacked. The Defender is now only one-fourth of a mile behind. She is directly in line with the Valkyrie and is closing up the gap and going through the water at a great rate. The yachts are both in line from this point and the Defender's gain can easily be seen

12 23 P. M.—The Defender is only a short distance behind the Valkyrie and is certainly out-footing her The wind has freshened and the American yacht has sailed a wonderfully fast race in the last ten minutes.

LONG BRANCH, 12:30 P. M.—The stake-boat has taken up a position off this shore. The Valkyrie has been leading the Defender but the latter seems to have crept up considerably to the center and now appears ahead of the English yacht.

MACKAY-BENNETT, 12 14 P. M.—The Defender seems to be sailing by fits and starts today. For a while she has headed better than the Valkyrie but latterly she has tagged off. Within the past few minutes, however, she has made a better spurt and is now out-pointing the Valkyrie wonderfully. There is quite a stretch of water between them, however, probably about 150 yards.

HIGHLANDS, 12:43 P. M.—The Defender is now fairly out-pointing the Valkyrie and is directly in her wake and only about a quarter of a mile astern. The yachts have sailed about eight miles of the first leg of the course and when they tack again should be even with the first mark off Long Branch.

12:50 P. M.—It seems as if the Defender is constantly decreasing the gap between herself and the Valkyrie The latter cannot be much in the lead. At 12 40 the Western Union says the Valkyrie seems to be about half a mile ahead and still on the starboard tack standing southeast.

NEW YORK, 12:15 P. M.—According to the New York World miniature yachts the Defender is ahead.

HIGHLANDS, 12:53 P. M.—Both yachts seem to be getting into a nice breeze and are heeling over five or ten degrees. The Defender seems to be heeling over a little more than the Valkyrie. The American yacht is now well upwindward and it is possible she will round the first mark ahead of or at least close to her rival.

12.55 P. M.—Both yachts are still heeling up on the starboard tack. The Defender from here seems to have fallen off a little in her windward work.

1 P. M.—The Valkyrie has disappeared in the fog. The Defender can still be seen.

LONG BRANCH, 1:07 P. M.—The yachts have rounded the stake boat. The Valkyrie went around at 12:57'20, the Defender at 1:00 30.

HIGHLANDS 1 07 P. M.—According to the time taken here the Valkyrie rounded the first mark at 12:58.15, the Defender at 1:02:05.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 1:07 P. M.—The time of rounding the first stake boat as taken here is: Valkyrie 12:57'30, Defender, 1:00:50.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 2:08 P. M.—Both yachts are visible, running for the second mark, but they are not plain enough in view to enable the watchers here to identify them.

FAR ROCKAWAY, 2:10 P. M.—What appears to be one of the big sloops is faintly visible through the haze. She can not be seen clear enough to be distinguished as either the Valkyrie or the Defender.

HIGHLANDS, 2:11 P. M.—The excursion fleet is feeling for the lightship which seems to show the yachts are running the second mark.

2 16 P. M.—One of the yachts seems to have a lead of over a mile and it looks like the Valkyrie.

FAR ROCKAWAY, 2 20 P. M.—The big sloops appear to be half a mile apart. The people here think the Defender is ahead.

HIGHLANDS, 2:30 P. M.—Both boats can now be seen from here and there seems to be no doubt the Valkyrie is leading by a mile.

2:35 P. M.—The excursion fleet has gathered around the lightship and the Valkyrie is winner before 3 o'clock.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 2 36 P. M.—The yachts are very close, but the Valkyrie is ahead. The Luckenbach has taken up a position at the finish line.

2 37 P. M.—The Defender is pushing the Valkyrie hard and it is believed the American yacht may win on the time allowance

2:55 P. M.—The times of the yachts rounding the second mark were: Valkyrie, 1 58 10; Defender, 2:01 15.

2.56 P. M.—The Valkyrie finishes, 2:55 40.

HIGHLANDS, 2:58 P. M.—The Defender finished, 2.57 57 The Valkyrie wins by about two minutes eleven seconds lapsed time, unofficial.

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT, 3 P. M.—The official times are:

Start—Valkyrie, 11 00:13; Defender, 11 01:15.

First mark—Valkyrie, 12 57:43; Defender, 1 01:30.

Second mark boat—Valkyrie, 1:58:10, Defender, 2:01 45.

Finish—Valkyrie, 2 55:22; Defender, 2:57.40.

Corrected time—Valkyrie, 2 55 09, Defender, 2:55 56.

Valkyrie wins by 47 seconds.

3:10 P. M.—In the last three miles the American boat picked up considerable lost ground, and notwithstanding the protest flag gallantly finished. As they came down to the line the two boats were dressed alike Each carried a mainsail number 1, club topsail, balloon stay sail, jib and No. 3 jib tosail They eased sheets on the port tack just before the line was crossed. The Valkyrie carried a very heavy bone in her teeth, kicking up a great wave before her. The Defender made little fuss. When the Valkyrie was just off the line she slowed a bit and lost headway. Both yachts went up towards the city when the race was over, amid the tooting of whistles and the boats were racing towards Sandy Hook with all sails set. The Valkyrie wins subject to protest. The regatta committee will hear the case on its merits. It is thought probable the decision will be that the two yachts must sail an extra race.

ON BOARD ASSOCIATED PRESS TUG, (By Carrier Pigeon), BATH BEACH, 3:15 P. M.—The Defender raised a protest flag at the start Her jib sheet parted and the flapping of the sail seemed to shake the topmast backstay out of the spreader, and caused the topmast to spring The Defender probably claimed the accident occurred before the starting signal was given. The committee did not allow it.

SANDY HOOK, 3 30 P. M.—The Defender and Valkyrie both under sail are heading in past this point for the bay. The committee boat is also passing in, heading towards New York.

BULLETINS.

By the Western Union.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 10 20 A. M.—Both yachts are standing about Sandy Hook lightship. The wind is S. S. E. about six miles The Valkyrie has her jib, mainsail and club topsails. The Defender has jib, mainsail, club topsail and tore top set The number of yachts and steamers is the largest ever seen here before.

HIGHLANDS, 10 58 A. M.—The wind is due south with prospects of increasing.

SCOTLAND LIGHTSHIP, 10 70 A. M.—The boats are manoeuvering for a start off Sandy Hook lightship

11 01 A. M.—The wind has dropped to four miles an hour

11 05—The preparatory signal has just been set.

11.10 A. M.—The Valkyrie crossed the line shortly after the ten-minute start and the Defender barely saved the two minute gun. The Valkyrie is leading in a windward position.

HIGHLANDS 11:20 A. M.—Sixteen seconds before the starting gun was fired the Valkyrie's boom broke the Defender's topmast backstay bending her mast to leeward and cracking it. The Defender continued on the course, hoisting a protest signal. The Valkyrie was plainly in the fault, as the Defender had the right-of-way. The starting gun was fired at 11, and two minutes later the limit fire gun was fired After crossing the Valkyrie led slightly, but the Defender is rapidly closing the gap. The yachts are both standing on towards Highlands on the port tack The start was made at exactly 11 o'clock and 30 seconds. The Defender is now rapidly closing on the Valkyrie. As both boats are going directly from me it is impossible to say which is ahead. The Valkyrie is in the windward position. Both boats are still on the port tack standing on shore six miles an hour south.

11:24 A. M.—A good breeze is blowing. The yachts are under club topsails.

OFF SCOTLANDS, 11:25 A. M.—The wind is hauling to the southwest. The Defender is out-pointing the Valkyrie.

11 26 A. M.—A good breeze is now blowing. Both yachts are under club topsails.

11:27 A. M.—The excursion steamers are behaving better than Saturday and are keeping astern and to the leeward of the racers. The yachts went about on the starboard tack. The Valkyrie is slightly in the lead passing here.

11:28 A. M.—The Valkyrie appears ahead as the open water shows the Valkyrie slightly in the lead passing here, but the Defender is closing the gap.

HIGHLANDS, 11.29 A. M.—The Valkyrie is about an eighth of a mile in the lead.

11:30 A. M.—The Valkyrie leads by 150 yards. The Defender is rapidly closing the gap. Both yachts are on the port tack. The excursion boats are right on top of them.

11:33 A. M.—The Defender is about on the starboard tack and unable to carry her jib topmast. The Valkyrie followed suit three seconds later.

11:35 A. M.—The Defender has set her No. 2 jib topsail. Both yachts are on the port tack and the Defender is crawling up.

11 36 A. M.—Both yachts are even now.

11 40 A. M.—The Defender has taken in her jib topsail. The Valkyrie has the best position to windward. It looks as if the Defender had trouble with her jib topsail.

11:43 A. M.—The Defender leads seventy-five yards. The Valkyrie has the windward position They are still on a port tack and heading for Long Branch The yachts, which had been running on the port tack since the start went about on the starboard tack four minutes later on the port tack at 11 30 A. M. Twenty-one minutes after the Defender set her No. 2 topsail she took it in.

11:47 A. M.—Both boats are still standing on the port tack southwest. The wind is increasing S. S. W.

11:52 A. M.—The Valkyrie has the windward position The whole excursion fleet seems to be between the two yachts. The wind is about eight miles an hour

11:53 A. M.—The boats are still in about the same position The Valkyrie is about a quarter of a mile in the lead. The steamboats are giving them a better chance today.

11 54 A. M.—The Valkyrie is going on the starboard tack.

11.55 A. M.—The Defender goes about, closely followed by the Valkyrie

12:03 P. M.—The Valkyrie is gaining slightly on the Defender.

12:05 P. M.—They are still on the starboard tack standing S. S. W. The Valkyrie leads.

12:09 P. M.—Today's course is a triangle of ten miles each side, thirty in all. The boats have gone about six miles on the first leg. The stake boat for the first turn is not anchored yet.

12.10 P. M.—Every time the Defender goes about the Valkyrie does the same to keep leeward. The Valkyrie goes about followed by the Defender.

12.22 P. M.—The Defender seems to be improving her position and is gaining slightly.

12 37 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems to hold her lead Both have a good breeze

12:38 P. M.—The Valkyrie now leads about an eighth of a mile.

12:40 P. M.—The Valkyrie seems about half a mile in the lead. They are still on the starboard tack standing southeast

12:49 P. M.—Judging from the distance off shore both boats must be nearing the stake boat

12:51 P. M.—The indications now are that the Valkyrie will round the first turn ahead of the Defender The wind is increasing

12:54 P. M.—The boats are nearing the first turn eleven miles off the shore.

1:04 P. M.—The Valkyrie rounded the stake boat at 12:57.30 and the Defender turned at 1 o'clock 30 seconds.

HIGHLANDS, 1.37 P. M.—The wind is about twelve miles an hour The yachts are enveloped in a fog, but the wind may dispel it.

2 25 P. M.—The Valkyrie is about a mile ahead of the Defender and about three miles from the lightship.

2 29 P. M.—The Valkyrie is about a mile from lightship.

2 51 P. M.—The Valkyrie is close to the lightship. The Defender is coming rapidly.

2.54 P. M.—The Valkyrie has crossed.

2 55 P. M.—The Valkyrie crossed at 2:54 and 19 seconds The Defender at 2.55 and 58 seconds. The Valkyrie won by 16 seconds.

EARLY MORNING SCENES.

The Water All in Favor of Lord Dunraven's Boat.

(By cable to the Associated Press.)

ON BOARD THE MACKAY-BENNETT OFF SANDY HOOK, 8 :0 A. M.—Early morning off Sandy Hook Lightship found the Mackay-Bennett cable boat near the buoy.

At 7 30 the interesting operation of picking up the cable was perfected and when it had been overhauled the connection with the shore was made

By 8 o'clock the wires to the Associated Press were in use from this point and 18 miles out to sea.

At this hour the weather indications are for a good racing day, and an American day at that, for the triangular course is looked upon as favoring the Defender.

It is quite thick on the horizon but a pink line in the distance gives promise of a clear day.

There is also the prospect of an air sailing breeze although three knots an hour is the limit of the wind at the present.

The water will favor the British boat for it is almost as smooth as glass, with none of the heavy chop sea that seemed to affect the Valkyrie Saturday.

Toward 8:30 o'clock the haze had lifted in the narrows and it was quite bright but out to sea it still continued thick, while the breeze did not freshen as much as anticipated.

ARRANGING THE COURSE.

The Yachts to Race Over a Thirty Mile Triangle.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—David Henderson of the Anchor Line represents Lord Dunraven on board the Defender today, and Joseph R. Rusk, owner of the sloop "Mischief," who defended the America's cup against the Canadian sloop Atlanta, the challenger of 1879, represents the America's cup committee on the Valkyrie.

Today's race will be around the triangular course ten miles each leg, thirty miles in all, starting from Sandy Hook Lightship and with the first leg a beat if possible.

With the wind holding from the southwest this would be possible, but the yachts would have to run very close to the Jersey shore to turn.

A dull haze obscures the horizon, cutting off the range except for about five or six miles off the shore, but the Sandy Hook lightship could not be made out and it looked as if a fair view of the race would not be obtained from here.

The cable ship Mackay-Bennett, also at 6 A. M., put out from the Hook in order to take up her buoyed cable and after passing Scotland Lightship was soon lost in the mists.

THE RACE REVIEWED.

A Detailed Account of How the Great Struggle Occurred.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK N. J., Sept. 10.—A cloudy sky and a smooth, leaden-looking sea, over which light southwest airs were sweeping gently was the outlook from here at 6 o'clock this morning

Valkyrie III and the Defender were absent from their usual moorings, having passed the night almost at a biscuit's toss of each other off the Atlantic Yacht Club's anchorage at Bay Ridge.

The Britishers, not much discouraged by the defeat Saturday, have shifted some ballast from aft forward.

At the suggestion of George L. Watson, her designer, they have had her remeasured and have given her a good trial spin, and confidently expect her to show up in better form today.

Real so-called Valkyrie weather prevailed off the Hook this morning.

There was smooth sea and light airs, but no patriotic American doubted the Defender's ability to make it "three straight."

Rear Commodore James C. Bergen of the New York Yacht Club, who is in control of the volunteer patrol fleet, has made a second request to the captains of the steamers which accompany the racers to avoid interference with the yachts, and it is predicted if his injunctions are not attended to Sandy Hook waters will never have the pleasure of seeing another international yacht race under any conditions, for the next challenger may stipulate the contest shall take place off some part of the coast where such interference is impossible

Off shore at 7 o'clock the wind was only about four miles an hour, but this was an improvement on the light airs earlier this morning.

The coasting craft, beating down along the shore made little progress except by aid of the last of the ebb tide.

However, there were breaks in the clouds which at intervals seemed to hold out a promise of better weather as the day wore on.

These favorable indications continued until at 8, when the sun began breaking through the mantle of cloud in earnest and the wind came breezing up from the southwest until it was stirring at the rate of six miles an hour.

But off the shore it was still very thick, it being impossible to see much further north than the end of the Hook, and Scotland lightship could only be dimly seen.

COMING UP.

The Valkyrie, at 8.42, could be seen following the Defender through Swash channel with her mainsail set and in tow

Shortly before 9 o'clock the Defender passed outside the Hook with her mainsail and jib set, in tow of a tug.

The sky had commenced to clear slightly in the northwest, and Scotland lightship could be plainly seen.

This gave hope that the weather might clear sufficiently to enable the watchers here to see Sandy Hook lightship and the start.

The fleet of tugs commenced coming down from New York and a dozen or more were running through Swash channel at 9 o'clock and following the racers out to the lightship.

The Luckenbach, with an attendant tug was following astern of the Defender and the Valkyrie was half way down Swash channel

The sea did not bother the Defender in the slightest today.

At 9:10 A. M. Sandy Hook lightship could not be seen from here, although the two yachts could be made out on the way there.

The Valkyrie at 9:15 A. M. was well out past the Hook with her mainsail, club topsail and two head sails set.

She was still in tow and, like the Defender, glided along easily.

The wind was still light and from the southwest.

Schooner yachts and the excursion fleet at 9:20 A. M. began to show up off the end of the Hook, and the Navahoe was just running the point.

The City of Bridgeport, the Valkyrie's tender, will not apparently follow the racers today, as she was coming in past the Hook at 9 20 o'clock, leaving the Valkyrie to be towed out to the lightship by the tug

The Defender, at 9:27, dropped tow and was standing out toward Sandy Hook lightship under three lower sails, and on the starboard tack.

The Valkyrie was still in tow, with large club topsails and jib pulling nicely in a light wind.

Shortly after 9:30 the Defender went about on the port tack and a couple of minutes later went around again and headed out to sea, and towards Sandy Hook lightship.

The Valkyrie was standing out after her, and was a considerable distance behind.

The fog at 9:40 was thicker and Scotland lightship could only be indistinctly seen.

The Defender was in line with it, and about a mile from the other side.

As seen from this point, the Valkyrie was about half the way out.

The Defender was then setting the large white club top-sail which she used Saturday.

Then the Defender disappeared in the fog which seemed to be rolling in separate banks off the coast for almost at the same time the Sandy Hook Lightship and the Mackay-Bennett cable steamer anchored to the westward of it were made out.

At 10 o'clock there was pouring out through Swash Channel a long line of excursion steamers, tugs, steam yachts, schooner yachts and smaller crafts, reaching from the neighborhood of the Hook to New York, apparently.

At 10:10 the wind was still light, about four miles an hour and about south southwest here, when the boats came down towards the imaginary line.

Those aboard the Defender are Capt. Hank Haff at the wheel and First Mate Terrey at the sheets; aft are W. D. Duncan, Nutt Hershoff, designer, Newberry B. Thorn, Woodbury Kane, Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, Herbert C. Lees, W. K. Vanderbilt, C. Oliver Iselin, and David D. Henderson, representing Lord Dunraven and the Royal Yacht Squadron.

On board the Valkyrie are Lord Dunraven, Latham Fish representing the New York Yacht Club, George Watson, designer, Vice Commodore Arthur Glennie, Sailmaker Ratsey, Maitland Kersey, Lady Rachael Wyndham Quinn and Aileen Wyndham Quinn, Captain Cranfield was at the stick and Captain Sycamore was busily engaged directing the crew.

A fleet of steam yachts at 10:26 were in the offing and hurrying down to the course.

The committee boat at 10:23 displayed signal "D," meaning the course to be sailed was triangular, namely from the starting line ten miles to and around the mark; thence ten miles to and around a second mark; thence ten miles to the finish line turning the marks on the outside of the triangle to port or starboard, according as the yachts were sent.

The Embla acted as police boat.

There were not a third as many boats out today as on Saturday.

The yachts at 10.32 were splitting around the committee boat preparatory to getting in a good position for the start

The Defender crossed the Valkyrie's bow to leeward and was standing in the shore port tack while the Valkyrie was jogging along before the wind with sheets well aft.

Then she swung around and headed away from the Defender on a starboard tack.

At 10:50 the preparatory signal was fired and the yachts began the usual jockying for positions.

The British yacht blanketed the Defender and the Defender worked out from under the lee only to be again blanketed.

THE START.

The yachts crossed the line at the following official times:

Valkyrie 11 00 13
Defender 11 01 15

At 11 02.30, after a short tack to starboard, both the boats came about and stood directly toward this point on the port tack, the Defender to leeward, and seemingly to point a trifle higher than the Valkyrie.

Shortly after the start the Defender hoisted a protest flag and the protest was allowed, it being believed here that the Valkyrie fouled the Defender during the luffing matches.

It seemed from here as if one of the Defender's shrouds was injured, but nothing definite could be made out.

The beautiful white silk club topsail was in great shape and there was not the slightest sign of a break.

The two yachts at 11:43 were not more than a mile and a half off shore.

The Defender was sailing along nicely without the aid of her jib topsail

The Valkyrie seemed gaining a trifle on the Defender, as she was getting a better breeze to windward.

The excursion fleet gave the yachts all the room they wanted.

It was possible from here to look down directly on the decks of both yachts.

Through the great glass of the Associated Press the rival skippers could be seen at their posts.

Both the yachts at 12:07 P. M were still holding off shore on the starboard tack, the Valkyrie apparently about half a mile ahead

The Defender shortly after 12:10 went about on the port tack.

The Valkyrie immediately followed suit

The Defender seemed to go about five seconds faster than the Valkyrie, and from the positions it looked as if the Defender had crawled up a little on her rival, but the race was undoubtedly very close.

The two yachts about 12 20 went on the starboard tack.

The Defender was then only a quarter of a mile behind and clearly outfooting her rival.

At 12:30 P. M. the Valkyrie was being held by the Defender in good shape, it seemed from here, although the fog prevented accurate observations.

However, it does not seem as if the Valkyrie was getting away from the Defender

THE DEFENDER SPURTS.

About 12.45 P. M. the Defender seemed to start ahead again and reduce the gap between herself and the Valkyrie, and her windward work became really superb.

She pointed better than the British yacht and footed faster, and it looked here as if she were steadily working to windward and overhauling the Valkyrie.

By 1 o'clock the Valkyrie disappeared in a fog, although the Defender could still be seen from here.

The wind at the time of turning the first mark blew at the rate of 12 to 15 miles an hour.

The boats seemed likely to make good time on the second leg.

It was not until 1:44 P. M. that the fog lifted sufficiently to enable the boats to be seen reaching for the second mark with the balloon jibs set and going at a lively rate.

Although it was impossible to distinguish between them from the distance, it was believed the Valkyrie was still ahead.

THE

MOREY

INCANDESCENT GAS BURNER

It Has Revolutionized Gas Lighting!

Only Sixty Days on the Market and yet the Sale is Enormous.

No parts burn out. The mantels, screens, prisms, used in other burners, are not used in the Morey Burner at all; therefore no parts to repair. The Cheapest Burner used, giving the greatest amount of light for the smallest amount of gas consumed.

The secret of its scintillating brilliancy is perfect combustion, not one iota going to waste—every atom of gas being consumed.

No ghastly, greenish white light, but a natural, mellow, golden sunlight, soothing to the eyes and radiant with power.

The Morey Gas Burner is the best results of long years of study, discovery and invention; and is based solely upon scientific principles. THE HIGHEST POWER OF GAS LIES IN THE BURNER EMPLOYED. The secret of the Morey Burner is the combustion secured.

You may ask why does the Morey Burner give so much more light for the same amount of gas consumed. Our answer is this, gas when burning through an ordinary gas jet, mixes quickly with the air and passes off, not giving time for the light to take up from the air all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore it passes off and is wasted. But in the Morey Burner it passes through a perforated circle of 76 small needle-pointed perforations, and the current of air passing on all sides of the blaze supplies sufficient air for the light to take up all the oxygen necessary for its proper combustion, therefore no WASTE OF GAS, NO BLUE BLASE; all turned to light.

See what prominent business men and people you know say of it:

MADE A DEADLY DESCENT.

Two Negroes Murdered by a White Mob in Florida.

A Labor Wrangle Appears to Have Caused All the Trouble.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WESTVILLE, Fla., Sept. 10.—Yesterday morning two negroes were shot to death and several wounded by a band of masked men in the northern portion of Holmes county.

The tragedy occurred near a large saw mill, which is owned by Graves and Beatty.

The firm employs many negroes and operates a short railroad from the sawmill to the river.

A freight car had been fitted up with bunks, and in this about thirty negroes slept.

About one o'clock yesterday morning the car in which the negroes were sleeping was surrounded by masked men, who immediately opened fire with Winchesters.

The negroes were awakened to find the messengers of death whistling all about them.

The shots and the screams of the negroes brought Graves, Beatty and a number of white employes who live near to the scene, and then the masked men fled.

Examination showed that Henry Johnson and Sam Evans, negroes, had been killed and that a dozen had been wounded, some of whom will die.

The freight car had been riddled by bullets.

The attackers so terrorized the negroes that they have refused to work for Graves and Beatty longer, and today about fifty of the sawmill hands reached this place.

It is thought the attack was instigated by white men who had been discharged by the owners of the plant.

SWEPT BY FLAMES.

Great Devastation Done on Beaver Island, Michigan.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

HARBOR SPRINGS, Mich., Sept. 10.—The Beaver Island forest fire is still raging and making considerable headway.

People on the morning boat say farmers are leaving their fields and flocking to St. James and the coast. The fire is raging on the high lands.

It is thought to have been started by a fishing party camping at an inland lake.

Between the fire and St. James is a big swamp, which it is hoped will check the flames.

Many thousand dollars worth of valuable timber has already been destroyed.

Clouds of smoke hang over the lake, cinders fall on the main land and the blaze could be seen at Cross village, thrity miles away, last night.

If the fire crosses the swamp it may burn the town of St. James.

THE NEW BOARD WINS.

Nebraska's Supreme Court Is Unanimous on the Subject.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—A special dispatch form Lincoln, Neb., says: Though the Supreme Courpt may not meet before the 17th of the present month, it can be stated on reliable authority that the judges has reached a decision on the Omaha Fire and Police Board controversy and that when the judges do meet again an opinion will be handed down sustaining the contention of the new board and ousting the old commissioners.

The opinion will be the joint work of the full court and unanimous.

That will sustain the constitutionality of the law passed by the Legislature and uphold the position maintained by Attorney General Churchill and Land Commissioner Russell as against that of Governor Holcomb.

TIRED OF HIDING.

Chicago Bank-Wrecker Who Will Now Take His Medicine.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—Frank C. Niehoff, an alleged bank wrecker, walked into the office of the clerk of the criminal court last evening and surrendered himself to the authorities.

For over two years Niehoff has been a fugitive from justice, he and his brother Otto, who is still in parts unknown, being charged with the wrecking of the Niehoff bank of this city.

When the bank closed its doors the assets were $5175, the liabilities $120,136.

Receiver Jaeger in his report charged Otto and Frank Niehoff with embezzling $59,121.

Boyer Burglarized.

Burglars entered the cigar store of Robert Boyer at the corner of Seventh and Broadway Saturday night and took from the safe $125. They left no trace of their entrance or clew to their identity and neither Mr. Boyer nor the police to whom he has reported the matter, have any clue as to the intruder.

MACEO'S MASTERLY MOVE.

He Is Preparing for a Grand Attack on Santiago de Cuba.

The Rebel General Has Apparently Outwitted Marshall Campos.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—The World says: Advices by a special courier from Cuba received at the offices of the Cuban junta in this city are to the effect that the city of Santiago de Cuba is completely surrounded by the insurgents and that an attack is expected at any time.

General Antonio Maceo is personally conducting the siege.

For two weeks he has completely cut off communication with the interior.

From the shore can be seen scores of camp fires belonging to the insurgent soldiers on the hill sides.

With a field glass persons on board ships in the harbor can readily see the Cuban pickets and sentries.

Advices have been received by the patriot representatives in New York city that an effort will be made to storm the fortresses which defend the place some time this week.

They are advised to remove articles of value to a safe place.

It is expected that the assault will be made at night.

The objective point will be the eastern portion of the city, where the main arsenal is.

In this arsenal is contained a large quantity of arms and ammunition, which General Maceo will endeavor to capture.

The arsenal is strongly guarded by the Spanish troops, and in addition to being under the protection of the guns at Moro castle there is a strong battery on the shore.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Consul General McIver has sen to the department of state a comprehensive statement of the foreign trade of Japan for 1894.

The total exports appear to have been $57,529,011 and the imports $59,680,833.

Of the exports $22,009,365 worth were sent to the United States, for which this country returned goods to the value of only $5,579,139.

The United States were the principal importers among the nations of Japanese goods.

Great Britain imported only $3,022,700 worth and exported to Japan $21,432,455 worth.

The statement shows that Japan exported $13,628,055 in gold and silver specie and bullion during the year and imported $17,464,588, the larger part of both amounts being in silver.

The customs collections amounted to $2,987,560.

The principal articles of export were coal, rice, silks, lacquered ware, matches, mats, copper and copper ware, and of imports cotton, raw and manufactured, drugs, chemicals, dyes, paints and colors, rice, locomotives and other machinery (including wheels and looms for spinning and weaking, railway appliances, sugar, steam vessels, wool and woolen goods.

The imported steam vessels were valued at $4,166 895.

The chief article of import from the United States was kerosene oil, $2,027,310, and raw cotton, $1,361,781, in both of which articles Mr. McIver reports a perceptible improvement in our trade.

The imports from this country also include about $100,000 worth of cotton manufactures, $22,933 worth of arms and munitions of war, $200,000 of leather, $281,026 of locomotives, $311,133 of flour and about $260,000 of other provisions, $121,134 of sugar and $106,325 of paraffine wax.

Of raw silk alone Japan exported $11,408,333 worth to the United States in addition to silk manufactures, including $2,310,376 worth of habutai silk and $961,993 of silk handkerchiefs.

That country also sent tea to the value of $3,193,000 to this country and considerable quantities of rice, matting and carpets.

MEN OF MARK.

The Italian premier, Crispi, is said to spend two hours a day in dressing and that he has a horror of getting to look old.

Mr. Gladstone has written such a vast number of letters during his life that his autographs bring only sixpence in the English market.

Jules Simon's real family name is Suisse which in France is an equivalent for concierge. When his first book came out Victor Cousin advised him to drop it, as no man could hope for fame with such a name.

Ruskin, according to a new anecdote, attended an exhibition of impressionistic paintings some time ago, and seeing an acquaintance said: "Leave this place. Don't let your eyes dwell on these impertinent, insolent daubs. It is a sin to prostitute a noble calling in such a way; it really makes me feel ill."

The Marquis of Devonshire allows himself the luxury of a railroad 10 miles long for his private pleasure. The railroad encircles his own domain. Whenever he takes a ride he acts as fireman and engineer, while he compels the members of his family, the ladies not excepted, to act as watchmen and watchwomen at the crossings.

The young Egyptian Khedive is said to possess the most costly set of harness in the world. It is made of black leather, with chased gold buckles, and collars ornamented with the same costly metal. The pad cloths are also embroidered with gold, and the set is said to have cost $11,000. It is for four horses and is used on all state occasions.

At one time the Duke of Wellington's extreme popularity was rather embarassing. For instance, on leaving home each fectionate mob, who insisted on hoisting day, he was always intercepted by an affhim on their shoulders, and asking where they should carry him. It was not always convenient for him to say where he was going so he used to say "Carry me home, carry me home." And so he used to be brought home half a dozen times a day a few minutes after leaving his own door.

A Rejected Suitor Stirs Up a Serious Feud in Arkansas.

Guns, Indictments and Attempted Assassinations Now in Order.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Sept. 10.—An attempted assassination occurred near Dumas, Ark., last Saturday that is connected with the most sensational features and may be the cause of great bloodshed among two highly connected families and their friends in Desha county, this State.

Late on the night of July 4th, this State, when Miss Sadie Seamonds, the daughter of Joshua Seamonds, a prominent citizen, returned from an entertainment and was about to retire to her room, Isaac Bankston, who was enamored of her, stepped, as she alleges, from a closet in which he had concealed himself.

The young lady screamed, and when her parents appeared they saw Bankston run away with a pistol in his hand.

He escaped and was indicted for attempted burglary, assault and rape, with intent to kill.

Returning Friday he surrendered to the authorities. He was waylaid Saturday and shot at by the father and brother of Miss Seamonds, as he says.

This statement was partly verified in letters and telegrams to States Attorney C. M. Martin of this city, who wired the sheriff of Desha county to arrest all parties to prevent bloodshed.

The friends of Miss Seamonds claim that her rejection of young Bankston as a suitor goaded him to the act of entering her room for the purpose of compromising her, while the young man asserts that he came by appointment.

Young Bankston is the son of Isaac Bankston, who was killed while sheriff of Desha county in an impromptu duel at Arkansas City some years ago by Judge Coates, who also fell dead. The duel was the outcome of a quarrel between the two men over a negro girl.

Young Bankston has many friends who believe his statement and they will protect him with their lives.

The friends of both parties are determined and are said to have become so deeply interested in the affair that a prolonged and bloody feud is among the possibilities.

A CASE OF COFFINS.

The Indianapolis Bankers to Get Their Second Trial.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 10.—The second trial of Francis and Percival Coffin for participating in the wrecking of the Indianapolis National bank is on the docket of the Federal court for today.

All the original witnesses have been summoned and two special venires of jurymen have been ordered, but there is a chance for the long delayed second trial again going over.

The defense last evening filed a motion for a further continuance, two of its most important witnesses being unable to attend the trial at this time. The motion will be argued this morning.

The trial is expected to last several weeks and at its close Schuyler Haughey, son of President Haughey, now serving a sentence in the penitentiary, will be placed on trial as an accomplice of his father in the bank wrecking business.

BROKE UP A WEDDING.

The Festivities Interrupted by Shooting and Kicking.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—George Cokeley and Cornelius Murphy this morning forced their way into Sennes hall, where a Polish wedding celebration was in progress.

Becoming boisterous they were ejected by Police Officer Frank Williams.

Outside they knocked the officer down and kicked and pounded him with a club.

The officer managed to get his revolver and fired several shots at his assailants.

Cokeley was wounded in the stomach. His wound may result fatally.

Officer Williams is suffering considerably from the beating he received and was taken to the hospital.

The shooting put a hurried end to the wedding celebration.

Sheridan's Interference for an Equine Horse.

An interesting story is told here of the late General Phil Sheridan and his horror of an unnatural horse being used in a statue of himself. Under the first Cleveland administration, Colonel John M. Wilson of the United States engineers was in charge of the public buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia. Col. Wilson and Gen. Sheridan were very good friends and Gen Sheridan took the colonel riding one day and proceeded to Scott Circle, where the coachman stopped.

General Sheridan spoke of the probability that he would not live very long and that a statue might be erected to him. Looking at the amazing horse upon which General Scott is sitting his face turned, as it always was in life, to the White House, General Sheridan said to Colonel Wilson: "I have one favor to ask, and that is if you happen to be again detailed for the same duty as you are now when they are about to construct a statue to me, do not put me on a horse like this one that poor Scott is represented as riding. If you do, I will haunt you."

General Sheridan died after Colonel Wilson had been ordered to West Point and now Colonel Wilson is again detailed for the same duty as he was when he and Sheridan took that ride. After he returned to Washington Colonel Wilson learned that there were drawings here for an equestrian statue of General Sheridan, so Colonel Wilson drove to the meeting of the committee that had charge of the plans for the statue and repeated to them General Sheridan's wishes. The result will probably be that the Sheridan statue will not include such a horse as "Little Phil" detested.

DR. FRAKER IN COURT.

The Insurance Swindler Pleads Not Guilty to the Charges.

He Says That He Will Be Able to Get Bail in a Week.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

RICHMOND, Mo., Sept. 10.—The first steps toward the prosecution of Dr. G. W. Fraker have been taken, when the prisoner was brought before Justice McCuiston to answer to the charge of obtaining life insurance money by false pretenses.

The charge was preferred by A. S. Van Vandenberg, representing the Kansas Mutual Life Association of Topeka, Kan.

The charge, stripped of its legal verbitage reads that on the 15th of May, 1892, and on the 20th day of February, 1895, the defendant, Fraker, obtained from the Mutual Life Association two policies of insurance for $5,000 each, and that on the 10th day of July, 1895, he attempted to defraud the association by pretending to lose his life by drowning in the Missouri river.

Dr. Fraker pleaded not guilty to the charge.

The State was not ready to go into an examination, and by consent the preliminary examination was fixed for Tuesday, Sept. 17th.

Fraker seems content with his surroundings and says he will be out on bail in a week.

The delegate to be sent East will also be chosen. The ladies are making extensive preparations and promise a delightful entertainment.

An Announcement of Interest.

The new Broadway firm of A. J. Dibert & Company is destined without doubt to control a large share of public patronage. Mr. Dibert's candid manner of presenting his business to public notice is not merely an evidence of his commercial clearsightedness but is to the average person an innovation as refreshingly new as it is presumptive of fair dealings.

Mr. Dibert will publish in tomorrow's Tribune in the display advertising columns, an announcement in line with his effective locals, and touching very vigorously upon what he considers is one of the modern vagaries of the drug business.

It Gives New Life.

A well-known citizen was overcome with the heat and infirmaty yesterday and fell upon the sidewalk on Washington street near Seventh. Several persons ran for physicians and one bystander rushed into Chas. A. Appeldorn's Oakland Chowder House and returned in a moment with a glass of cool, invigorating wine. The prostrate man drank the liquid and was inspired with new life. The wine was only one sample of the many kinds of fine wines sold by Mr. Appledorn. The old man walked away just as a physician arrived.

SHOWS OF HIGH ORDER.

May Nannary as "Queena" Makes a Hit at the Oakland.

First Nighters Regaled by Excellent Entertainments at the Theaters.

May Nannary and her excellent company of players received a warm welcome by a crowded house at the Oakland theater last evening. "Queena," a society drama peculiarly suited to the gifted young actress, was the bill, and in every incident was a treat to the large audience. Manager Collins had promised to produce the play in a creditable manner. He exceeded the promise and gave a stage setting that was of itself worthy of attention. There was no expense spared in this regard and the result was two scenes which were pictures of artistic beauty. In the second and third acts some beautiful effects were produced in the setting of the scene picturing the American legation in Paris. A prismatic fountain of real water surrounded by a lavish abundance of exotics was the center piece, while the effect was further heightened by new scenery of beautiful design which was painted expressly for the engagement.

The play tells a story of love and a lapse which carries interest with it to the end when husband and wife are reunited through a beautiful child. The drama is touching and the lines give Miss Nannary a wide scope. She has talent more than the ordinary and gives a finished performance of a difficult part. The large audience on the opening night is an indication of the demand that has been aroused for seats during the week. "Queena" will be the attraction throughout the week. It will be followed by "Wife for Wife."

THE MACDONOUGH.

The demand for seats for the John Drew engagement is already so large that when the sale commences at the Macdonough the houses will be disposed of very quickly. Manager Cook reports that seldom before has such large advance orders for seats been realized for any engagement. The engagement will be a society event and one of marked interest to theater-goers in Oakland. Due announcement will be made of the opening day of the sale.

THE BALDWIN.

The fourth and last week of John Drew at the Baldwin opened very auspiciously last night with the charming love story, "Christopher Jr." The leading roles were taken by Drew and Maud Adams, both of whom were at their best. The play will be repeated this evening and tomorrow night. The programme for the rest of the week is as follows: Thursday, the "Masked Ball;" Friday, "That Imprudent Young Couple;" Saturday afternoon, "The Butterflies," and Saturady night, "The Baubie Shop" will close the engagement.

THE COLUMBIA.

"The District Attorney," a sterling American drama, true to life and carrying consistently a strong plot, was presented last night at the Columbia to a crowded house. The excellent company which has the boards at the dainty Powell street theater was at its best in the play and gave a very enjoyable production. There will be large audiences during the week.

THE ORPHEUM.

Manager Walters has a splendid holiday week bill for his patrons. His programme is alive with novelties and from beginning to end there is no lagging. The acts are bright, fresh and crisp and none of the big audiences leave with that tired feeling which often oppresses those who witness poor performances. The Orpheum maintains its place as foremost in the ranks of the vaudeville resorts.

MOROSCO'S.

"On the Rio Grande," a melodrama replete with startling scenes, situations and effects, called forth a big house at Morosco's last night. The play is well staged and both the matinee performance and the evening production were well attended. The story is laid on the Texan border and is told with strong presentation. It will enjoy a good run.

THE TIVOLI.

The second week of "Faust" had a successful opening. The Tivoli was crowded to the doors. Miss Ida Vallerga made her reappearance as Marguerite. The season of Italian grand opera so favorably opened will be continued next week by the production of "Lucia di Lammermoor."

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The big pavilion at Hayes and Larkin street in San Francisco attracts throngs of visitors day and night and the entertainment afforded is sufficient to leave every one satisfied with their visit. The thousands of attractive exhibits of the improvements and advances made in art and the sciences are a treat in themselves. The additional feature of the magnificent Scheel orchestra of fifty pieces is much enjoyed.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Oakland's auditor is waiting to be furnished by the police with a list of the telegraph and telephone poles in the various parts of the city and then will be in a position to test the ordinance requiring a ground rental of $2 per pole from the companies using the street. Here is a suggestion for the trustees of Alameda. Such a tax may hasten on the problem of laying all such wires under ground. Above ground these poles are neither ornamental nor picturesque.—Alameda Telegram.

It is a satisfaction to know that the two Oakland men who poured coal oil on a rat and set it on fire were found guilty of a misdemeanor, and will be punished. Even a rat is entitled to be killed before it is cremated.—Fresno Republican.

Oaklanders are engaged in a discussion as to whether the lariat or the net is the more humane way of catching stray dogs. Up this way the people are so humane that they don't catch roaming dogs at all, and as a consequence the town is overrun with worthless canines. An anti-dog society is one of the town's needs.—Haywards Review.

The chances are very favorable for the people of Oakland becoming heartily tired of Populism before the next election and cleaning the whole crowd out the next opportunity that presents itself.—Livermore Herald.

Oakland's Wilmerding school site committee has been offered land at Twenty-third avenue, near the cotton mills, at a very low price. It is argued that if the school is located there Alameda, as well as Oakland, will be benefited.—Alameda Telegram.

The bicycle scare at Oakland has not been bothering our riders very much, although this district has some roads that may produce slight tremblers. Spinal meningitis is something to be dreaded, but our riders of the "bike" all agree to take even chances with the young men who haul grain and sit on a hard board all day trotting the teams over rock roads.—Haywards Review.

For once the public of Oakland has stood in with the Oakland newspapers. The election for bonds, which was supported by the papers, was carried last Saturday.—San Leandro Standard.

Oakland has shown that it will progress rather than retrograde by its carrying of the bond issue. Public improvements will be made, and the silurians will have to take a back seat.—Haywards Review.

Oakland is to have some more "fun" with the Southern Pacific Company. A movement is now on foot to test the right of the company to charge fare on its local line through the city. The property owners are all up in arms and propose making a bitter fight.—Pleasanton Times.

More railroad talk is going on in Oakland, and as usual there is much mystery about matters, but the idea seems to be to build a steam road from Oakland to Stockton. At first glance it might be supposed that the proposed road was to form part of the San Joaquin Valley system, but the information is conveyed that it will be an independent enterprise. Out of all the talk something tangible may come, but so many railroads have been projected and never built that people will want to see the work of construction actually begun before putting any faith in rumors.—Haywards Review.

MEDIUMS.

ADVICE AND ASSISTANCE FOR all—Secure a charm and wear diamonds; his parlors are always filled with anxious people seeking reliable information, and every reply is most gratifying. All are pleased. Professor Eugene gives advice on business, speculations, investments, love, courtship, marriage and divorce, settles lovers' quarrels, reunites the separated and causes a speedy and happy marriage with the one of your choice; he locates mines and buried treasures, tells you of your friends and enemies, removes evil influences, gives advice pertaining to lawsuits, locates and recovers old estates. Developing mediums a specialty. The troubled and unfortunate should seek his counsel. Thousands of families long separated have been reunited by his efforts; thousands of hearts made glad through his truthful predictions; he is the only clairvoyant on earth recognized by the profession as their brightest star; all persons unsuccessful in business, who seem to be unlucky, should visit him, seek his aid, and start aright. Thousands have become wealthy through his advice; he is ever ready to assist those with capital to find a safe and good-paying investment. Young men starting in business will find it greatly to their advantage to consult him on all matters of financial interest to themselves. WEARY OF REVOLUTIONS.

Central America Will Now Try to Develop Her Resources.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—Further particulars of the latest movement for Central American union have been obtained from Senor Jose De Gomez, the Nicaraguan statesman who, as the special minister from the President of Nicaragua to the Central American States, conducted the other preliminary negotiations which led to the understanding now arrived at.

Senor Gomez arrived in New York several days ago and has been stopping with friends here.

From here he will go to Washington in a day or two to pay his respects to the Nicaraguan minister. He says that he is in the United States solely on private business.

In an interview he said: "The confederated arrangement by which Nicaragua, Salvador and Honduras have just committed themselves, and which it is hoped Guatemala and Costa Rica will also assent to is primarily in the interest of maintaining peace throughout Central America and promoting civilization and progress in the five republics.

"The substantial and intelligent citizens in all these countries are heartily sick of revolutions, which have been so frequent in the past and have retarded developments, wasted our resources and discredited us in the eyes of the world.

Everybody who has visited Central America or made a study of the conditions, knows that ours is, materially, one of the richest and fairest regions of the globe, which ought to compare favorably with any other for population, prosperity and advancement.

"But the population of the whole of Central America is not much in excess of 13,000,000, including natives and other inferior races; and its backwardness is lamentable in various material aspects.

"But what hastened the agreement for union and was probably the determining factor in bringing it to pass at this time was the arbitrary action of England in the Corinto affair several months ago.

"That was a striking object lesson of the weakness of the Central American States when confronted by foreign aggression; and the union for defense which we are now inaugurating is the direct outgrowth of it.

"Last year I was sent by the President of Nicaragua as a special minister to the Central American republics to present to their governments propositions in behalf of the treaty of union.

"I received fair encouragements, but before my mission was completed the events growing out of England's claim on Nicaragua transpired and I was summoned home.

"President Zelaya thereupon decided that the time was ripe for immediate action, and without waiting for the results of my negotiations to develop in the ordinary course he issued an invitation to all the Central American Presidents to meet at Amalapa, the capital of Honduras.

General Bonilla, President of Honduras, and General Guiterras, President of Salvador, responded favorably, and the three Presidents accordingly met at Amalapa in July.

"The result of their deliberations was the treaty, the details of which have already been printed."

A CREDIT TO OAKLAND.

The Local Parlors Made a Fine Showing at Sacramento.

In its report of the Admission Day festivities in Sacramento the Chronicle of San Francisco says:

"Oakland parlor wore dark clothes with white vests and hats, while Stanford parlor was distinguished by white caps.

"Athens parlor of Oakland, the newest parlor in the State, wore white caps and bibs and carried rattles and nursing bottles in which were iced punches. There were number seven heads in number two caps, but the punches were a blessing.

"Oakland parlor made merry in the Supreme court chamber. In point of decorations Stanford parlor of San Francisco took the lead. Back of the musicians' stand was a huge star of electric lights and the center chandelier was a mass of incandescent lights, made to imitate huge yellow flowers with glowing hearts. The fifty smaller headquarters were quite as gay and cordial on a lesser scale, and the decorations, though simpler, were quite as pretty and as much admired by the friends of the parlor."

THE FATE OF THE AMERICA.

The Glorious Old Schooner Lies Neglected and Decaying at Chelsea.

Dismantled of her rigging, a castaway, housed over like a forgotten canal boat, with her weatherbeaten deck rotting in the air and her hull rotting in the green waters beneath, the yacht America lies today, almost unknown, in the river close to the new bridge at Chelsea. There she has lain for four years, since the day that Ben Butler sailed in her for the last time, when he left her deck with the mark of death upon him.

Her masts have long since lost their tapering straightness. The gleaming white hull which in those glorious old days first attracted the attention of the young Queen of England is black and green with dirt and sea grass. Instead of the trim deck, a dirty tar-coated deckhouse covers her from stem to stern. But this has not fully protected her by any means, and she is falling away beneath it into decay.

While General Butler lived she was put in commission every summer. The very year he died he had her at one of the Eastern races, and there he followed along with the crack Burgess schooners, the Mayflower and the Constellation. When the gruff old soldier died she became the property of his son Paul.

Today Paul Butler was asked what would be done with the boat. Judge from what he said it is a fair presumption that it is to be the old boat's fate to die where she lies.—New York Press.

CHAPMAN'S WINE ROOMS, AT 464 9th street, will be opened Sept. 3d, with a stock of first-class wines, liquors and cigars. The ever popular Frank Couzens will be Mr. Chapman's assistant.

Genuine artists prefer to play on the Wheelock pianos; they are perfect.

Shellmound Park, September 15—Oakland Turn Verein.

TUESDAY.....SEPTEMBER 10, 1895.

Senator Gray of Delaware, has spoken his piece about Cleveland's third term. He holds that he is the logical nominee of the Democratic party next year. All that may be quite consistent with another bit of logic which insures his defeat as certainly as he goes before the people for a third term. There is no saving grace in the point that his terms have not been consecutive. It is the common law of the country that no man shall be elected three times to that office. That is the logic that settles the issue.

The International Contest.

The yacht race on Saturday did not settle anything of importance. At the close it was impossible to tell which was the best boat. And yet the whole country was thrilled with the news that the American boat came in ahead. It did not seem less than a national victory. If the same boat should win twice more the Englishman would go home without the cup. But if he should capture it, what then? Americans would of course challenge for another contest.

It is probable that the last international contest is about to be made with single stick vessels, which are mere racing machines. The cup was won by a schooner which at that time was the fastest sailing craft of her size in the world. Today there are hundreds of schooners that can sail faster than the America ever could. There are some of that class on this coast that are not known as yachts. They are earning money for their owners in business.

It would not be a bad turn of events if the Englishman should win. American yachtsmen need to have a little of the conceit taken out of them. They have assumed that no foreigner can make a racing craft quite as good as their own. If the cup goes back to England there will be a great marine struggle to win it back. This country has just begun the race for maritime supremacy. It will not be won in this larger sense by vessels with a single mast; and it is probable that it may be won, if at all, by vessels that have little use for masts, but are the swiftest and best carriers that the world has ever known. The Valkyrie won today by a scratch.

Good and Bad Farming.

In the early days of agricultural societies farmers came together to discuss the best methods of tilling the soil. They did not take half as much interest in horse racing as they did in the teams that could do the best ploughing in the field. In these last days one hears very little about the best methods of tilling land. The clubs of twenty or thirty farmers that have been organized in small places generally talk to the purpose. The annual State Fair sometimes secures an address of some practical interest. But as a general rule the men who do the talking in public know the least about practical agriculture. There could not be a more suggestive subject for such a talk than bad farming in California. Lest the topic might be omitted, we are constrained to quote a paragraph from the Mail of Stockton: "The farmers are in the quagmire of debt. Their estates are plastered with mortgages. The struggle from season to season is to pay interest and taxes. The boys reared on California farms, as soon as they are foot-loose, fly to the towns and cities. The girls are just as eager as their brothers to escape. The rustic youth of both sexes are crowding one another in the cities seeking employment as clerks, typewriters, bookkeepers, stenographers, actors, reporters, real estate brokers, lawyers, doctors, drummers and what not. Few of them are learning to do hard work or to become good mechanics. Only grizzled men are left on the farms, and these are rapidly degenerating into wrecks of their former selves. On Saturdays they drive into town, congregate on the sidewalks, talk about the hard times, discuss politics, play pedro and brace the merchants for their supplies. They stand around in dazed fashion, damn the country and pronounce life a failure."

More is the pity that there is so much truth in this statement. It ought not to have so much as the color of truth in its application to farming in this State. There is of course another aspect of agriculture wherein what is best in the calling is seen. Men who make money and want no better occupation. They have model farms, live comfortably, are out of debt, make improvements every year, have sons who are content with the calling of their fathers, and hold that there is no better State in the world than the one they have chosen for their homes. These are today the minority farmers of California. It is a great pity that they are not in the majority.

The Latest Social Eclipse.

The social "function" at Newport, of which O. H. P. Belmont was the host, was given in a combination villa and horse stable that cost, according to report, $2,000,000. The little gifts as souvenirs, mere trifles, cost $7,000. These are some of the memorial things distributed: English riding whips, silver mounted and with silver pencils in the handles, scores of metal novelties, such as thermometers and ash receivers; wide and gorgeous satin sashes, with jewel ornaments of rhinestone and real pearls; satin caps in colors and forms of those worn by the Belmont jockeys; miniature horse blankets, court orders for the neck; French walking sticks; cribbage boards and anchor counters; large horses' heads mounted on sticks; Parisian flower fans; satin bags hung Parisian ower fans; satin bags hung with jewels; small satin slippers filled with natural flowers, gilt bird cages with living and singing canaries; tortoiseshell and silver tablets; bisque folly sticks; empire silk fans, silk flags of various nations and beautiful bouquets of flowers.

All this we are told is English, even to the feast that was served in the carriage house. A gold service adorned the buffet table. There was the usual assortment of English titled guests, including a duke. Great pains had been taken to inform the public about all these particulars. In fact it is important that the world should understand that Belmont has eclipsed the last Vanderbilt social function. If it were not for this overwhelming desire for the greatest publicity such affairs might assume a private character. A rich man or a rich ambitious woman gives a social function, not as a private matter, but for the very purpose of letting the public know that the affair has been properly accentuated. There has been a supreme exaltation for a few hours at least.

These contrasts have some striking features. Just when the stringency of the times calls for the utmost simplicity of living, and when never before were so many people concerned to know where the bread is to be found next week to satisfy hungry mouths, the social flare and blazonry of wealth becomes the other extreme. It is good by way of comedy, and far better than it would be if it were to provoke anything like social retaliation. A little quiet satire is about all the response that is likely to be made. The perfect right to make such displays and to publish them to the world can never be questioned. The French revolution occurred after there had been one of the most imposing displays of wealth and luxury that the world had ever known. Is our boasted Republican simplicity drifting in the same direction?

The Last of Bustamente.

Among the refugees from Salvador brought up to San Francisco on the Bennington was Bustomente, a half-breed, and altogether the most savage and brutal fellow of the lot. If we remember rightly it was the judgment of the court that he ought to be returned to Salvador as a criminal, while the others were set at liberty for technical reasons. Bustomente was finally released on an order from Washington. That he had committed a number of murders in Salvador was hardly disputed, except in the incidental way that they were the result of a revolution.

After the release of Bustamente he became one of the most active conspirators with Ezeta against the peace of Salvador. The authorities of the country wanted him particularly as he was the most brutal criminal of the lot. They wanted Ezeta also as the leader of the brutal gang which never had influence enough to obtain any large following. Bustamente went down to Acapulco, and afterwards found his way into Nicaragua. In the latter country he evidently found no encouragement. He was reduced to such straits that he took a steerage passage on a Pacific Mail steamer that was to land at the chief port of Salvador.

The authorities were informed of the fact and demanded his delivery on a criminal warrant. It is probable that they have made an end of this brutal semi-savage, as they would make an end of Ezeta if they could once lay hands on him. There was at one time not a little sympathy expressed for these men who had committed crimes in the name of liberty. But when more of their history was made known it was found that they were a bad lot and wholly undeserving of the sympathy that had been extended to them. In Salvador they had no standing as revolutionists in the better sense, but only as desperate men who had plundered and murdered people to advance their private fortunes.

Our Methodist brethren are sturdy defenders of the liberty of speech, but not of any abuse of that liberty. They are not afraid of radical thought when expressed for good ends. But Kier Hardie the English socialist and sympathiser of anarchists, was too much for them in his recent speech at Chicago. When Hardie denounced the execution of the anarchists for the murder of men in that city and eulogized them as the pioneers of the new religion it was too much of a revelation. A storm of righteous indignation followed. This is the fellow who advocated the red flag as the symbol of brotherhood, and the symbol of bloody revolution.

It is not a surprising fact that Rev. Dr. Scott of Chicago should not see the way to come to the First Congregational church of Oakland. The First Presbyterian church had the good fortune to draw a minister from Chicago, and it was in order to ask another good man in that city to come here and fill a vacancy. The other minister whose name has been mentioned in connection with the same vacancy is Rev. Dr. Barrons, who did so much to bring about the Parliament of Religions in Chicago, and who was the historian of that great event. The good people of the vacant church aim high if they don't always bring down the game.

NOTES AND EXCERPTS.

German women singers, according to Le Menestrel, have a hard lot as a rule. When they find employment in one of the seventy theaters they receive at first 120 marks ($30) a month, and if successful reach 500 marks a month. For every vacancy there are thirty conservatory graduates who apply. The concert singers are still worse off. The result is that many talented artists turn to the cafes chantants, where they are better paid.

It is proposed to make Berlin a seaport by connecting it by canals with the river Oder. The Tegel See, to the west of the city, would be the harbor. There are no engineering difficulties, and only two locks would be needed. The cost for a canal seventy feet broad at the bottom and twenty-five feet deep would be about 200,000,000 marks, or one-third more than that of the Baltic-North Sea canal.

Zola's "La Debacle" has sold better than any of his other works, 187,000 copies having been disposed of so far; next come "Nana" with 171,000, "L'Assomoir" and "Lourdes," 132,000 each, and "Le Terre," 113,000. Of Alphonse Daudet's novels "Sapho" with 100,000 copies has been the most popular; then follow "Le Nabab," with 97,000, and "Fromont Jeune et Risler aine" with 95,000. Between 40,000 and 50,000 copies are printed for the first edition of a story of "Georges Ohnet" or of "Pierre Loti." The average sales of Paul Bourget's books are about 30,000 copies, though of "Mensonges" 50,000 have been called for. For Mme. Henri Greville's stories the average is 18,000, but "Dosia," her greatest success, has reached 70,000. Of Hector Malot's "Sans Famille" 118,000 copies have been sold.

An Anglo-Dutch syndicate is trying to reclaim the land in the delta of the Danube, between the St. George's and Sulina branches, by means of dykes. The dredging of the bar now permits vessels drawing 21½ feet to reach Sulina and before long it is hoped the channel will be deep enough for ships drawing 21 feet.

Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has announced that on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his accession to the throne in 1898 he will present to the city of Vienna the Prater, the famous park of Vienna, and the Augarten, a royal park in the densely populated part of the city, to which the public was first admitted by the Emperor Joseph II. Both Prater and Augarten are to be preserved forever as public recreation grounds for the people of Vienna.

Lord Charles Beresford got a ducking recently; he was testing a new kind of paint in the Chatham dockyard when it capsized and he had to swim ashore. The sailor who was with him was completely exhausted by the swim.

Zola's school record has been hunted up by one of his admirers. He took first prizes for good conduct and for Latin throughout his course, and also prizes for religion during the years it was taught. In history and geography he began well taking first prizes for the first two years, but ended with honorable mention only.

Constantinople Bulgarians have ordered from a Vienna manufacturer an iron church 105 feet long and 49 feet wide, with a tower 98 feet high. It will weigh 500 tons and cost, including transportation, $76,000.

Signor Crispi when in Rome has an escort of twenty nine police officials for which Italy pays 60,000 francs a year. Whenever he leaves the city the cost of guarding him is increased three or four fold.

Journalism has become a university subject in Germany. Prof. Koch gave a course of lectures at Heidelberg on German journalism last winter, and will repeat the course in the next semester.

Ex-President Harrison goes deer hunting at midnight. President Cleveland digs worms for bait at dawn. And T. Reed saws wood and says nothing at all hours.

President Cleveland is not only a skilful fisherman, but he is well up on piscatorial statistics and literature. No book appears dealing with the sport of fishing that the president does not obtain a copy. If the writer displays capacity in dealing with his subject Mr. Cleveland reads the book in its entirety. He is very quick to discover technical flaws in the work of a careless writer, however.

Simon Wormser, the banker, who died a few days ago in New York, and his brother, Isidor, had a curious habit. They were almost inseparable and every afternoon at the same hour they left their banking house and walked together to the nearest station of the elevated railroad but they did not take the same train. Either Isidor would take the first train after leave his brother to take the one following, or turn about. It is said this arrangement was made because they feared accidents and they did not wish to go down together for the sake of the banking house of Wormser.

A manufacturer of phonographs in New York recently received an application for a cylinder that would tell the story of Maria Barbeti, the Italian murderess. He wrote back that it would be impossible to comply with the demand. To his astonishment he received a dozen or more similar requests from different parts of the West. This induced him to furnish the article. A newspaper man wrote a dramatic account of the tragedy, which was fired into the phonograph by a professional elocutionist. It was done in 1000 words and the manufacturer is receiving orders every day for Maria Barbeti cylinders.

Mrs. Langtry never hesitates at withdrawing from a contract even when the forfeiture is large enough to dismay anyone who is accustomed to regard financial matters somewhat more seriously than the English beauty appears to. When she decided three years ago that she would prefer to spend the winter on a yacht in the Mediterranean than in traveling over the United States, this change in her plans was first made known by her through the arrival of a draft for $15,000 which came to her manager as a balm for his disappointment. Last year she was very successful here, and looked forward to her present season with expectations of great profits. But it is evident that something equally promising must have developed in Europe, as Mrs. Langtry is a very shrewd woman, and otherwise the chances of her American profits would never have been given up. Usually her trips to this country are undertaken when nothing presents itself in England.—N. Y. Sun.

Few of the sovereigns of the old world dare trust their affairs to servants of their own nationality. The confidential servants of the Queen Regent of Spain are mostly Germans, as are also those of the reigning family in England, each prince having a special body servant who bears a Teuton name. The servants of Emperor William of Germany are for the most part English and French, Germans having been found unsuitable, while at St. Petersburg what may be described as the body servants of the late, as of the present czar, are either German or English.

The maid's cap, it seems, has got into the English courts. A servant sued her employed for wages after dismissal because she would not wear caps. The learned Q. C. admitted that the subject was a very delicate one, and seemed to be over the cause of complaint between mistresses and maids. It was finally decided that the refusal to wear caps per se was not sufficient ground to discharge a servant out of time. The particular case in question took on some other phases, but this part of the decision implies by inference that the cap has ceased to be the sine qua non of the English maid which it is regarded on this side of the water.

Stealing books is common enough, but of late, in keeping with the stupendous tendencies of the age, they have got to stealing entire libraries. It was lately discovered that some thousands of volumes purchased by the University of Pennsylvania in good faith had been stolen from somewhere and now comes word from Paris that a collection of 10,000 volumes on American history, made by a Frenchman named Valtemare and by him given to the city of Paris, is missing and cannot be traced, though they are believed to be hidden away somewhere in France.—Philadelphia Times.

ODD HAPPENINGS IN EUROPE.

A chapel measuring 9x12 feet will shortly be erected on Mount Blanc, 10,000 feet above the sea level.

Last year thirty-three persons in London lost their lives by the explosion of coal-oil lamps. In twenty-five cases the lamps were glass lamps and it is therefore proposed to prohibit their sale and use.

In France it is a punishable offense for anyone to give infants under one year any form of solid food, unless such be ordered by written prescription signed by a legally qualified medical man.

The Mahometan clergy denounce electricity as a damnable power.

A servant girl at Vienna attempted to committ suicide by a novel method. She undressed and then poured boiling water over herself; being interrupted in this she tried to throw herself from a window. And now she is in her proper sphere—the lunatic asylum.

The smallest clock in the world was on exhibition lately in a jeweller's show-window in Gottingen, Germany. The dial measures less than one-third of an inch in diameter and the weight which furnishes the motive force for twenty-four hours is suspended from a woman's hair.

L'Independence Belge says that a young Hungarian military doctor named Bela Skarvan has been condemned by court-martial to three months' solitary confinement, to the confiscation of his property and the loss of his doctor's diploma, and to degradation to the rank of a private because in a letter to the military authorities he ventured to express his aversion to military service.

Several newspapers in Lissabon, Portugal, with malice aforethought accused the Jesuits of stealing children. Since then, in consequence of these calumniations, many priests have been assaulted on the streets and seriously wounded by the very ignorant and credulous populace. In fact, very vigorous measures were necessary to prevent the assassination of all clericals.

A son of Gehemrath Julius Schwabach, member of the firm of Bleichroeder of Berlin, has shown himself a phenomenal spendthrift. Within eighteen months he squandered over $250,000. He tried his best, or his worst, to prove himself a fin de siecle blade. For instance, while residing in Leipsic, Germany, he sometimes telegraphed to his tailor at Berlin to come to him by special train to take an order. The rich fool is now under guardianship.

The Berlin Echo has discovered that among the Chinese the "milhi" is priced as the most delicious dish. It consists of new-born mice, still blind. They are dipped in oil and then connoisseurs swallow them very slowly. At the marriage feast of the present Emperor of China not less than 5000 of these sleek bonbons glistened on the festive board.

A late official report shows that contrary to common belief cases of religious mania are rare in the British isles. It also discloses the strange fact that more mental aberration is developed among the tribe of peddlers than among any other class, physicians and druggists coming next. Melancholia prevails most in Ireland.

How densely ignorant the Russian peasants are is shown by the fact that lately a swindler was arrested in the government of Saratow for selling among the peasantry a large number of tickets to the planet Jupiter. Many of the dupes had disposed of everything to buy such a ticket. These would-be emigrants were promised large estates and a life of ease and luxury, of course, and had even been told not to take along the pictures of saints, since on Jupiter they would be likely to make their personal acquaintance.

A piano in a lion cage is the latest stage specialty. It has been introduced by a hitherto obscure female piano teacher who first performed in a lion cage in a menagerie at Dewsburg, England. This experiment is pronounced a grand success. The kingly beasts are said to be very appreciative, and particularly partial to Chopin's airs.

Custom is tyrannical. Hence it is that the English servant maid, whenever she wants to shine when taking an airing, continues to actually hire a soldier from the barracks, glorious in scarlet coat and brass buttons, to accompany her at the rate of not less than six pence per hour. By paying eight or ten pence she may monopolize the soldier's society; otherwise the martial gallant may let out half his smiles and his left arm to another maid at the sixpence rate.

An "only original" circus is now giving performances at Christiana, Norway. The members of the troupe represent various grades of nobility. One baron is director of the educated dogs, another baron is a clown, the latter's wife a baroness, charms the public with her songs; a countess beats the cymbals, a marquise twangs the zither, and a duke blows a fife.

Vienese papers state that Czar Nicholas II, is a mere puppet in the hands of his mother. The reign of the Dowager Empress is, however, confined to politics. In court society the young Empress—a Hessian princess with an English education—rules supreme! she has already succeeded in making English the dominant language in court circles, and is endeavoring to supplant Russian with English etiquette and habits. And now the average Russian would not be surprised to learn that the court cats are being taught to bark.

German railroad cars are not comfortable, but German railroad management is fair. For instance, according to a late agreement between the railroads, if a traveler now makes only part of the trip to which his ticket entitles him, the money paid in excess is returned to him, provided the station master of the station where his trip was cut short has certified to the fact on the ticket.

Some of the postoffices in the province of Brandenburg, Prussia, have queer names: Old Nag, Blue Monkey, Flying Horse, Green Deer, Hungry Wolf, Cow Beer, Pig's Whistle, etc. And the Postal Guide for the province shows further an astonishing assortment of foreign names: Annapolis, Ceylon, Charlestown, Beauregard, Corsica, Jerusalem, Jamaica, Malta, Maryland, Ninive, Pensilvanien, Saratoga, Zion, etc., all these lying and situate in the ultra-Prussian province of the ultra-German Kingdom.

AN ESTATE FOUGHT FOR.

Public Administrator Knight Seeking the Cook Property.

W. C. Tripp, However, Insists the Official Has No Control.

W. C. Tripp intends to give Public Administrator Knight a hard fight over the possession of the estate of the late Elizabeth L. Cook, whose confidential advisor Tripp was for five years preceding her death in Oakland last June.

Tripp claims that the estate was conveyed to him in trust by Mrs. Cook a month prior to her decease. It was her wish that he settle it on the terms she dictated and prevent the property from becoming involved in the Probate Court. Her action in the matter has precipitated litigation which may not be settled for several years.

At the outset Public Administrator Knight had Tripp cited before the Superior Court to show cause why he should not deliver the estate into Knight's hands. It was ascertained that Mrs. Cook had died intestate. Major Fred Whitney, representing Knight, made a demand for the property but failed to secure it. Then the proceedings in court were taken.

The hearing upon the order to show cause why the property should not be turned over to Knight has lagged somewhat, but there are fresh suits in the field.

The failure of Tripp to yield to Knight's demand paved the way for another action. Under the statutes of this State, the public administrator may recover double the amount of property held from him if it be shown that the withholding was illegal, so Attorney Whitney commenced such an action.

Along with this came a suit on the part of some of the Eastern relatives of Mrs. Cook. They claimed to have an interest in the estate and sought a distribution.

Tripp, however, is going to fight. He has filed an answer to Knight's second action and takes each section of the complaint and makes a specific denial to the allegations. He says he has not illegally withheld any of the Cook estate from Knight. He will fall back upon the trust deeds and bills of sale which were executed to him before Mrs. Cook's death to show that practically she left no estate. The entire value of the property is not definitely known. It is said to be about $40,000. A house and lot at Tenth and Castro streets is the largest piece of property connected with the estate.

All Will be Ready for the Board to Act Next Monday.

Next Monday the Supervisors will fix the county tax levy and the levy for each of the fifty or more school districts in the county for the present fiscal year. Auditor Whidden, now that he has received instructions from the District Attorney, is working night and day to complete the various tabulations necessary to inform the Supervisors as to the tax rate required to raise sufficient money to operate the county government for the present fiscal year.

The work is based upon the total valuation on the county assessment rolls as compared with the estimates of expenses furnished through a comparative examination of the cost of operation of last year. The school district levies depend upon the amount of bonded indebtedness the district may have to liquidate.

As soon as the Board officially fixes the tax rate the Auditor will be compelled to go through the assessment rolls and extend the amount of taxes on each assessment. This work must be done and the rolls turned over to the Tax Collector on the first Monday in October.

A GOOD JURY.

The remains of Mrs. Gay were taken from the morgue this morning to her home.

The inquest will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock. The following have been summoned as jurors: C. H. Rice, George E. Fairchild, L. H. Egbert, Geo. L. Fish, W. H. Rouse, Mr. Gardner of Torey, Whitman & Gardner, W. D. McDonald, A. Steffanoni and M. Williams.

The Torbett Company.

San Francisco critics give high praise to the performances of the Torbett Concert Company. Of the violinist the Examiner writes: "Miss Ollie Torbett plays with excellent skill. She has perfect command of the bow and fairly won the audience by storm. She was repeatedly encored and rendered a number of solos during the evening, to the delight of her hearers."

The Call man is more pleased with the men singers: "A decided hit was made at the Metropolitan Temple last night by the Swedish male sextette of the Torbett Concert Company. Their singing of Swedish college songs was especially appreciated, and at every point where the singers of the sextet were called upon to appear they were re-demanded again and again."

Mounting a Wheel.

It has long been a mystery to us how our female bikers mounted their wheels. At length we had the supreme satisfaction of witnessing the feat, and this is the way she did it, as nearly as we can remember. She placed her left hand on the port end of the steering apparatus; then she put her No. 5½ on the starboard pedal, then she clutched with her right hand some stern sheeting and then a sort of wiggle, up and backward, and while we were winking she was seated, and there was a blue streak skimming the surface like a bird.—Maine Paper.

Did Much Good.

Owing to the very generous gift of $500 which has recently been presented to the West Oakland Home by Mr. and Mrs. John Crellin the managers of that institution have been enabled to cancel the mortgage by which it has been encumbered. All connected with its management feel very grateful for the interest and sympathy thus substantially expressed and have sincere cause for congratulation that the Home is now free from debt.

Evening up the Work.

The Street Superintendent will change the force of men now employed by the Street Department tomorrow. The change will effect the full force of 65 men.

Judge Frick has appointed H. H. Todd, T. W. Higgenbottom and A. L. McPherson appraisers of the estate of A. W. Ward.

CRACKED HIS SKULL.

Accident to R. P. Valentine of the Oakland Electric Light Company.

His Injuries Are Serious, But It Is Thought Will Not Be Fatal.

A buggy containing A. C. Were, Paul Geiler and Richard P. Valentine was struck by an Alameda and Oakland car at the corner of Tenth and Jefferson streets at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The occupants were thrown to the ground, the buggy was smashed and the horse ran away. Mr. Valentine was severely injured, while the others escaped unhurt. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where it was discovered that his skull was fractured.

The fracture is his skull is at the base of the brain, and while very serious, it is thought will not prove necessarily fatal.

The physicians in attendance, Drs. Dunn and Hamlin, are very much inclined to beleive there is a chance of his recovery, but the siege will be a long one at best.

Valentine is still at the Receiving Hospital, where he remained all night in a semi-conscious condition. He regained his senses this morning sufficiently to recognize his wife, who has been by his side for hours past. The greatest care will have to be taken of the injured man as the fracture, while not large, is of sufficient dimensions to warrant extreme caution being displayed in handling him.

The injured man is superintendent of the Oakland Electric Light and Motor Company.

Stephen Hamilton Has Secured Satisfaction From James Costigan.

Stephen Hamilton and James M. Costigan have settled their differences engendered recently over a real estate deal involving an exchange of Fresno acreage property with a lot at Eighth and Harrison streets in Oakland. Hamilton claimed that Costigan had transferred land which Hamilton had only pledged with Costigan as security for a debt. Subsequently, so Hamilton's complaint recited, Costigan mortgaged the lot for $3,600. Hamilton sued to recover the difference between the amount secured on the mortgage and the debt he originally owed which was $385.

Today notice was filed in the Superior Court on the part of Hamilton dismissing the action on the ground that full satisfaction had been rendered by Costigan for all claims Hamilton had set up against him in his suit.

TWENTY CENTS AN HOUR.

The Street Department Is to Adopt a New System.

How It Is Proposed to Avoid the Eight-Hour Law.

The street department will work with the Council in reducing the city's expense. In doing so it does not attempt to cut the pay of any of its employes, but merely to engage them so as to have them work ten hours a day and still comply with the labor laws.

The pay of the street laborers at the present time is $2 a day and under the provisions of the political code the men cannot be forced to work over eight hours. This makes the job a "snap" in comparison with the time and salary paid laborers by the private employers. With these the men are compelled to work ten and eleven hours daily and receive but $1.50.

San Francisco has reduced the street expenses by cutting the salaries of the men from $2 to $1.10 a day.

To act in compliance with the labor laws the street department here has advised the City Council to authorize the employment of men at 20 cents an hour. Under this provision those who wish to work ten hours will be permitted to do so but will not be required to work for more than eight.

Up to a short time ago the men employed on the streets were working ten hours, but the Labor Bureau and the Federated Trades objected and of late they have been working but eight. While working for ten hours they were informed by Street Superintendent Miller of the existing labor law and told that if they wished they could take advantage of it without prejudice to themselves. At the same time he told them of the city's need of money and compared its liberality to institutions employing labor. Not a man on the entire force took advantage of the law, but each worked ten hours a day. To further reduce the expenses Mr. Miller advised that sixteen of the street sprinklers be laid off. This will save the city nearly $100 a day.

Bishop Whipple on Indians.

"When I went to Minnesota," said he, "Indian affairs were in their worst state. The agents were appointed as a reward for political services. The salary was but $1800 a year, but there was a definite understanding that the position meant a competency for life. The Indians had been dragged down to sorrow their fathers had never known. The Sioux have a very bad reputation now, but for thirty years it was their boast that they had never taken the life of a white man. If the former friendship has been changed to enmity it is our fault.

"The Indian is the noblest type of the wild man in the world. He recognizes the Great Spirit, believes in a future life, has a passionate love for his children, and will lay down his life for his tribe. He is courteous and hospitable. If his bitterest enemy came to his wigwam he would be treated as an honored guest. The world is peopled with spiritual influences to the Indian. There is a spirit in the waterfall, another in the thunder, another in the trees. Everything explainable by science is by the Indian attributed to a spiritual influence. The Indian is proverbially honest, unless he is demoralized by drink.

"It thirty-six years experience with the Indians I never knew one to tell a lie, and I never had a thing stolen by one. I asked an Indian once if it was safe to leave my property in my wigwam while I made a distant journey. He laughed and said: "Quite safe. There isn't a white man within 100 miles of you." Among themselves the Indians are fond of jokes and are often shouting with laughter. They are taciturn, however, in the presence of whites.—Cleveland Leader.

The Ratburners Sentenced.

Judge Wood sentenced Richard Wood and Charles Frank today. They are the individuals charged by the Society of Cruelty to Animals with burning three rats. The defendants made a motion for a new trial, which was denied and in each case the court imposed a fine of $25 or imprisonment for twelve and a half days.

THEY ARE COMRADES NOW.

Veterans of the Blue and Gray Arm-in-Arm at Louisville.

It Is Estimated That There Are 200,000 Strangers in Town.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

LOUSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 10.—It is doubtful if this city ever before entertained as many guests as are here today.

It is conservatively estimated that nearly 200,000 strangers are here, the majority of whom 30 years ago bore arms either for the blue or for the gray.

But the blue and gray are one today, and the men who were then at war, walk arm in arm as brothers.

The event today was the grand parade of the Naval Veterans Association.

Old citizens say it was the grandest sight they ever saw.

But the great Grand Army parade tomorrow which is to be the event of the week, promises to far surpass it.

There were fully 10,000 men in line.

Of course they were not all veterans of the navy, but these veterans were the center of attraction and were greeted by patriotic cheers from tens of thousands of people.

Last in the parade, riding in carriages, came a score or more veterans of the Mexican war, too feeble to walk.

IN POLICE CIRCLES.

A Number of Wheelmen Pay Forfeit to the City.

Nearly everybody who had money enough to get drunk on had gone to Sacramento and the police did not have the criminal dock at the police court very full today for three days' work. But eight individuals who had hilariously celebrated Admission Day were on hand. Among the lot was Mat Kennedy, at one time a politician in Oakland. He had committed his offense of drunkenness some time ago and had escaped from the arresting officer. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for the 12th.

F. Gironomin tried to make the holiday pleasant for Miss F. Podest by taking her for a spin on a wheel. They forgot to carry the required headlight and the gentleman paid the city $1 for his oversight.

John Smith, James Thompson and C. Engleking also paid $2 apiece for not riding their bicycles in compliance with the ordinance.

H. A. Smith, charged with disturbing the peace, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for September 13th.

John Veria, charged with battery upon Miss Flannigan, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Ah Jim, a seller of lottery tickets, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty and forfeited $75 bail.

Wm. Dannaker, the lad who, it is said, robbed the U. P. restaurant on Seventh street, had his arraignment continued to the 13th.

WILL STRUGGLE NO MORE.

Farmer Caldwell Files His Petition in Insolvency.

A. P. Caldwell, a Contra Costa county farmer, has tired of the struggle against ill fortune and an accumulation of debts which he sees no way to satisfy. He has filed his petition in insolvency in the Superior Court of this county, where most of his creditors reside. His debts, which consist largely of promissory notes, amount to $4,168.50. He owns no real estate. His personal property is valued at $825.50, but $791 worth is exempt from execution. This leaves a balance of $33.50 to apply to the liquidation of his liabilities.

Foreclosure Suits.

J. N. Williams has brought suit against H. S. Gaston to foreclose a mortgage of $2370 upon lots 18 and 19 in the Claremont avenue tract. Included as defendants in the suit are half a dozen building items in the city who have liens upon the property.

The Firemen's Fund Insurance Company has brought suit against Johanna, R. F. Juhuga and Clara E. Crist to foreclose a mortgage of $200 upon a block of land bounded by Third, Fourth, Oak and Madison streets. The mortgage was given on November 13, 1868, to the Oakland Home Insurance Company to secure a promissory note of even date.

Witness F. G. Pierce Commits Suicide at Stockton.

He Was Out of Work and Gloomy, So He Gave Up the Fight.

Chief Kingsburry of the Stockton police telephoned Chief Lloyd this morning F. G. Pierce, summoned as a witness in the case against D. S. Herschel, had committed suicide by poison.

The case of the people against Herschel was to be tried tomorrow and the prosecution had issued a foreign subpoena for Pierce. At the time of his service he told Chief Kingsburry that he was out of work and had no money with which to come to Oakland. He accepted service of the paper, however, when informed of his rights as to the payment of expenses.

The case in which he was wanted was a charge of extortion made against Herschel by Charles Madeson, who claims that Herschel attempted to get money from him for not disclosing the fact that Madeson had been confined in Folsom for two years. The prosecution expected to prove by Pierce that he had heard Herschel make the demand for money.

Pierce was employed for some time in Oakland. He was in the service of the railroad company and worked on the repairs made on the trestle leading to the Alameda mole.

He had been in Stockton for about three months and was stopping at the Garibaldi house. He leaves a wife and family in San Francisco.

Two Negroes Murdered by a White Mob in Florida.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

WESTVILLE Fla, Sept 10—Yesterday morning two negroes were shot to death and several wounded by a band of masked men in the northern portion of Holmes county

The tragedy occurred near a large saw mill, which is owned by Graves and Beatty

The firm employs many negroes and operates a short railroad from the sawmill to the river

A freight car had been fitted up with bunks and in this about thirty negroes slept

About one o clock yesterday morning the car in which the negroes were sleeping was surrounded by masked men who immediately opened fire with Winchesters

The negroes were awakened to find the messengers of death whistling all about them

The shots and the screams of the negroes brought Graves Beatty and a number of white employes who live near to the scene and then the masked men fled

Examination showed that Henry Johnson and Sam Evans negroes had been killed and that a dozen had been wounded some of whom will die

The freight car had been riddled by bullets

The attackers so terrorized the negroes that they have refused to work for Graves and Beatty longer and today about fifty of the sawmill hands reached this place

It is thought the attack was instigated by white men who had been discharged by the owners of the plant

He Is Preparing for a Grand Attack on Santiago de Cuba.

The Rebel General Has Apparently Outwitted Marshall Campos.

By Associated Press to The Tribune.

NEW YORK Sept 10—The World says Advices by a special courier from Cuba received at the offices of the Cuban junta in this city are to the effect that the city of Santiago de Cuba is completely surrounded by the insurgents and that an attack is expected at any time

For two weeks he has completely cut off communication with the interior

From the shore can be seen scores of camp fires belonging to the insurgent soldiers on the hill sides

With a field glass persons on board ships in the harbor can readily see the Cuban pickets and sentries

Advices have been received by the patriot representatives in New York city that an effort will be made to storm the fortresses which defend the place some time this week

They are advised to remove articles of value to a safe place

It is expected that the assault will be made at night

The objective point will be the eastern portion of the city where the main arsenal is

In this arsenal is contained a large quantity of arms and ammunition which General Maceo will endeavor to capture

The arsenal is strongly guarded by the Spanish troops and in addition to being under the protection of the guns at Morro castle there is a strong battery on the shore

PINE BLUFF Ark Sept 10—An attempted assassination occurred near Dumas Ark last Saturday that is connected with the most sensational features and may be the cause of great bloodshed among two highly connected families and their friends in Desha county, this State

Late on the night of July 4th this State when Miss Sadie Seamonds the daughter of Joshua Seamonds a prominent citizen returned from an entertainment and was about to retire to her room Isaac Bankston who was charmored of her stepped as she alleges from a closet in which he had concealed himself

The young lady screamed and when her parents appeared they saw Bankston run away with a pistol in his hand

He escaped and was indicted for attempted burglary assault and rape, with intent to kill

Returning Friday he surrendered to the authorities He was waylaid Saturday and shot at by the father and brother of Miss Seamonds, as he says

This statement was partly verified in letters and telegrams to States Attorney C M Martin of this city who wired the sheriff of Desha county to arrest all parties to prevent bloodshed

The friends of Miss Seamonds claim that her rejection of young Bankston as a suitor goaded him to the act of entering her room for the purpose of compromising her while the young man asserts that he came by appointment

Young Bankston is the son of Isaac Bankston who was killed while sheriff of Desha county in an impromptu duel at Arkansas City some years ago by Judge Coates who also fell dead The duel was the outcome of a quarrel between the two men over a negro girl

Young Bankston has many friends who believe his statement and they will protect him with their lives

The friends of both parties are determined and are said to have become so deeply interested in the affair that a prolonged and bloody feud is among the possibilities

Sheridan's Interference for an Equine Horse

An interesting story is told here of the late General Phil Sheridan and his horror of an unnatural horse being used in a statue of himself Under the first Cleveland administration Colonel John M. Wilson of the United States engineers was in charge of the public buildings and grounds in the District of Columbia Col Wilson and Gen Sheridan were very good friends and Gen Sheridan took the colonel riding one day and proceeded to Scott Circle where the coachman stopped

General Sheridan spoke of the probability that he would not live very long and that a statue might be erected to him Looking at the amazing horse upon which General Scott is sitting his face turned as it always was in life to the White House General Sheridan said to Colonel Wilson I have one favor to ask and that is if you happen to be again detailed for the same duty as you are now when they are about to construct a statue to me do not put me on a horse like this one that poor Scott is represented as riding If you do I will haunt you

General Sheridan died after Colonel Wilson had been ordered to West Point and now Colonel Wilson is again detailed for the same duty as he was when he and Sheridan took that ride After he returned to Washington Colonel Wilson learned that there were drawings here for an equestrian statue of General Sheridan so Colonel Wilson drove to the meeting of the committee that had charge of the plans for the statue and repeated to them General Sheridan's wishes The result will probably be that the Sheridan statue will not include such a horse as Little Phil detested

The new Broadway firm of A J Dibert & Company is destined without doubt to control a large share of public patronage Mr Dibert's candid manner of presenting his business to public notice is no merely an evidence of his commercial clearsightedness but is to the average person an innovation as refreshingly new as it is presumptive of fair dealings

Mr Dibert will publish in tomorrow's Tribune in the display advertising columns an announcement in line with his effective locals and touching very vigorously upon what he considers is one of the modern vagaries of the drug business

It Gives New Life.

A well-known citizen was overcome with the heat and infirmaty yesterday and fell upon the sidewalk on Washington street near Seventh Several persons ran for physicians and one bystander rushed into Chas A Appeldorn's Oakland Chowder House and returned in a moment with a glass of cool, invigorating wine The prostrate man drank the liquid and was inspired with new life The wine was only one sample of the many kinds of fine wines sold by Mr Appeldorn The old man walked away just as a physician arrived.

SHOWS OF HIGH ORDER.

May Nannary as "Queena" Makes a Hit at the Oakland.

First Nighters Regaled by Excellent Entertainments at the Theaters.

May Nannary and her excellent company of players received a warm welcome by a crowded house at the Oakland theater last evening. "Queena," a society drama peculiarly suited to the gifted young actress, was the bill, and in every incident was a treat to the large audience. Manager Collins had promised to produce the play in a creditable manner. He exceeded the promise and gave a stage setting that was of itself worthy of attention. There was no expense spared in this regard and the result was two scenes which were pictures of artistic beauty. In the second and third acts some beautiful effects were produced in the setting of the scene picturing the American legation in Paris. A dramatic fountain of real water surrounded by a lavish abundance of exotics was the center piece, while the effect was further heightened by new scenery of beautiful design which was painted expressly for the engagement.

The play tells a story of love and a lapse which carries interest with it to the end when husband and wife are reunited through a beautiful child. The drama is touching and the lines give Miss Nannary a wide scope. She has talent more than the ordinary and gives a finished performance of a difficult part. The large audience on the opening night is an indication of the demand that has been aroused for seats during the week. "Queena" will be the attraction throughout the week. It will be followed by "Wife for Wife."

THE MACDONOUGH

The demand for seats for the John Drew engagement is already so large that when the sale commences at the Macdonough the houses will be disposed of very quickly. Manager Cook reports that seldom before has such large advance orders for seats been realized for any engagement. The engagement will be a society event and one of marked interest to theater-goers in Oakland. Due announcement will be made of the opening day of the sale.

THE BALDWIN

The fourth and last week of John Drew at the Baldwin opened very auspiciously last night with the charming love story "Christopher Jr." The leading roles were taken by Drew and Maud Adams both of whom were at their best. The play will be repeated this evening and tomorrow night. The programme for the rest of the week is as follows: Thursday, the "Masked Ball;" Friday, "That Imprudent Young Couple;" Saturday afternoon, "The Butterflies," and Saturady night, "The Bauble Shop" will close the engagement.

THE COLUMBIA.

"The District Attorney," a sterling American drama true to life and carrying consistently a strong plot, was presented last night at the Columbia to a crowded house. The excellent company which has the boards at the dainty Powell street theater was at its best in the play and gave a very enjoyable production. There will be large audiences during the week.

THE ORPHEUM.

Manager Walters has a splendid holiday week bill for his patrons. His programme is alive with novelties and from beginning to end there is no lagging. The acts are bright, fresh and crisp and none of the big audiences leave with that tired feeling which often oppresses those who witness poor performances. The Orpheum maintains its place as foremost in the ranks of the vaudeville resorts.

MOROSCO'S.

"On the Rio Grande," a melodrama replete with startling scenes, situations and effects, called forth a big house at Morosco's last night. The play is well staged and both the matinee performance and the evening production were well attended. The story is laid on the Texan border and is told with strong presentation. It will enjoy a good run.

THE TIVOLI.

The second week of "Faust" had a successful opening. The Tivoli was crowded to the doors. Miss Ida Vallerga made her reappearance as Marguerite. The season of Italian grand opera so favorably opened will be continued next week by the production of "Lucia di Lammermoor."

THE MECHANICS' FAIR.

The big pavilion at Hayes and Larkin street in San Francisco attracts throngs of visitors day and night and the entertainment afforded is sufficient to leave every one satisfied with their visit. The thousands of attractive exhibits of the improvements and advances made in art and the sciences are a treat in themselves. The additional feature of the magnificent School orchestra of fifty pieces is much enjoyed.

AS OTHERS SEE US.

Oakland's auditor is waiting to be furnished by the police with a list of the telegraph and telephone poles in the various parts of the city and then will be in a position to test the ordinance requiring a ground rental of $2 per pole from the companies using the street. Here is a suggestion for the trustees of Alameda. Such a tax may hasten on the problem of laying all such wires under ground. Above ground these poles are neither ornamental nor picturesque.—Alameda Telegram.

It is a satisfaction to know that the two Oakland men who poured coal oil on a rat and set it on fire were found guilty of a misdemeanor, and will be punished. Even a rat is entitled to be killed before it is cremated.—Fresno Republican.

Oaklanders are engaged in a discussion as to whether the lariat or the net is the more humane way of catching stray dogs. Up this way the people are so humane that they don't catch roaming dogs at all, and as a consequence the town is overrun with worthless canines. An anti-dog society is one of the town's needs.—Haywards Review.

The chances are very favorable for the people of Oakland becoming heartily tired of Populism before the next election and cleaning the whole crowd out the next opportunity that presents itself.—Livermore Herald.

Oakland's Wilmerding school site committee has been offered land at Twenty-third avenue, near the cotton mills, at a very low price. It is argued that if the school is located there Alameda, as well as Oakland, will be benefited.—Alameda Telegram.

The bicycle scare at Oakland has not been bothering our riders very much, although this district has some roads that may produce slight tremblers. Spinal-meningitis is something to be dreaded, but our riders of the "bike" all agree to take even chances with the young men who haul grain and sit on a hard board all day trotting the teams over rock roads.—Haywards Review.

For once the public of Oakland has stood in with the Oakland newspapers. The election for bonds, which was supported by the papers, was carried last Saturday.—San Leandro Standard.

Oakland has shown that it will progress rather than retrograde by its carrying of the bond issue. Public improvements will be made, and the sillulans will have to take a back seat.—Haywards Review.

Oakland is to have some more "fun" with the Southern Pacific Company. A movement is now on foot to test the right of the company to charge fare on its local line through the city. The property owners are all up in arms and propose making a bitter fight.—Pleasanton Times.

More railroad talk is going on in Oakland and as usual there is much mystery about matters, but the idea seems to be to build a steam road from Oakland to Stockton. At first glance it might be supposed that the proposed road was to form part of the San Joaquin Valley system, but the information is conveyed that it will be an independent enterprise. Out of all the talk something tangible may come, but so many railroads have been projected and never built that people will want to see the work of construction actually begun before putting any faith in rumors.—Haywards Review.

ODD HAPPENINGS IN EUROPE.

A chapel measuring 9x12 feet will shortly be erected on Mount Blanc, 10,000 feet above the sea level.

Last year thirty-three persons in London lost their lives by the explosion of coal-oil lamps. In twenty-five cases the lamps were glass lamps and it is therefore proposed to prohibit their sale and use.

In France it is a punishable offense for anyone to give infants under one year any form of solid food, unless such be ordered by written prescription signed by a legally qualified medical man.

The Mahometan clergy denounce electricity as a damnable power.

A servant girl at Vienna attempted to commit suicide by a novel method. She undressed and then poured boiling water over herself; being interrupted in this she tried to throw herself from a window. And now she is in her proper sphere—the lunatic asylum.

The smallest clock in the world was on exhibition lately in a jeweller's show-window in Gottingen, Germany. The dial measures less than one-third of an inch in diameter and the weight which furnishes the motive force for twenty-four hours is suspended from a woman's hair.

L'Independence Belge says that a young Hungarian military doctor named Bela Skirvan has been condemned by court-martial to three months' solitary confinement, to the confiscation of his property and the loss of his doctor's diploma, and to degradation to the rank of a private because in a letter to the military authorities he ventured to express his aversion to military service.

Several newspapers in Lissabon, Portugal, with malice aforethought accused the Jesuits of stealing children. Since then, in consequence of these calumniations, many priests have been assaulted on the streets and seriously wounded by the very ignorant and credulous populace. In fact, very vigorous measures were necessary to prevent the assassination of all clericals.

A son of Geheimrath Julius Schwabach, member of the firm of Bleichroeder of Berlin, has shown himself a phenomenal spendthrift. Within eighteen months he squandered over $250,000. He tried his best, or his worst, to prove himself a fin de siecle blade. For instance, while residing in Leipsic, Germany, he sometimes telegraphed to his tailor at Berlin to come to him by special train to take an order. The rich fool is now under guardianship.

The Berlin Echo has discovered that among the Chinese the "milhi" is priced as the most delicious dish. It consists of new-born mice, still blind. They are dipped in oil and then connoisseurs swallow them very slowly. At the marriage feast of the present Emperor of China not less than 5000 of these sleek bonbons glistened on the festive board.

A late official report shows that contrary to common belief cases of religious mania are rare in the British Isles. It also discloses the strange fact that more mental aberration is developed among the tribe of peddlers than among any other class, physicians and druggists coming next. Melancholia prevails most in Ireland.

How densely ignorant the Russian peasants are is shown by the fact that lately a swindler was arrested in the government of Saratow for selling among the peasantry a large number of tickets to the planet Jupiter. Many of the dupes had disposed of everything to buy such a ticket. These would-be emigrants were promised large estates and a life of ease and luxury, of course, and had even been told not to take along the pictures of saints, since on Jupiter they would be likely to make their personal acquaintance.

A piano in a lion cage is the latest stage specialty. It has been introduced by a hitherto obscure female piano teacher who first performed in a lion cage in a menagerie at Dewsburg, England. This experiment is pronounced a grand success. The kingly beasts are said to be very appreciative, and particularly partial to Chopin's airs.

Custom is tyrannical. Hence it is that the English servant maid, whenever she wants to shine when taking an airing, continues to actually hire a soldier from the barracks, glorious in scarlet coat and brass buttons, to accompany her at the rate of not less than six pence per hour. By paying eight or ten pence she may monopolize the soldier's society; otherwise the martial gallant may let out half his smiles and his left arm to another maid at the sixpence rate.

An "only original" circus is now giving performances at Christiana, Norway. The members of the troupe represent various grades of nobility. One baron is director of the educated dogs another baron is a clown, the latter's wife a baroness, charms the public with her songs, a countess beats the cymbals, a marquise twangs the zither, and a duke blows a fife.

Vienese papers state that Czar Nicholas II, is a mere puppet in the hands of his mother. The reign of the Dowager Empress is, however, confined to politics. In court society the young Empress—a Hessian princess with an English education—rules supreme! she has already succeeded in making English the dominant language in court circles, and is endeavoring to supplant Russian with English etiquette and habits. And now the average Russian would not be surprised to learn that the court cats are being taught to bark.

German railroad cars are not comfortable, but German railroad management is fair. For instance, according to a late agreement between the railroads, if a traveler now makes only part of the trip to which his ticket entitles him, the money paid in excess is returned to him, provided the station master of the station where his trip was cut short has certified to the fact on the ticket.

Some of the postoffices in the province of Brandenburg, Prussia, have queer names: Old Nag, Blue Monkey, Flying Horse, Green Deer, Hungry Wolf, Cow Beer, Pig's Whistle, etc. And the Postal Guide for the province shows further an astonishing assortment of foreign names: Annapolis, Ceylon, Charlestown, Beauregard, Corsica, Jerusalem, Jamaica, Malta, Maryland, Ninive, Pensilvanien, Saratoga, Zion, etc., all these lying and situate in the ultra-Prussian province of the ultra-German Kingdom.

AN ESTATE FOUGHT FOR.

Public Administrator Knight Seeking the Cook Property.

W. C. Tripp, However, Insists the Official Has No Control.

W. C. Tripp intends to give Public Administrator Knight a hard fight over the possession of the estate of the late Elizabeth L. Cook, whose confidential advisor Tripp was for five years preceding her death in Oakland last June.

Tripp claims that the estate was conveyed to him in trust by Mrs. Cook a month prior to her decease. It was her wish that he settle it on the terms she dictated and prevent the property from becoming involved in the Probate Court. Her action in the matter has precipitated litigation which may not be settled for several years.

At the outset Public Administrator Knight had Tripp cited before the Superior Court to show cause why he should not deliver the estate into Knight's hands. It was ascertained that Mrs. Cook had died intestate. Major Fred Whitney, representing Knight, made a demand for the property but failed to secure it. Then the proceedings in court were taken.

The hearing upon the order to show cause why the property should not be turned over to Knight has lagged somewhat, but there are fresh suits in the field.

The failure of Tripp to yield to Knight's demand paved the way for another action. Under the statutes of this State, the public administrator may recover double the amount of property held from him if it be shown that the withholding was illegal, so Attorney Whitney commenced such an action.

Along with this came a suit on the part of some of the Eastern relatives of Mrs. Cook. They claimed to have an interest in the estate and sought a distribution.

Tripp, however, is going to fight. He has filed an answer to Knight's second action and takes each section of the complaint and makes a specific denial to the allegations. He says he has not illegally withheld any of the Cook estate from Knight. He will fall back upon the trust deeds and bills of sale which were executed to him before Mrs. Cook's death to show that practically she left no estate. The entire value of the property is not definitely known. It is said to be about $40,000. A house and lot at Tenth and Castro streets is the largest piece of property connected with the estate.

THE COUNTY TAX LEVY.

All Will be Ready for the Board to Act Next Monday.

Next Monday the Supervisors will fix the county tax levy and the levy for each of the fifty or more school districts in the county for the present fiscal year. Auditor Whidden, now that he has received instructions from the District Attorney, is working night and day to complete the various tabulations necessary to inform the Supervisors as to the tax rate required to raise sufficient money to operate the county government for the present fiscal year.

The work is based upon the total valuation on the county assessment rolls as compared with the estimates of expenses furnished through a comparative examination of the cost of operation of last year. The school district levies depend upon the amount of bonded indebtedness the district may have to liquidate.

As soon as the Board officially fixes the tax rate the Auditor will be compelled to go through the assessment rolls and extend the amount of taxes on each assessment. This work must be done and the rolls turned over to the Tax Collector on the first Monday in October.

The Torbett Company.

San Francisco critics give high praise to the performances of the Torbett Concert Company. Of the violinist the Examiner writes: "Miss Ollie Torbett plays with excellent skill. She has perfect command of the bow and fairly won the audience by storm. She was repeatedly encored and rendered a number of solos during the evening, to the delight of her hearers."

The Call man is more pleased with the men singers: "A decided hit was made at the Metropolitan Temple last night by the Swedish male sextette of the Torbett Concert Company. Their singing of Swedish college songs was especially appreciated, and at every point where the singers of the sextet were called upon to appear they were re-demanded again and again."

Mounting a Wheel.

It has long been a mystery to us how our female likers mounted their wheels. At length we had the supreme satisfaction of witnessing the feat, and this is the way she did it, as nearly as we can remember. She placed her left hand on the port end of the steering apparatus; then she put her No. 5½ on the starboard pedal, then she clutched with her right hand some stern sheeting and then a sort of wiggle, up and backward, and while we were winking she was seated, and there was a blue streak skimming the surface like a bird.—Maine Paper.

Did Much Good.

Owing to the very generous gift of $500 which has recently been presented to the West Oakland Home by Mr. and Mrs. John Crellin the managers of that institution have been enabled to cancel the mortgage by which it has been encumbered. All connected with its management feel very grateful for the interest and sympathy thus substantially expressed and have sincere cause for congratulation that the Home is now free from debt.

Judge Frick has appointed H. H. Todd, T. W. Higgenbottom and A. L. McPherson appraisers of the estate of A. W. Ward.

CRACKED HIS SKULL.

Accident to R. P. Valentine of the Oakland Electric Light Company.

His Injuries Are Serious, But It Is Thought Will Not Be Fatal.

A buggy containing A. G. Wiese, Paul Geiler and Richard P. Valentine was struck by an Alameda and Oakland car at the corner of Tenth and Jefferson streets at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The occupants were thrown to the ground, the buggy was smashed and the horse ran away. Mr. Valentine was severely injured, while the others escaped unhurt. He was taken to the Receiving Hospital where it was discovered that his skull was fractured.

The fracture is his skull is at the base of the brain, and while very serious, it is thought will not prove necessarily fatal.

The physicians in attendance, Drs. Dunn and Hamlin, are very much inclined to beleive there is a chance of his recovery, but the siege will be a long one at best.

Valentine is still at the Receiving Hospital, where he remained all night in a semi-conscious condition. He regained his senses this morning sufficiently to recognize his wife, who has been by his side for hours past. The greatest care will have to be taken of the injured man as the fracture while not large, is of sufficient dimensions to warrant extreme caution being displayed in handling him.

The injured man is superintendent of the Oakland Electric Light and Motor Company.

Stephen Hamilton Has Secured Satisfaction From James Costigan.

Stephen Hamilton and James M. Costigan have settled their differences engendered recently over a real estate deal involving an exchange of Fresno acreage property with a lot at Eighth and Harrison streets in Oakland. Hamilton claimed that Costigan had transferred land which Hamilton had only pledged with Costigan as security for a debt. Subsequently, so Hamilton's complaint recited, Costigan mortgaged the lot for $3,000. Hamilton sued to recover the difference between the amount secured on the mortgage and the debt he originally owed which was $867.

Today notice was filed in the Superior Court on the part of Hamilton dismissing the action on the ground that full satisfaction had been rendered by Costigan for all claims Hamilton had set up against him in his suit.

TWENTY CENTS AN HOUR.

The Street Department Is to Adopt a New System.

How It Is Proposed to Avoid the Eight-Hour Law.

The street department will work with the Council in reducing the city's expense. In doing so it does not attempt to cut the pay of any of its employes, but merely to engage them so as to have them work ten hours a day and still comply with the labor laws.

The pay of the street laborers at the present time is $2 a day and under the provisions of the politics' code the men cannot be forced to work over eight hours. This makes the job a "snap" in comparison with the time and salary paid laborers by the private employers. With these the men are compelled to work ten and eleven hours daily and receive but $1.50.

San Francisco has reduced the street expenses by cutting the salaries of the men from $2 to $1.10 a day.

To act in compliance with the labor laws the street department here has advised the City Council to authorize the employment of men at 20 cents an hour. Under this provision those who wish to work ten hours will be permitted to do so but will not be required to work for more than eight.

Up to a short time ago the men employed on the streets were working ten hours, but the Labor Bureau and the Federated Trades objected and of late they have been working but eight. While working for ten hours they were informed by Street Superintendent Miller of the existing labor law and told that if they wished they could take advantage of it without prejudice to themselves. At the same time he told them of the city's need of money and compared its liberality to institutions employing labor. Not a man on the entire force took advantage of the law, but each worked ten hours a day. To further reduce the expenses Mr. Miller advised that sixteen of the street sprinklers be laid off. This will save the city nearly $100 a day.

Bishop Whipple on Indians

"When I went to Minnesota," said he, "Indian affairs were in their worst state. The agents were appointed as a reward for political services. The salary was but $1500 a year, but there was a definite understanding that the position meant a competency for life. The Indians had been dragged down to sorrow their fathers had never known. The Sioux have a very bad reputation now, but for thirty years it was their boast that they had never taken the life of a white man. If the former friendship has been changed to enmity it is our fault.

"The Indian is the noblest type of the wild man in the world. He recognizes the Great Spirit, believes in a future life, has a passionate love for his children, and will lay down his life for his tribe. He is courteous and hospitable. If his bitterest enemy came to his wigwam he would be treated as an honored guest. The world is peopled with spiritual influences to the Indian. There is a spirit in the waterfall, another in the thunder, another in the trees. Everything explainable by science is by the Indian attributed to a spiritual influence. The Indian is proverbially honest, unless he is demoralized by drink.

"In thirty-six years experience with the Indians I never knew one to tell a lie, and I never had a thing stolen by one. I asked an Indian once if it was safe to leave my property in my wigwam while I made a distant journey. He laughed and said: "Quite safe. There isn't a white man within 100 miles of you." Among themselves the Indians are fond of jokes and are often shouting with laughter. They are taciturn, however, in the presence of whites.—Cleveland Leader.

The Ratburners Sentenced.

Judge Wood sentenced Richard Wood and Charles Frank today. They are the individuals charged by the Society of Cruelty to Animals with burning three rats. The defendants made a motion for a new trial, which was denied and in each case the court imposed a fine of $25 or imprisonment for twelve and a half days.

THEY ARE COMRADES NOW.

Veterans of the Blue and Gray Arm-in-Arm at Louisville.

It Is Estimated That There Are 200,000 Strangers in Town.

By Associated Press to the Tribune.

LOUSVILLE, Ky., Sept. 10.—It is doubtful if this city ever before entertained as many guests as are here today.

It is conservatively estimated that nearly 200,000 strangers are here, the majority of whom 30 years ago bore arms either for the blue of for the gray.

But the blue and gray are one today, and the men who were then at war, walk arm in arm as brothers.

The event today was the grand parade of the Naval Veterans Association.

Old citizens say it was the grandest sight they ever saw.

But the great Grand Army parade tomorrow which is to be the event of the week, promises to far surpass it.

There were fully 10,000 men in line.

Of course they were not all veterans of the navy, but these veterans were the center of attraction and were greeted by patriotic cheers from tens of thousands of people.

Last in the parade, riding in carriages, came a score or more veterans of the Mexican war, too feeble to walk.

IN POLICE CIRCLES.

A Number of Wheelmen Pay Forfeit to the City.

Nearly everybody who had money enough to get drunk on had gone to Sacramento and the police did not have the criminal dock at the police court very full today for three days' work. But eight individuals who had hilariously celebrated Admission Day were on hand. Among the lot was Mat Kennedy, at one time a politician in Oakland. He had committed his offense of drunkenness some time ago and had escaped from the arresting officer. He pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for the 12th.

F. Gronowan tried to make the holiday pleasant for Miss F. Podest by taking her for a spin on a wheel. They forgot to carry the required headlight and the gentleman paid the city $1 for his oversight.

John Smith, James Thompson and C. Engleking also paid $2 apiece for not riding their bicycles in compliance with the ordinance.

H. A. Smith, charged with disturbing the peace, pleaded not guilty and his trial was set for September 13th.

John Varia, charged with battery upon Miss Flannigan, pleaded guilty and will be sentenced tomorrow.

Ah Jim, a seller of lottery tickets, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty and forfeited $75 bail.

Wm. Dannaker, the lad who, it is said, robbed the U. P. restaurant on Seventh street, had his arraignment continued to the 15th.

Farmer Caldwell Files His Petition in Insolvency.

A. P. Caldwell, a Contra Costa county farmer, has tired of the struggle against ill fortune and an accumulation of debts which he sees no way to satisfy. He has filed his petition in insolvency in the Superior Court of this county, where most of his creditors reside. His debts, which consist largely of promissory notes, amount to $2,467.70. He owns no real estate. His personal property is valued at $826.57 but $291 worth is exempt from execution. This leaves a balance of $531.0 to apply to the liquidation of his liabilities.

Foreclosure Suits.

J. N. Williams has brought suit against I. S. Gaston to foreclose a mortgage of $2350 upon lots 18 and 19 in the Claremont avenue tract. Included as defendants in the suit are half a dozen building firms in the city who have liens upon the property.

The Fireman's Fund Insurance Company has brought suit against Johanna, R. F. Juliusa and Clara E. Witness F. G. Pierce Commits Suicide at Stockton.

He Was Out of Work and Gloomy, So He Gave Up the Fight.

Chief Kingsbury of the Stockton police telephoned Chief Lloyd this morning F. G. Pierce, summoned as a witness in the case against D. S. Herschel, had committed suicide by poison.

The case of the people against Herschel was to be tried tomorrow and the prosecution had issued a foreign subpoena for Pierce. At the time of his service he told Chief Kingsbury that he was out of work and had no money with which to come to Oakland. He accepted service of the paper, however, when informed of his rights as to the payment of expenses.

The case in which he was wanted was a charge of extortion made against Herschel by Charles Madeson, who claims that Herschel attempted to get money from him for not disclosing the fact that Madeson had been confined in Folsom for two years. The prosecution expected to prove by Pierce that he had heard Herschel make the demand for money.

Pierce was employed for some time in Oakland. He was in the service of the railroad company and worked on the repairs made on the trestle leading to the Alameda mole.

He had been in Stockton for about three months and was stopping at the Garibaldi house. He leaves a wife and family in San Francisco.
